Volume 71, Number 1

The information contained in this Bulletin is accurate as of August 1981. However, Wellesley College reserves the right to make changes at its discretion affecting policies, fees, curricula or other matters announced in this Bulletin.

The Bulletin of Wellesley College (USPS 078-360) is published September, December, January, March, and May by Wellesley College, Green Hall, Wellesley, Mass. 02181. Second-class postage paid at Boston, Mass. Postmaster: Send Form 3579 to Wellesley College Post Office, Green Hall, Wellesley College, Wellesley, Mass. 02181

Wellesley College admits students, without regard to race, color, religion, or national origin, to all the rights, privileges, programs, and activities generally accorded or made available to students at the College. The College does not discriminate, on the basis of race, color, religion or national origin, in administration of its educational policies, admission policies, scholarship and loan programs, athletic and other college-administered programs or in its employment policies.

Wellesley College, as a private, undergraduate educational institution for women, does not discriminate on the basis of sex against its students in the educational programs or activities which it operates, and does not discriminate on the basis of sex in its employment policies, in compliance with the regulations of Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, nor does the College discriminate on the basis of handicap in violation of Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

The College

A student's years at Wellesley College are the beginning—not the end—of an education. The liberal arts curriculum and the great opportunities on campus encourage investigation of diverse interests and intensive work in a single field. The rewards are freedom from preconceptions, the capacity to synthesize new information, and the ability to make critical judgments. These are lifetime skills essential in pursuing personal goals and in participating effectively in the larger community.

Wellesley offers this education in an environment that takes women seriously as individuals, as scholars, and as leaders.

Although Wellesley is more than 100 years old, it continues to reflect the goals of its founder, Henry Fowle Durant. An impassioned believer in equality for women, Durant saw education as the way women could prepare themselves for "great conflicts" and "vast reforms in social life." Wellesley College reaffirmed these early visions in 1971 when, after seriously considering coeducation, it elected to remain a college for women only.

Throughout the years, Wellesley encouraged women to make unconventional choices. The success of past Wellesley graduates in academics, business, law, and medicine have helped to open the way for the students of today who wish to enter these fields. This commitment to prepare women for a full range of life and career opportunities is an integral part of Wellesley's rigorous and demanding academic program.

High academic standards at Wellesley are combined with considerable flexibility of choice for the individual student. There are opportunities for independent study, individually designed majors, and research.

A primary concern in the Wellesley classroom is the development of analytical skills and clarity of expression; to this end, most instructors emphasize writing papers and reports. The average size of classes ranges from 22 to 25 students. Popular introductory courses that enroll more than 100 students include small discussion or conference sections. Upper-level classes and seminars bring together 15 to 20 students and an instructor to investigate clearly defined areas of concern. A low student-faculty ratio offers an excellent opportunity for qualifying students to undertake individual work with faculty on honors projects and research.

Wellesley's faculty—of which 55 percent are women—bring to the College diverse academic and professional interests. Poets, novelists, artists, musicians, scientists, political and economic analysts, the members of the faculty are scholars dedicated to teaching and to sharing their experience with students. A number live on or near the campus, and they take part in many aspects of College life.

Wellesley's outstanding resources and facilities are administered with the policy that all students, whether majors or nonmajors, will have access to the resources they need to pursue their interests in all departments.

The Margaret Clapp Library has an extensive general collection containing original source material from special collections. In addition to the facilities of the main library, many departments have their own libraries. In the sciences, the new Science Center brings together all the science departments, including mathematics and computer science, in a contemporary setting that fosters interdisciplinary studies.

Wellesley's strength in the sciences dates to the nineteenth century, when the College's physics laboratory was the second such laboratory in the country (the first was at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology). Laboratories in the new Science Center are completely equipped for a wide variety of fields. Other scientific resources at Wellesley include a central library, greenhouses, and an observatory.

Students in the arts find excellent facilities in the Jewett Arts Center which has a teaching museum, libraries, practice rooms, studios, and an auditorium. Each year the Museum has several exhibitions of students' work, and Jewett is also used for students' concerts and recitals.

The Wellesley curriculum is extended through opportunities for cross registration with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, exchange programs with other colleges, and study abroad.

Wellesley-MIT cross registration allows students to combine the strengths of these two very different institutions. MIT men and women come to Wellesley for such courses as psychology, economics, and art history. Wellesley women travel to MIT for such classes as urban planning, political science, and photography. Buses shuttle hourly along the 12 mile route between the two campuses.

The Twelve College Exchange Program each year brings men and women from other New England colleges to Wellesley for a semester or a year, and enables Wellesley students to live and study on another campus. An exchange between Wellesley and Spelman College, a distinguished Black liberal arts college for women in Atlanta, Georgia, was inaugurated in 1974-75.

Wellesley also offers opportunities for study abroad through the Slater, Waddell, and Stecher scholarship programs. The Slater program contributes to the cost of attending European institutions for a semester or academic year, and it brings Slater Fellows from abroad to the Wellesley campus. The Waddell program provides funds for study in Caribbean countries or in Africa. The Stecher program enables students to study art abroad either during the academic year or in the summer. Wellesley is a member of the consortium governing a program in Cordoba, Spain (PRESICO) and is a participating institution in several associations which sponsor programs abroad. The College gives assistance to students making individual arrangements for study in foreign universities, either by direct enrollment or through programs administered by other colleges.

One advantage of women's colleges is the opportunity for women to assume leadership in college organizations and activities. These options frequently are limited for women in coeducational institutions where extracurricular activities can be dominated by male students.

Wellesley students serve on almost all major committees of the Board of Trustees, including the Investment Committee, and on committees of the Academic Council, including the Board of Admission and the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction. Students are voting members of most committees on which they serve. In many academic departments, they are nonvoting members of curriculum and faculty search committees, and they also serve on committees that set policy for residential life and govern Schneider College Center, the focus for much student and community activity on campus.

The Wellesley College Government Association was established in 1918 by student and faculty agreement and is the official organization of all Wellesley students. Through its representative student Senate, appointments to College committees, student organizations, and a variety of programming and policy groups, students are fully involved in all areas affecting student life. College Government officers are elected each spring on a campuswide basis, and Senate representatives are elected in each residence hall and by the Nonresident Association. College Government policy and programming groups are advised by the Dean of Students or a representative member of her staff.

Students also have numerous outlets for self-expression through involvement in such activities as theatre and musical groups, student publications, and sports.

Each week brings lectures, poetry readings, films, exhibitions, and performances in dance, theatre, and music. Visiting artists and lecturers frequently offer master classes for interested students; receptions and informal dinners provide further occasions for students to talk with distinguished men and women.

While Wellesley encourages the participation of its students in events and activities designed to heighten their awareness of the world around them, a student's inner development and her search for personal and spiritual values are also important parts of a Wellesley education. Over the past few years, there has been an increasing interest in ethical and religious issues and activities. The chaplaincy sponsors special seminars and programs in which students can explore these issues as well as share with one another the celebration of religious holidays. The chaplaincy provides a religious program embracing many faiths and also offers denominational programs for those who wish to participate.

The development of social responsibility and social responsiveness is an integral and continuing part of Wellesley's heritage. Students are encouraged to participate in and contribute to the communities of Boston as well as the Wellesley College community. Their activities range from tutoring with the MIT-Wellesley Upward Bound Program to internships in urban legal studies.

As an individual learns and grows, so, too, does a community. It explores and seeks alternatives and remains open to innovation. The past several years at Wellesley have witnessed marked changes in the curriculum and academic policies as well as in policies governing students' lives on campus. These changes are a continuing process and rest on a foundation of sound academic and social values. They come about through the efforts of individuals who influence and shape the College environment.

In its desire to create the best possible education for women, Wellesley continues to seek solutions to problems faced by both men and women in a changing society. It is looking, too, at its own community, and is trying to make it a better place in which to work, study, and grow. It is exploring new patterns of work, new ways for campus groups to communicate more effectively with one another, and new styles of residential life.

Each student who comes to Wellesley College joins an extended community; the support and involvement of the alumnae add an important dimension to the College's life. One reason for Wellesley's leadership among colleges and universities is the success of its alumnae who have pioneered in all areas of life. Some have been outstanding scholars and researchers, others have been leaders in science, politics and women's rights; still others have made important contributions to their communities through volunteer work.

Life at Wellesley is influenced by the location of the College. The 500-acre campus—a rural setting on the shores of Lake Waban—is only thirty five minutes from Metropolitan Boston and its many cultural offerings.

Whatever one's life choice and goal, a Wellesley education provides women with intellectual and personal growth that continues long after the college years.

Inquiries & Visits

Wellesley welcomes inquiries and visits to the College from prospective students, their parents, and other interested individuals. For those who would like more detailed information on many of the programs and opportunities described in this catalog, the College publishes a number of brochures and booklets. These publications, as well as answers to any specific questions, may be obtained by writing to the appropriate office as listed.

For those who would like to visit the College, the administrative offices in Green Hall are open Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and by appointment on Saturday mornings during term time. Special arrangements for greeting prospective students can also be made during vacation periods. Rooms for alumnae and for parents of students or prospective students are available on the campus in the Wellesley College Club and may be reserved by writing to the club manager.

A prospective student who wishes to arrange an interview with a member of the professional staff of the Board of Admission should make an appointment well in advance.

Student guides provide tours for visitors without previous appointment. Visitors to the College may call the Board of Admission prior to their visit to arrange a mutually convenient time for the tour.

The Campus

Wellesley College has a campus of more than 500 acres bordering on Lake Waban. There are woodlands, hills and meadows, an arboretum, ponds, and miles of footpaths. In this setting are 64 buildings, with architectural styles ranging from Gothic to contemporary. The focal point of the campus is the Galen Stone Tower, named for its donor, which rises 182 feet. From the top one sees not only the whole Wellesley campus, but the outlines of Boston and Cambridge, an exciting area of which Wellesley is very much a part.

Facilities and Resources

The broad scope of Wellesley's curriculum is supported by excellent academic facilities, ranging from large lecture halls to study carrels, from tools to create art to equipment for advanced scientific research. Of equal importance to the quality of its academic facilities is the College's policy of making them available to all students; even those facilities outside a student's principal interests will enrich her educational experience.

Classrooms

The two primary classroom buildings, Founders Hall and Pendleton Hall, are located in the academic quadrangle. The humanities are taught in Founders and the social sciences in Pendleton East.

Science Center

The Science Center houses the departments of astronomy, biological sciences, chemistry, geology, mathematics, physics, psychology, and the laboratories of computer science and human performance. In the Center are the teaching and research laboratories: an extensive array of sophisticated facilities and equipment. Special equipment includes two electron microscopes, two NMR spectrometers, and an X-ray diffractometer. There are also environmental rooms, animal quarters, a holograph room and closed circuit TV.

The Science Center also houses the Science Library, comprised of over 66,000 volumes from five separate departmental collections. Group study rooms, carrels, audiovisual and tutorial rooms, copying equipment and microfilm facilities are under the supervision of a trained science librarian.

Greenhouses

Classrooms in the biological sciences department open directly into the Margaret C. Ferguson Greenhouses, named after a former Wellesley professor of botany. The climate in the greenhouses ranges from temperate to tropic with many excellent examples of trees and flowers which flourish in the respective temperatures. There is considerable space for experiments by faculty and students. The greenhouses are open to the public throughout the year.

Observatory

The Whitin Observatory contains laboratories, classrooms, darkroom, and the library of the astronomy department. Its research equipment includes a 6-inch, a 12-inch, and a 24-inch telescope. The observatory was a gift of Mrs. John C. Whitin, a former trustee of the College. It was built in 1900, enlarged in 1962 and 1966, and is considered to be an unusually fine facility for undergraduate training in astronomy.

Computer Facilities

Many courses and research projects at Wellesley involve the use of a computer. The College has its own DEC-20 computer with access on a time-sharing basis to other computers in New England. It is housed in the Henry David Tishman Computer Laboratory. Computer terminals are located in the Public Terminal Room of the Margaret Clapp Library, in the Science Center, and at various locations in academic buildings.

Arts Center

The Jewett Arts Center, completed in 1958 consists of the Mary Cooper Jewett art wing and the Margaret Weyerhaeuser Jewett music and drama wing. Linking the two buildings is the Wellesley College Museum.

The Museum is open to the general public. It includes a fine collection of classical, medieval and renaissance sculpture, old master paintings, prints and drawings, and twentieth century art. In addition to the permanent collection, many loan exhibitions are presented throughout the academic year.

The art wing contains photography darkrooms, classrooms, an extensive library, and offices of the art department and museum. The music and drama wing contains the music library, listening rooms, practice studios, and classrooms and offices of the music department. A collection of musical instruments of various periods is available to students.

The Jewett Auditorium, a theatre seating 320 persons, was designed for chamber music performances, and is also used for special events. In addition, there are rehearsal rooms and other theatre facilities.

Pendleton West, part of the Arts Center, contains laboratories, studios, a sculpture foundry, an extension of the Music Library, the choir rehearsal room, and a concert salon.

Margaret Clapp Library

The third enlargement and complete remodeling of the Margaret Clapp Library was finished in 1975. At the center of the modern and functional building is the reference room which distinguished the original building erected in 1910.

The library's holdings contain more than 600,000 volumes and an important collection of public documents. Subscriptions to periodicals number over 2,600. Interlibrary loans through the Boston Consortium of Academic and Research Libraries augment the College's own collections.

The Special Collections include letters, manuscripts, and rare books and the Archives contain materials documenting the history of Wellesley. The language laboratory and a listening room for the collection of spoken and dramatic recordings are in the library. A lecture room is available for meetings.

Child Study Center

The Child Study Center in the Anne L. Page Memorial Building is a pre-school and laboratory which serves the College and the neighboring community. Under the direction of the Psychology Department, students and faculty from any discipline can study, observe, conduct approved research, volunteer or assistant teach in classes with children ages 2 to 5. In addition to the observation and testing booths at the Center, there is a Developmental Laboratory at the Science Center; modern equipment is available at both locations.

Physical Education Facilities

Classes for all indoor sports and dance are conducted in Mary Hemerway Hall and in the nearby Recreation Building. The latter has game rooms, badminton and squash courts, a swimming pool, a practice dance studio, basketball backboards, volleyball courts, and an athletic training facility. Outdoor water sports center around the boathouse where the canoes, sailboats, and crew shells are kept. Wellesley also maintains a 9-hole golf course, 24 tennis courts, hockey, soccer and lacrosse fields, a ski slope, and a swimming beach.

Alumnae Hall

The largest auditorium on the campus, seating 1,500 people, is in Alumnae Hall. The Hall also has a large ballroom and houses the Wellesley College Theatre and the College radio station, WZLY. Visiting lecturers, concert artists, and professional theatre groups often appear there. The building was erected in 1923 and is the gift of Wellesley alumnae.

Chapel

The Houghton Memorial Chapel was presented to Wellesley in 1897 by the son and daughter of William S. Houghton, a former trustee of the College. The chapel's stained glass windows commemorate the founders and others, while a tablet by Daniel Chester French honors Alice Freeman Palmer, Wellesley's second president. The chapel, which seats 1,000 people, is a setting for lectures and community meetings as well as religious services.

Schneider College Center

The center for extracurricular life at the College is Schneider College Center. Its facilities provide lounge areas, a snack bar, meeting rooms, offices for student organizations, and a coffee house. It also contains the offices of the Center Director, the Director of Residence, and the Chaplain.

Harambee House and Slater International Center are complementary adjuncts to Schneider.

Harambee House

Harambee House is the cultural and social center for the Black community at Wellesley. Diverse program offerings, which highlight various aspects of Black culture, are open to the College community. Harambee has a growing library of the history and culture of African and Afro-American peoples and boasts a record library (classical-jazz by Black artists), which is housed in the Jewett Music Library. The House also contains offices for the staff, Ethos (the Black student organization), and Brown Sister (a literary magazine), as well as rooms for seminars, meetings, and social gatherings.

Slater International Center

Slater International Center is an informal meeting place for foreign and American students and faculty. The Center serves campus organizations that have an interest in international affairs and helps to sponsor seminars and speakers on international topics. Located in the Center is the Foreign Students Office which handles immigration and gives other counseling to students from abroad. Slater Center is the headquarters for the Slater International Association, providing a place where foreign students may study, cook, entertain, and get to know each other better. The Executive Committee, composed of students and the Foreign Student Advisor, shares the responsibility for the policies and programs of the Center.

La Casa

La Casa serves as the center for Alianza, the organization for Puerto Rican, Chicana, and American Indian students. Located in La Casa are a kitchen, offices, and a common room with a library and record collection.

Beit Shalom

Beit Shalom, the religious, cultural, and social center for the Wellesley Jewish community, houses study rooms and kosher kitchen facilities as well as a dining room for Sabbath dinners. The College does not provide kosher meals as part of a meal plan.

Society Houses

There are three society houses for special interest groups. Each house has kitchen and dining facilities, a living room, and other gathering rooms. Members are drawn from all four classes, beginning with second semester freshmen. Shakespeare House is a center for students interested in Shakespearean drama; Tau Zeta Epsilon House is oriented around art and music; and Zeta Alpha House provides a setting for students with an interest in modern drama.

Green Hall

The offices of the president, the board of admission, the deans, and all administrative offices directly affecting the academic and business management of the College are located in Green Hall. The building has large rooms for Academic Council and trustee meetings, class and seminar rooms, and some faculty offices. Named for Hetty R. Green, the building was erected in 1931.

Infirmary

Simpson Infirmary is a licensed hospital, approved by the American Hospital Association, with an outpatient clinic built in 1942. It is connected to the original infirmary which was built in 1881.

President's House

The President's House, formerly the country estate of Wellesley's founders, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fowle Durant, is located on a hill just south of the main campus. The spacious lawns border Lake Waban. Remodeled and renovated in 1968, it is frequently the scene of alumnae and trustee gatherings as well as receptions for distinguished visitors, for entering students, and for graduating seniors and their parents.

Wellesley College Club

The Wellesley College Club is a center for faculty, staff, and alumnae. Its reception and dining rooms are open to members, their guests, and parents of students for lunch and dinner and are also used for many special occasions. Overnight accommodations are also available for alumnae and for parents of students and prospective students.

Wellesley College Center for Research on Women

The Center for Research on Women was established in the summer of 1974 by a grant from the Carnegie Corporation and is currently supported by the Ford Foundation, Time, Inc., and a variety of private foundations, government agencies, corporations, and individuals. The Center conducts policy-oriented studies of women's educational, work, and family needs and examines paid and unpaid work in the context of increasing life choices for both men and women.

Student Life

Intellectual growth is only part of the realization of one's talents and abilities. Wellesley College offers many opportunities for a student to develop self-confidence, leadership skills, and a sense of social responsibility through participation in student organizations and college governance.

Many student groups reflect ethnic, social, political, and religious interests. Some of these organizations are Alianza, an association of Chicana, American Indian, and Puerto Rican students; Ethos, an organization of Black students; the Asian Association, composed of Asian and Asian-American students; the Women's Alliance, a group interested in feminist issues; and the Nonresident Council. Religious groups such as the Newman Club, the Wellesley Christian Fellowship, Hillel, the Black Christian Fellowship, Canterbury Club, and Christian Scientists offer many programs throughout the year.

Students are also responsible for a number of publications, among them Wellesley News, the weekly student newspaper; Legenda, the College yearbook; Brown Sister, a student publication for and about Third World women; New Voice, a biannual publication devoted to social and political issues; WRagtime and the Galen Stone Review, literary publications. WZLY, the campus radio station, is operated by an all-student staff.

Sports are a significant part of life at Wellesley. There are ten intercollegiate teams, and numerous opportunities for competition in the intramural program. Other students pursue physical education just for fun, or to stay in shape. Interests range from yoga and fencing to dance and scuba diving. The College has good facilities and Lake Waban, on the campus, is used for water sports and ice skating.

The arts have always been a highly visible part of the Wellesley experience. The College Choir, the Madrigals, the Tupelos, the Collegium Musicum, the Chamber Music Society, the Chapel Choir, the Ethos Choir, the Carillonners Guild, and the MIT Orchestra all offer experiences for students with interests in music. Those inclined toward the theatre can choose among the Wellesley College Theatre, the Experimental Theatre, the Shakespeare Society, and the Wellesley College Black Repertory Total Theatrical Experience.

Life at Wellesley also includes a number of traditional social events. Fall Weekend, Sophomore Parents' Weekend, Spring Weekend, and International Week are supplemented by frequent informal parties.

Schneider Center, which also has a coffee house, conference rooms, and a student-run store, is the location for much community activity. Supplementing the facilities and resources of Schneider are Slater International Center, which is the frequent setting for international events and celebrations, and Harambee House, the social and cultural center of the Black community at Wellesley. Throughout the year, Harambee sponsors such events as lectures and dance performances, many in conjunction with the Black Studies department. Beit Shalom is the center for the Wellesley Jewish students and La Casa is the center for members of Alianza.

Student Residence and Resources

Although some students live off campus, most live in one of Wellesley's seventeen residence halls. As a largely residential community—and for nonresident students as well—the College provides the counseling, religious, and health services necessary to ensure the spiritual and medical health of the population.

Residence Halls

The residence halls are the focus of much campus life. Each has a character of its own. Much of the informal learning at Wellesley takes place in spontaneous discussions and debates in the residence halls. The diversity of Wellesley's students, who bring to the College differing life styles and cultural backgrounds, contributes much to this process.

The residence hall system at Wellesley is designed to foster a sense of community, with most of the routine administration and program planning left to the individuals who live within the community. Within this principle of student self-government, the halls offer many opportunities for residents to assume leadership positions.

The residence experience is also likely to include lectures, faculty, staff and alumnae Guests in Residence, group discussions, dinners with faculty members, and parties. One tradition, initiated in the early years of the College, is Wednesday Tea—an informal occasion which continues to attract many students.

Members of all four classes live in most of the halls. Each residence hall also has a professional Head of House, with the exception of Stone, Davis, Simpson, Homestead, Crawford, Freeman, and Pomeroy, which are staffed by students. The Heads of House and the student staff House Presidents serve as advisors and counselors to individuals and groups in the residence halls and as a liaison to the College community. A student Resident Advisor is situated on each floor and provides assistance to floor residents.

Students in the larger residence halls elect a House Council which administers the day-to-day details of living. The Vice President of Programming and her committee in each hall plan a variety of social, cultural, and educational events throughout the year. Each residence also elects representatives to the Senate, and these students consult with members of the residence hall on campus-wide issues and convey opinions of their constituencies to the student government.

A residential policy committee reviews many aspects of residential life and is developing ways to involve students in all areas of residential policy making. The Residence Office has been working to strengthen the involvement of faculty, staff, and alumnae in residence hall life.

Most of the residence halls contain single rooms, double rooms, and some suites. Incoming freshmen are placed in double rooms. The cost of all rooms is the same, regardless of whether they are shared, and students are required to sign a residence contract. Each hall has a spacious living room, smaller common rooms, and a study room. All but five have dining facilities, and in the remaining halls, facilities are open on a five-day or seven-day basis. There are limited kitchenette facilities in the halls for preparing snacks or for use when entertaining. Each building is equipped with coin-operated washers and dryers.

The College supplies a bed, desk, chair, lamp, bookcase, and bureau for each resident student. Students may rent linen or supply their own. Students supply blankets, quilts, and their own curtains, pictures, rugs, and posters. They clean their own rooms and contribute two or three hours a week answering the telephones and doing other miscellaneous jobs which are scheduled by the student heads of work.

Seventeen residence halls are grouped in three areas of the campus: Bates, Freeman, McAfee, Simpson, Dower, Homestead, Stone, and Davis are near the Route 16 entrance to the campus; Tower Court, Severance, Crawford House, and Claflin are situated off College Road in the Center of the campus; and Shafer, Pomeroy, Cazenove, Beebe, and Munger are located by the Route 135 entrance to the College.

The residence halls vary in size. Most house between 115 and 140 students, while one hall houses approximately 250 students. Three halls house less than 25 students.

Counseling and Advising Resources

The offices of the Dean of Students offer a wide range of counseling and advising services for individuals and groups of students.

Counseling is readily available. Many students feel the need to talk with someone other than friends and roommates about personal matters during their college careers, whether their concerns are large or small, affecting their daily life, or a part of sorting out their sense of purpose or direction. Students are encouraged to utilize the Counseling Services.

The staff of the Stone Center for Developmental Services and Studies, the College counseling service, provides short-term counseling and psychotherapy. On the staff are professionals who have an interest in individual and group counseling and in preventive mental health. They are trained in a variety of fields including psychiatry, psychology, and psychiatric social work. Long-term psychotherapy is not provided at the College, but the resources for such treatment are readily available in the Greater Boston area. The counseling service can help students locate appropriate long-term therapists. Complete professional confidentiality is maintained at all times.

Members of the staff of the Dean of Students are available to discuss personal and academic concerns with students. They include the Residence Office staff, Heads of House and student staff in residence halls, the Nonresident Advisor, the student activities staff in Schneider College Center, Harambee House, Slater International Center, and the Chaplain and religious groups advisors.

Religious Resources

Wellesley seeks to respond sensitively to a variety of religious traditions. The College encourages independent religious involvement on the part of its students.

The College chaplaincy offers diverse religious, personal growth, and social action programs as well as service opportunities. The Chaplain and other members of the chaplaincy staff are regularly available for religious and personal counseling.

The Chaplain also officiates at regular Sunday morning worship, an ecumenically oriented Protestant service in Houghton Memorial Chapel with guest preachers invited during the year. Attendance at all worship services is voluntary.

Catholic masses are offered on campus on Sundays and Thursdays, as well as a number of other programs sponsored by the Newman Catholic Ministry. Jewish students will find a varied schedule, including High Holiday services and a koshered kitchen. Many activities are also sponsored by other religious groups on campus.

Students may also major in religion or take elective courses in the field.

College Health Service

The services of the College physicians, counselors, and nurses are available at Simpson Infirmary which includes a licensed hospital and an outpatient clinic. Regular full-time students and part-time Continuing Education students who carry three or more courses are eligible for care. There is no health fee. Appropriate charges are made for inpatient care (medical, surgical, or psychiatric). These services are usually covered by insurance. There are no charges for outpatient treatment except laboratory studies, elective examinations or procedures, immunizations and treatment of pre-existing or ongoing conditions. A College-sponsored student insurance plan is available. Boston has long been one of the major medical centers in the country, and consultation with specialists in all medical fields is easily available.

Besides the usual care given by College Health Services, members of the staff establish programs to expand the use of the health services and arrange special programs in response to student interests.

The confidentiality of the doctor-patient relationship is carefully preserved. College medical personnel will not share any medical information concerning a student with any College authorities, or with the parents of students, without the written consent of the student. It may be necessary to disclose minimal information to insurance companies for verification of medical claims. Students are required to enroll in the College Student Health Insurance Plan unless they have equivalent coverage.

Parents are requested to sign a statement authorizing the College to proceed with appropriate treatment in the case of serious illness or emergency in the event they cannot be reached by telephone.

Student Government

Throughout its history the College has based its policies regarding student life upon the concepts of personal integrity, respect for individual rights, and student self-government. The rules and procedures governing student life reflect these concepts, and are designed chiefly to ensure the privacy and safety of individuals. Legislation concerning all aspects of Wellesley community life is contained in the Articles of Government, copies of which are available to all students.

Honor Code

Inherent in Wellesley's system of democratic government, and its accompanying law, is the honor code. As the vital foundation of government, the honor code rests on the assumption that individual integrity is of fundamental value to each member of the community. Within the philosophy of self-government, the personal honor and responsibility of each individual as he or she approaches both the regulated and nonregulated areas of academic, social, and residence hall life in the Wellesley community are of central importance.

The honor code covers all duly adopted rules of the College for the government of academic work, for the use of college resources and for the special conduct of its members. Each student—degree candidate, exchange student, and special student—is bound by all the rules.

Each student is expected to live up to the honor code, as a member of the student body of Wellesley College both on and off the campus. She should also remember that she is subject to federal, state, and local laws which are beyond the jurisdiction of Wellesley College.

The honor code can work only with full support among all members of the College community. In addition to upholding the regulations and spirit of the honor code personally, both students and faculty are responsible for the survival and success of the system as a whole. This includes guarding against and, if necessary, reporting any inadvertent or intentional abuses of the honor code by any member of the community.

College Government

Most of the legislation and regulations guiding student life is enacted and administered by the student College Government, of which all students are members. Responsibilities delegated by the Board of Trustees to the College Government include governance of all student organizations, appointment of students to College committees, allocation of student activities monies, and administration of the Honor Code and judicial process. Many of these responsibilities are assumed by Senate, the elected legislative body of College Government, which also provides the official representative voice of the student body.

Serious violations of the Honor Code are adjudicated through the student Judicial System. Three separate branches of the Judicial System address infractions of residence hall violations, violations of academic principles, and the appeal process.

Confidentiality of Student Records

Maintenance of the confidentiality of individual student educational records has been and continues to be important at Wellesley, as is a concern for the accuracy of each record. Under the provisions of the federal Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, every Wellesley student is assured the right to inspect and review all college records, files, and data directly related to her, with certain exceptions such as medical and psychiatric records, confidential recommendations submitted before January 1, 1975, records to which the student has waived her right of access, and financial records of the student's parents. The student may also seek a correction or deletion where a record is felt to be inaccurate, misleading, or otherwise in violation of the privacy or other rights of the student. The Privacy Act also protects the privacy of personally identifiable information maintained in student records by prohibiting the release of such information (other than those facts defined below as "Directory Information") without the written consent of the student, except to persons such as officials or teachers within the College who have a legitimate educational interest in seeing the information, officials of other institutions in which the student seeks to enroll, the student's parents if the student is a dependent for tax purposes, and certain other persons and organizations.

The final regulations for the Act make clear that, in the case of students who are dependents of their parents for Internal Revenue Service purposes, information from the education records of the student may be disclosed to the parents without the student's prior consent. It is the policy of the College to notify both the student and her parents in writing of academic warnings, probationary status, and dismissal. It will be assumed that every student is a dependent of her parents, as defined by the Internal Revenue Code, unless notification to the contrary with supporting evidence satisfactory to the College is filed in writing with the Registrar by October 1 of each academic year. In communications with parents concerning other matters, it is normally College policy to respect the privacy of the student and not to disclose information from student education records without the prior consent of the student.

Copies of the Privacy Act, the regulations therein and the "Wellesley College Guidelines on Student Records" are available on request from the Office of the Dean of Students. Students wishing to inspect a record should apply directly to the office involved. Complaints concerning alleged noncompliance by the College with the Privacy Act, which are not satisfactorily resolved by the College itself, may be addressed in writing to the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act Office, Department of Education, 550 Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20201.

Directory Information

The Privacy Act gives to Wellesley the right to make public at its discretion, without prior authorization from the individual student, the following personally identifiable information: name; class year; home address and telephone number; college address and telephone number; major field; date and place of birth; dates of attendance at Wellesley College; degrees, honors and awards received; weight and height of student athletes; participation in officially recognized sports and activities; previous educational institution most recently attended.

The Privacy Act also allows individual students to place limitations on the release of any of the above information. A student who wishes to do this must file a special form with the Registrar, Green Hall, each year by July 1 for the following academic year.

In practice, College policies discourage the indiscriminate release of any information about individual students. College directories and lists are for use within the College community itself.

Career Services

The Office for Careers provides a complete range of services, and students are encouraged to maintain contact with the Office throughout their careers at Wellesley.

All services are available to alumnae.

The Resource Center, open Monday through Friday, 10:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., houses information on specific professions and career options, graduate and professional study, entrance examination requirements, and opportunities for work and study abroad.

The Office maintains a file of alumnae who are willing to talk to students about their graduate study and/or career experience. The Office also sponsors a wide variety of programs that bring alumnae back to the campus to discuss their personal and professional working lives.

Counseling

Individual appointments for advice and discussion of career goals are arranged through the Office for Careers. Many students who are unsure of their future plans find that the counselors aid them in establishing broad goals. The first appointment is often spent in establishing a relationship between student and counselor so that the advice and assistance may be tailored to the individual. "Drop in" hours are held four afternoons and five mornings a week on a first come, first served basis for students who wish to share news or ask brief questions.

Group counseling sessions are held to explore areas of common concern about either broad career related topics or specific occupations. Group workshops on such topics as career goal setting, resume writing and interviewing are available, and they take a variety of forms from simple discussion to role playing and group critique. A vocational interest inventory is available to all students.

Recruiting

The Office for Careers arranges interviews with recruiters from over 50 companies. Students are notified of impending visits by postings in the Office, in the Weekly Bulletin and in the Career Planning News, and are advised to consult with a career counselor prior to the interview.

Job Notices

Job notebooks are maintained by the Office staff and are open to all students and alumnae. Notices of job openings are filed in these notebooks as they are received by the Office. A job bulletin Newsletter is sent to alumnae upon request.

Graduate Schools

Students seeking information on the academic programs at specific graduate and professional schools should speak with their academic advisors and members of the faculty as well as career counselors. The Office for Careers provides complete assistance and materials for application to graduate school, including graduate school and professional school examinations, copies of recommendations solicited by the students but maintained on file at the Office, and advice on completing graduate school applications.

Internships

The Office for Careers is the center for information concerning all internships and can direct students to the appropriate faculty members for those programs administered by college academic departments. All internships require early application and considerable planning; students interested in internships should consult a counselor well in advance.

Scholarships and Fellowships

The Office for Careers provides information and assistance on a wide variety of scholarships and fellowships, some for very specific institutions or fields of interest, and others with more general application. A full listing and description of scholarships and fellowships is maintained in the Resource Center.

Recommendations

All students are encouraged to build a reference file; all references will be forwarded to schools and employers upon request. In addition to recommendations from faculty, students should consider obtaining references from summer employers, from responsible individuals with whom the student has worked on internships or special programs, and from faculty members at schools she attends on exchange programs. The Office provides standard recommendation forms acceptable to graduate schools and employers unless forms are provided in application materials.

Admission

The Board of Admission chooses students who will benefit from and contribute to the type of education offered at Wellesley and be able to meet the standards for graduation from the College. Consideration is given to creativity and high motivation as well as strong academic potential.

The Board of Admission considers each application on its merits and does not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, color, creed, or national origin. In accordance with its desire to maintain diversity in its student body, Wellesley College encourages applications from qualified students who come from a wide variety of cultural, economic, and ethnic backgrounds.

The Board of Admission at Wellesley is composed of representatives of the faculty, the administration, and the students. In selecting the candidates who will comprise the student body, the Board of Admission considers a number of factors: high school records, rank in class, scholastic aptitude and achievement test scores, letters of recommendation from teachers and principals, the student's own statements about herself and her activities, and the interview reports of the staff or alumnae. The Board of Admission values evidence of unusual talent and involvement in all areas of academic and social concern.

Each application is evaluated with care. The admission decision is never made on the basis of a single factor. For instance, the Board recognizes that standardized tests do not measure motivation or creativity and that scores may be influenced by the student's experience with timed examinations. Each part of the application, however, contributes to a well rounded appraisal of a student's strengths and is useful in attempting to predict whether Wellesley would be the right place for her to continue her education.

Criteria for Admission

General Requirements for Freshman Applicants

Wellesley College does not require a fixed plan of secondary school courses as preparation for its program of studies. However, entering students normally have completed four years of strong college preparatory studies in secondary school. Adequate preparation includes training in clear and coherent writing and in interpreting literature, training in the principles of mathematics (usually a minimum of three years), competence in at least one foreign language, ancient or modern (usually achieved through three or four years of study), and experience in at least one laboratory science and in history.

Students planning to concentrate in mathematics, in premedical studies, or in the natural sciences are urged to elect additional courses in mathematics and science in secondary school. Students planning to concentrate in language or literature are urged to study a modern foreign language and Latin or Greek before they enter college.

There are often exceptions to the preparation suggested here, and the Board will consider an applicant whose educational background varies from this general description.

The Application

Application forms may be obtained from the Board of Admission. A nonrefundable fee of $25 must accompany the formal application. If the application fee imposes a burden on the family's finances, a letter from the applicant's guidance counselor requesting a fee waiver should be sent to the Director of Admission with the application for admission.

The Interview

A personal interview is required of each applicant. If it is not possible for a candidate to come to the College for an interview, she should write to the Board of Admission for the name of an alumna interviewer in the candidate's local area. A high school junior just beginning to think about colleges may arrange for an informal conversation with an alumna or member of the Board. The Board of Admission is closed for interviews from February 15 to April 1; however, tours will still be given by student guides during this time.

Campus Visit

Students who are seriously considering Wellesley will have a better understanding of student life at Wellesley if they can arrange to spend a day on campus. Candidates are welcome to attend classes, eat in the residence halls, and talk informally with Wellesley students. Prospective students who plan to spend some time exploring the College are urged to notify the Board of Admission in advance so that tours, interviews, meals, and attendance at classes can be arranged before arrival on campus. Overnights in the residence halls can also be arranged for high school seniors.

College Entrance Examination Board Tests

The Scholastic Aptitude Test and three Achievement Tests of the College Entrance Examination Board (CEEB) are required of all applicants for admission. One Achievement Test must be the English Composition or English Composition with Essay Test.

Each applicant is responsible for arranging to take the tests and for requesting CEEB to send to Wellesley College the results of all tests taken. CEEB sends its publications and the registration forms necessary to apply for the tests to all American secondary schools and many centers abroad. The applicant may obtain the registration form at school, or may obtain it by writing directly to CEEB, Box 692, Princeton, New Jersey 08540; or in western United States, western Canada, Australia, Mexico, or the Pacific Islands, to CEEB, Box 1025, Berkeley, California 94701.

It is necessary to register with CEEB approximately six weeks before the test dates; however, limited walk-in registration may be available at some test centers.

Either the SAT or three Achievement Tests may be taken on any of the following dates, but it is not possible to take both the SAT and the Achievement Tests on the same day, so students must select and register for two different test dates. The latest test date from which scores can be used for admission in September, 1982 is January 23, 1982.

The CEEB Code Number for Wellesley College is 3957.

Dates of CEEB Tests

- *November 7, 1981
- December 5, 1981
- *January 23, 1982
- *March 27, 1982 (SAT only)
- May 1, 1982
- June 5, 1982

*Not held in New York.

In addition, on October 10, 1981 the SAT only is offered in California, Florida, Georgia, New York, North Carolina and Texas. The English Composition Test-with-essay is offered only on the December 5, 1981 test date.

Admission Plans

Students may apply to Wellesley under several admission plans. Most applicants use the Regular Decision or Early Evaluation plans, but for students with special considerations or with particularly strong high school records there are plans for early decision and early admission. Each plan has specific guidelines and deadlines.

Regular Decision

A candidate who uses the regular plan of admission must file an application by February 1 of the year for which she is applying. Applicants will be notified of the Board of Admission's decisions in mid-April. Applicants for regular admission may take Scholastic Aptitude Tests and Achievement Tests any time through January of the senior year. It is preferred, however, that students take these tests before the January test date to insure that scores will arrive well before the Board of Admission begins to review records. Results of tests taken after January arrive too late for consideration by the Board of Admission.

Early Decision

This plan is intended for those students with strong high school records who have selected Wellesley as their first choice college by the fall of the senior year. Candidates under this plan may initiate applications at other colleges, but they agree to make only one Early Decision application, and if admitted under Early Decision, they must then withdraw all other applications.

Candidates who wish Early Decision must submit Part I of the application by November 1 and indicate that they want to be considered under the Early Decision Plan. Although CEEB tests taken through the November 7, 1981 test date may be used, it is preferred that students complete the appropriate tests by the end of the junior year. All supporting credentials and an interview must be completed by November 15. Decisions on admission and financial aid will be mailed no later than mid-December.

Early Evaluation

Candidates whose credentials are complete by January 1, and who request it by checking the appropriate box of the application form, will receive an Early Evaluation of their chances of admission. These evaluations will be sent by the end of February. Candidates will receive the final decision from the Board of Admission in mid-April.

Early Admission

The College considers applications from candidates who plan to complete only three years of high school and who have demonstrated academic strength and personal and social maturity. These candidates are considered for admission along with other applicants for the Regular Decision Plan. They are requested to identify themselves as early Admission applicants in their correspondence with the Board of Admission. It is preferable that these candidates have their interviews at the College if distance permits. Early Admission candidates are not eligible for Early Decision or Early Evaluation. In all other respects they follow the regular procedures for the Regular Decision Plan.

Deferred Entrance

Application for admission is made for a stated year; however, it is possible to change the intended date of entrance if a written request is sent before the Board of Admission takes formal action on the application. Students who complete their applications and are admitted and who then wish to defer entrance to the freshman class for one year should accept the offer of admission by May 1, and at the same time request a year's deferral. Students who attend another American college full-time during the year between high school and their entrance to Wellesley are not considered deferred students, but must reapply for entrance as transfers. Ordinarily, transfer students may not defer entrance to the following semester or year.

United States Citizens Living Abroad

For U.S. citizens living in other countries the entrance requirements and procedures for making application are the same as for applicants within the United States. U.S. citizens who have been educated exclusively in foreign school systems follow the same application procedures as foreign students.

Foreign and Transfer Students

Through the years Wellesley has sought and benefited from a large body of foreign students on campus. The College also seeks highly qualified transfer students who believe that Wellesley's special opportunities will help them to achieve specific goals. For foreign and transfer students there are some additional and different application procedures and deadlines.

Foreign Students

The College welcomes applications from citizens of other countries who have excellent secondary school records and are completing the university entrance requirements of their own countries. It is possible to receive advance credit toward the Wellesley degree through successful results in national matriculation examinations. Foreign students must apply by January 15 of the year in which the student plans to enter the College. Admission is for September entrance only. There is no application fee for foreign students living outside of the United States. Foreign students cannot apply under Early Decision, Early Evaluation, or Early Admission. Specific instructions for foreign students wishing to apply to Wellesley are contained in the brochure, Information for Foreign Students, which may be obtained by writing to the Board of Admission. Letters of inquiry should include the student's age, country of citizenship, present school, and academic level.

Admission of Transfer Students

Wellesley College accepts transfer students from accredited four and two year colleges. They must offer an excellent academic record at the college level and strong recommendations from their deans and instructors. Scholastic Aptitude Tests are required of Transfer applicants. Incoming sophomores and juniors are eligible to apply for entrance in either the first or second semester. Transfers in the middle of the freshman year are discouraged. Students wishing to transfer into Wellesley should make application by February 1 for entrance in the fall semester, and before November 15 for entrance in the spring semester, on forms which may be obtained from the Board of Admission. Notification is in mid-April and late December, respectively. The preliminary application forms should be returned with a nonrefundable registration fee of $25, or a fee waiver request authorized by a financial aid officer or college dean; the rest of the application forms will be sent upon receipt of these items.

The College will accept for credit only those courses which are comparable to courses offered in the liberal arts curriculum at Wellesley. Candidates accepted for transfer will be given a tentative evaluation of their credit status at the time of admission. Transfer credit for studies completed in foreign countries will be granted only when the Registrar has given specific approval of the courses elected and the institutions granting the credit.

To receive a Wellesley degree, a transfer student must complete a minimum of 16 units of work and two academic years at the College. A Wellesley unit is equivalent to four semester hours and some transfer students may need to carry more than the usual four courses per semester in order to complete their degree requirements within four years. Wellesley College has no summer school and courses done independently during the summer may not be counted toward the 16 units required. Incoming juniors, in particular, should be aware that Wellesley requires evidence of proficiency in one foreign language before the beginning of the senior year. In addition, all transfer students should note Wellesley's course distribution requirements which must be fulfilled for graduation. These requirements are described on p. 31 of this catalog.

Incoming junior transfer students may not take part in the Twelve College Exchange Program or Junior Year Abroad. All transfer students may elect to take courses through the cross registration program with MIT after they have completed one semester of study at Wellesley. Candidates who have interrupted their education for more than five years and/or who are older than 25 years of age may wish to consult the Office of Continuing Education.

Costs & Financial Aid

The cost of an excellent education is high, both at Wellesley and other comparable institutions.

To assist students and their families in meeting these costs, Wellesley offers a variety of payment plans. At the same time through financial aid the College is currently able to make its educational opportunities open to all its regular U.S. students regardless of their financial circumstances. The amount and kind of financial assistance is determined solely by financial need. At present, there is only limited financial aid available to Continuing Education students and foreign students.

Fees and Expenses

At Wellesley the fee represents approximately 59% of the educational cost to the College for each student. In past years the difference has been made up from gifts and income earned on endowment funds.

Annual Fee

The fee for the academic year 1981-82 is $9,630. In addition, there is a student activity fee of $80 and a fee of $180 for the student health insurance program. The breakdown is as follows:

	Resident	Nonresident
Tuition	$6,450	$6,450
Room	1,550
Board	1,630
Student activity fee	80	80
Student Health Insurance Program	180	180
	$9,890	$6,710

In addition to the fees payable to the College, a student should count on approximately $750 for books, supplies, and personal expenses. Some students spend more and some spend less.

Student Activity Fee

The purpose of the student activity fee of $80 is to provide resources from which the student government organization can plan and implement the programs of student activities sponsored by various clubs and organizations on campus. Of this fee, $8 is allocated for the payment of the student's annual subscription for News.

Reservation Fee

A fee of $200 reserves a place in the College for the student. It is due February 1 for Early Decision students and May 1 for all other entering students, and annually on June 1 for returning students. It is included in the annual fee of $9,630.

General Deposit

A general deposit of $100 is paid by each entering student. The deposit is refunded after graduation or withdrawal and after deducting any unpaid special charges.

Room Retainer Fee

Returning resident students must submit $200 to the bursar by March 18 to reserve a room for the following year. This $200 fee is applied against room and board charges for the following year. A student who is on leave the first semester and wishes to have a room reserved for the second semester must submit $200 to the Bursar by November 1. The fee will be applied against room and board charges for the second semester.

Special Fees and Expenses

These include, but are not limited to, the following:

Certain special fees and expenses listed in departmental descriptions, e.g., the cost of instrumental and vocal lessons given on p. 124.

A fee for each unit of work taken for credit in excess of five in any semester: $806.

A fee for each unit of work done independently during the summer: 50% of the tuition cost per course.

A fee for each examination for credit during the summer: 50% of the tuition cost per course.

An automobile parking fee per semester: $30 for each semester, or $50 for the year if purchased in September.

All fees, with the exception of tuition, room, board and activity fees, are subject to change without notice.

Payment for Students on Financial Aid

Except for the reservation fee, grants and loans are usually applied equally by semester against all tuition, and room and board payments for the year. The remaining financial obligation must be paid in accordance with one of the approved plans. Students on financial aid who have difficulty meeting the scheduled payments outlined above should consult the financial aid office.

Student Health Program

Information concerning student medical insurance is sent to all parents by the bursar. Because of the high cost of medical care, parents are required to subscribe to the Wellesley College Student Health Plan or to provide equivalent coverage, especially since Wellesley College does not assume financial responsibility for injuries incurred in instructional, intercollegiate, intramural, or recreational programs under the auspices of the Department of Physical Education and Athletics. Full-time Continuing Education students are also required to have coverage if they plan to use the College Health Service. Continuing Education students carrying less than three courses per semester are not eligible for infirmary care or insurance.

The insurance is charged at $90 per semester, and provides coverage for the period September 1 through August 31. Students subscribing to the Wellesley College Student Health Program will not be billed for services at Simpson Infirmary.

Students entering Wellesley College at the beginning of the second semester—transfers, Twelve College Exchange students—and students who are ineligible for their parents' insurance due to age requirements are eligible for enrollment for the second half of the year.

Parent Loan Plan

Wellesley offers a Parent Loan Plan to enable parents whose combined income is between $15,000 and $75,000 annually to extend the payment period for college education expenses beyond four years. Wellesley provides funds for loans at an interest rate lower than is generally available commercially. Monthly payments begin at the time a student enrolls and extend over a period of six to eight years. Details can be obtained from the Office of the Vice President for Financial and Business Affairs.

Refund Policy

Refunds of prepaid tuition, reservation, and other fees, and room and board charges will be allowed for withdrawal or leave of absence prior to the midpoint of the semester. In computing refunds, such prepayment will be prorated on a weekly basis, except that $100 will be withheld to cover administrative costs in any case. No refunds will be made for withdrawal or leave of absence after the semester mid-point. The date of withdrawal shall be the date on which the student notifies the Registrar of withdrawal in writing, or the date on which the College determines that the student has withdrawn, whichever is earlier. Admissions candidates must notify the Director of Admission of withdrawal. Refunds will be made within 40 days after withdrawal and will be prorated among the sources of original prepayment. Wellesley College grants are not subject to refund to the student.

Continuing Education Fees

The basic fee for a Continuing Education student is $806 per semester course, payable August 1 for the fall semester and January 15 for the spring semester. Continuing Education students taking four courses a semester may take a fifth course at no charge. A $10 student activity fee will also be charged on a per course basis with a maximum of $40 per semester. Continuing Education applicants pay the nonrefundable $25 application fee as do all other students. There is also a nonrefundable registration fee of $25, payable when the student is accepted.

A Continuing Education student who finds it necessary to withdraw from a course is entitled to tuition refunds as follows: a full refund of prepaid tuition charges and student activity fee will be allowed for withdrawal from courses during the first two weeks of classes. Thereafter, refunds will be prorated on a weekly basis until the midpoint of the semester. No refunds will be made for withdrawal after the semester midpoint. The date of withdrawal shall be the date on which the student notifies the Office of Continuing Education of withdrawal in writing, or the date on which the College determines that the student has withdrawn, whichever is earlier. Refunds will be made within 40 days after withdrawal and will be prorated among the sources of original prepayment. Wellesley College grants are not subject to refund to the student.

Payment Plans

It is necessary that all fees be paid in accordance with the specified plans before the student can begin or continue attendance, and all financial obligations to the College must be discharged before the degree is awarded. Degrees and official transcripts will be held until all financial obligations are satisfied. Detailed descriptions of plans are sent by the bursar to the parents of entering students and to others on request. Although there are minor variations in the payment plans for Regular Decision and Early Decision students, the final due dates for each group are the same. A late payment fee of $25 will be charged each semester on all accounts not paid in full by the due date.

The eight-payment plan is available only for a complete academic year.

Financial Aid

The Wellesley College program of financial aid opens educational opportunities to able students of diverse backgrounds, regardless of their financial resources. No student should be discouraged from applying to Wellesley because of the need for financial aid. At Wellesley, admission decisions are made without regard for financial need, and only after a student is admitted does the Financial Aid staff determine the amount of aid she will require.

Approximately 72% of all Wellesley students receive aid from some source, 45% receive financial aid based on need from the College. An additional 14% of the student body receives federal guaranteed loans.

At Wellesley College financial aid is given solely because of demonstrated need. Amounts vary in size according to the resources of the individual and her family, and may equal or exceed the comprehensive College fee. Although aid is generally granted for one year at a time, the College expects to continue aid as needed throughout the student's four years provided funds are available.

Determination of the amount of aid begins with examination of family financial resources. Using a nationally standardized system, the Financial Aid staff establishes the amount the parents can reasonably be expected to contribute. The staff next looks at the amount the student herself—with summer earnings and a portion of accumulated savings and benefits—can contribute. The total of the parents' and the student's contributions is then subtracted from the student's budget which is comprised of the College fees, a $750 book and personal allowance, and two low-cost round trips from her home state to Massachusetts. The remainder, which equals the "financial need" of the student, is awarded as aid.

Most financial aid packages are a combination of three types of aid: work, loans, and grants.

Work

The first portion of a student's financial need is met through jobs on and off campus, generally as part of federal Work-Study programs. Students are expected to devote no more than six hours a week to their jobs, earning approximately $650 a year.

Over 70% of Wellesley College students work on or off campus. The Office of Financial Aid is the clearinghouse for student employment, a service open to all students, whether they are receiving aid or not. Financial aid students receive priority for on-campus jobs such as office work in academic and administrative departments. Off campus, students have worked in offices, stores, and restaurants.

Loans

The next portion of aid, approximately $1,600, is awarded through low-cost loans. There are several kinds of loans available with different interest rates. In most cases a student is required first to apply for a Student Guaranteed Loan from a lending institution in her local area; the federal government allows colleges to be only the lender of last resort.

Repayment of Loans from the College

A student who has received a loan from the College has the obligation to repay the loan after withdrawal or graduation. Before she leaves the College she should make arrangements for an exit interview with the Bursar. At that time she will be notified of her responsibilities regarding the loan and will be given a repayment schedule.

Grants

Whatever portion of the student budget remains is awarded in grants, either by the College from its own resources or from the federal government through the Federal Supplementary Educational Opportunity Grants program.

Students who are eligible for other federal or state grants are required to apply; if the student does not apply, the College reduces her grant by the amount she would have received. In addition, whenever possible, students should seek grants from local programs, from educational foundations, and from other private sources.

Town Tuition Grants

Wellesley College offers ten Town Tuition Grants to residents of the Town of Wellesley who qualify for admission and whose parents or guardian live in the town. These students may live at home or on campus. Those who choose to live on campus may apply to the College for financial aid, and their applications will be reviewed in light of the same financial aid considerations presently applicable to all Wellesley students.

Financial Aid for Transfers

Financial aid funds are available to assist a limited number of transfer students. A transfer student with demonstrated need will be eligible to receive aid for the number of semesters determined by the Registrar as necessary for degree completion. If a transfer student does not receive a grant upon admission to the College, she will not qualify for a grant while she is at the College. It is possible, however, that she may receive work study or loans.

Assistance for Families Not Eligible for Aid

Wellesley has special concern for the growing number of middle and upper income families who find it difficult to finance their daughters' education through current income. The services of the Office of Financial Aid and Planning are designed to assist all families, regardless of the need for aid.

For those families not eligible for aid, the College will assist in several ways. First, Wellesley will help any student find a job, on or off campus. Second, the College will furnish information and advice on obtaining a student or parent state guaranteed loan: every state in the country has such a program. Third, two new payment programs, the Insured Tuition Payment Plan, a monthly prepayment plan, and the Parent Loan Plan, in which the parents, not the students, obtain loans, are being offered by the College.

For Further Information

Detailed information on all the material summarized here is available in a booklet entitled Financing a College Education: Financial Aid at Wellesley. This booklet is sent to every student who requests this information.

Applying for Financial Aid

Each registered applicant for admission who is applying for financial aid must file three forms: the Wellesley College Application for Financial Aid, the Financial Aid Form of the College Scholarship Service, and a certified copy of the latest federal income tax return.

Application Form

The Wellesley College Application for Financial Aid should be returned to the Director of Financial Aid, Wellesley College, by November 1 from Early Decision applicants, February 1 from Regular Decision applicants and fall semester transfer applicants, and November 15 from spring semester transfer applicants.

Financial Aid Form

This form is available in the secondary schools, or may be obtained by writing to the College Scholarship Service, Box 176, Princeton, New Jersey 08540; or Box 1025, Berkeley, California 94701. A copy can also be provided by the Director of Financial Aid if specifically requested by an applicant. The Financial Aid Form should be filed with the College Scholarship Service which will then forward a copy for confidential use to the college or colleges indicated on the form.

The Financial Aid Form must be filed by February 1 from Regular Decision applicants; February 1 from fall semester transfer applicants; and November 15 from spring semester transfer applicants. From Early Decision applicants, a special financial aid form, the Family Confidential Statement, available from the Financial Aid Office must be filed by November 15; Early Decision applicants should also file the 1982-83 Financial Aid Form of the College Scholarship Service by February 1.

Federal Income Tax Return

If a student is admitted and enrolls at Wellesley College, parents are required to submit a certified copy of their latest federal income tax return. The certified copy is forwarded directly to the College by the District IRS Office at the request of the parent on a form provided by the Financial Aid Office. Financial aid awards are not final until the IRS form is submitted.

Graduate Fellowships

A number of fellowships for graduate study are open to graduating seniors and alumnae of Wellesley College, while others administered by Wellesley are open to women graduates of any American institution. Awards are usually made to applicants who plan full-time graduate study for the coming year. Preference in all cases, except for the Peggy Howard Fellowship, will be given to applicants who have not held one of these awards previously.

For Graduates and Undergraduates of Wellesley College

Fellowships open to Wellesley College alumnae and graduating seniors are listed below.

Anne Louise Barrett Fellowship, preferably in music and primarily for study or research in musical theory, composition, or in the history of music; abroad or in the United States. Stipend: $3,000

Margaret Freeman Bowers Fellowship, for a first year of study in the fields of social work, law, or public policy/public administration. Also eligible are MBA candidates with plans for a career in the field of social services. Preference will be given to candidates demonstrating financial need.
Stipend: $1,000

Professor Elizabeth F. Fisher Fellowship for research or further study in geology or geography, including urban, environmental or ecological studies. Preference given to geology and geography.
Stipend: $500-$1,000

Horton-Hallowell Fellowship for graduate study in any field, preferably in the last two years of candidacy for the Ph.D. degree, or its equivalent, or for private research of equivalent standard.
Stipend: $4,000

Peggy Howard Fellowship in Economics, to provide financial aid for Wellesley students or alumnae continuing their study of economics. Administered by the economics faculty who may name one or two recipients depending on the income available.

Edna V. Moffett Fellowship for a young alumna, preferably for a first year of graduate study in history.
Stipend: $1,500-$2,500

Vida Dutton Scudder Fellowship for graduate study in the field of social science, political science, or literature.
Stipend: $2,000

Sarah Perry Wood Medical Fellowship for the study of medicine. Nonrenewable.
Stipend: $6,000

Trustee Scholarships are awarded on a competitive basis to seniors who intend to pursue graduate studies. These scholarships are unrestricted as to field of study. The title Trustee Scholar is honorary and in cases of financial need stipends may be awarded to the scholars or, if not needed by them, to alternates who need financial assistance. All applications and credentials are due by December 1. Recipients share the total annual stipend.
Stipend: $6,000

Fanny Bullock Workman Fellowship for graduate study in any field.
Stipend: $3,000

Mary Elvira Stevens Traveling Fellowship for travel or study outside the United States. Any scholarly, artistic, or cultural purpose may be considered. Candidates must be at least 25 years of age on September 1 of the year in which the fellowship is first held. Applications must be filed with the Secretary to the Stevens Fellowship Committee, Office of Financial Aid, before December 1.

Stipend: $10,000

For Graduates of Other Institutions and Wellesley College

Some graduate fellowships for study at the institution of the candidate's choice are administered by Wellesley College and are open to alumnae of any American institution, including Wellesley.

Alice Freeman Palmer Fellowship for study or research abroad or in the United States. The holder must be no more than 26 years of age at the time of her appointment, and unmarried throughout the whole of her tenure. Non-Wellesley candidates should file through their institutions. Wellesley will accept no more than four applications from another institution.
Stipend: $4,000

Mary McEwen Schimke Scholarship, a supplemental award for the purpose of affording relief from household and child care while pursuing graduate study. The award is made on the basis of scholarly expectation and identified need. The candidate must be over 30 years of age, currently engaged in graduate study in literature and/or history. Preference given to American Studies.
Stipend: $500-$1,000

M. A. Cartland Shackford Medical Fellowship for the study of medicine with a view to general practice, not psychiatry.
Stipend: $3,500

Harriet A. Shaw Fellowship for study or research in music and allied arts, abroad or in the United States. The candidate must be no more than 26 years of age at the time of her appointment. Preference given to music candidates; undergraduate work in history of art required of other candidates.
Stipend: $2,000-$3,000

Information and application forms may be obtained from the Secretary to the Committee on Graduate Fellowships, Office of Financial Aid, Wellesley College, Wellesley, Massachusetts 02181. Application forms for the Peggy Howard Fellowship may be obtained from the Economics Department, Wellesley College, Wellesley, Massachusetts 02181. The applications and supporting materials should be returned to the same address by April 1.

Applications and supporting materials for all other fellowships are due December 1.

The Academic Program

The process of learning begins with the mind and motivation of the student herself. The most tempting array of courses and the most carefully planned requirements alone will not guarantee the growth of an educated mind. The academic experience is designed for the student who seeks a broad acquaintance with the many and diverse fields of human inquiry as well as the opportunity to explore her personal intellectual interests in depth. It provides for the acquisition of knowledge and of the skills appropriate to the liberal arts but above all it is responsive to the student who genuinely wishes to acquire the habit of learning. It seeks to stimulate the mind, refine the eye and enlarge the capacity for free independent and discriminating choice.

The Curriculum

The curriculum at Wellesley is structured to provide strong guidance and to allow, at the same time, great personal choice. Central to the curriculum is the concept of diversity, the concept that the student should pursue a number of disciplines during her four years at the College. Accordingly, by the time the Bachelor of Arts degree is earned, she should be acquainted with the main fields of human interest, capable of integrating knowledge from various fields, and prepared for continuous scholarly and personal growth. In her major field, the student is expected to demonstrate maturity of thought, acquaintance with recognized authorities in the field, and general competence in dealing with sources of research or analysis.

Academic Advising

At Wellesley academic advising for the freshman and sophomore classes is the responsibility of the Class Dean. The advising of juniors and seniors is shared by faculty and class deans. This arrangement provides for systematic and equitable supervision of each student's progress toward the B.A. degree. In addition, it has the double benefit of specialized advice from faculty in the major field, and objective and detailed examination of the student's overall program.

Requirements for Degree of Bachelor of Arts

Each student is responsible for meeting all degree requirements and for insuring that the Registrar's Office has received all credentials. Each candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Arts is required to complete 32 units of academic work at a C average or better. Each semester course is assigned one unit of credit. The normal period of time in which to earn the degree is four years and a normal program of study includes from three to five courses a semester. Freshmen are encouraged to carry a maximum of four courses each semester, but upperclass students may take five.

Courses are classified in Grades I, II, and III. Introductory courses are numbered 100-199 (Grade I); intermediate courses, 200-299 (Grade II); advanced courses, 300-399 (Grade III). Each student must include at least four units of Grade III work, at least two of which shall be in the major. The program in the senior year may not include more units of Grade I than of Grade III work, and at least two must be Grade III. Directions for Election of the major vary with the department. Please see departmental listings for specific requirements for the major.

Distribution Requirements

In order to provide students with as much flexibility as possible, Wellesley requires no specific courses. To ensure, however, that students gain insight and awareness in areas outside their own major fields, the College does require that they elect three semester courses in each of three academic areas as part of the 32 units required for graduation. (Courses numbered 350—Research or Individual Study—do not satisfy this requirement.) The three groups of academic disciplines are:

GROUP A

Literature, Foreign Languages, Art, and Music

Three units chosen from courses in the Departments of Art, Chinese, English, French, German, Greek and Latin, Italian, Music, Religion, (Greek and Hebrew), Russian, Spanish; or from those courses offered by the Department of Black Studies and from those extradepartmental literature courses which are designated as fulfilling the requirement in Group A.

GROUP BSocial Science, Religion, Philosophy, and Education*Group B¹

One or two units chosen from courses in the Departments of History, Philosophy, Religion, and courses offered by the Department of Black Studies in these fields; and Education 102, 200, 212, 312 and

Group B²

One or two units chosen from courses in the Departments of Anthropology, Economics, Political Science, Psychology, Sociology, and courses offered by the Department of Black Studies in these fields.

GROUP CScience and Mathematics

Three units, at least one of which shall be a course with laboratory, chosen from courses offered in the Departments of Astronomy, Biological Sciences, Chemistry, Geology, Mathematics, and Physics.

Foreign Language Requirement

Before the beginning of the senior year, students must exhibit a degree of proficiency in the use of one foreign language, either ancient or modern. Many students fulfill this requirement by passing one of the language tests offered by the College Entrance Examination Board (CEEB). Wellesley requires a score of 610 or better on the CEEB Achievement Test, or a score of at least 3 on the Advanced Placement Examination (AP). This requirement can also be met by the completion of 2 units of language study at the second year college level or 1 unit of language study above the second year college level.

Second Year College Level Courses

Chinese:	201 (1-2), 202 (1-2)
French:	111-122 (1-2), or 121-122 (1-2) or 141-142 (1-2)
German:	101-103 (1-2), or 102-103 (1-2) or 104-105 (1-2)
Greek:	to be chosen in consultation with the department chairman
Hebrew:	(see Religion Department): 209 (1-2)
Italian:	202 (1) 203 (2)
Latin:	to be chosen in consultation with the department chairman
Russian:	200 (1-2)
Spanish:	102 (1-2)

Students may take introductory courses in only two modern foreign languages.

Fulfillment of the foreign language requirement through work done at another institution must be approved by the appropriate department. A student whose native language is not English will be exempted from this requirement, subject to approval of the Class Dean and the Academic Review Board.

Other Requirements

Students are expected to use acceptable standards of spoken and written English in their college work. Special assistance in English, mathematics, and other basic and special skills is offered at the College.

In addition, all students must complete the physical education requirement described on p. 130 for which no academic credit is given.

Preparation for Medical School

Medical, dental and veterinarian schools require special undergraduate preparation. Students should consult as early as possible with the Premedical Advisory Committee to plan their academic preparation to meet their individual needs and interests. Appointments can be made with the premedical secretary who is located in the Science Center Focus.

In general, most health profession schools require 2 units of English and 2 units each of the following science courses (with lab): Introductory Biology, Introductory Chemistry, Organic Chemistry, and Physics. Many schools also require Math, in some cases 2 units of Calculus, and additional science courses. Veterinary schools frequently require courses such as speech, technical writing, animal nutrition, genetics, biochemistry, etc. Requirements vary and catalogues of individual schools should be consulted.

All science requirements should be completed before taking the Medical College Admission Test (MCAT) or the Dental Admission Test (DAT) which are taken approximately 16 months before entering medical or dental school.

The Major

Students may choose from among 26 departmental majors, seven interdepartmental majors—American studies, Chinese studies, classical civilization, classical and Near Eastern archaeology, medieval/renaissance studies, molecular biology, and psychobiology—or they may design an individual major. Of the 32 units required for graduation, at least 8 are to be elected in the major, and at least 18 must be elected outside of any one department.

Students who are interested in an individual major submit a plan of study to two faculty members from different departments. The plan should include 4 units in one department above the introductory level. The program for the individual major is subject to the approval of the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction. Some students wish to center their studies upon an area, a period, or a subject which crosses conventional departmental lines. Examples of possible area studies include East Asian studies, Italian culture, Latin American studies, Russian studies; of periods, the Middle Ages, the Renaissance; of subjects, comparative literature, international relations, theatre studies, urban studies.

In the second semester of the sophomore year each student elects a major field and prepares for the Registrar a statement of the courses to be included in the major. Later revisions may be made with the approval of the chairman of the major department, or in the case of the individual major, with the student's advisors, and be presented to the Registrar not later than the second semester of the junior year. Directions for Election of the major vary. See departmental listings for specific requirements for the major.

Academic Policies and Procedures

The academic policies and procedures of the College have been subject to continuous change and examination throughout the College history, responding to changes in student life styles and innovations in the curriculum. The policies and procedures that govern most routine aspects of academic life are described below.

Academic Standards

Academic standards at Wellesley are high, and students take full responsibility for attending classes, submitting required work on time, and appearing for examinations. If students have difficulties with course work, become ill, or have other problems which interfere with their academic work, they should consult with their class deans for assistance in making special arrangements for their studies. Tutoring and programs in study skills are offered through the Academic Assistance Program.

Students are expected to maintain at least a C average throughout their college career. At the end of each semester each student's record is reviewed, and appointments with the Class Dean are arranged if needed. The College tries to provide the appropriate support services to students in difficulty. Students who show consistent effort are rarely excluded from the College.

Academic Review Board

The Academic Review Board is the principal body for review of academic legislation and for overseeing each student's academic progress. Chaired by the Dean of Students, the Board is composed of the class deans, the Director of Continuing Education, and seven elected faculty and student representatives. The student members of the Academic Review Board do not participate in discussions of individual student's standing, but they do contribute to discussions of academic policy and of student requests for exceptions to regulations. The Board researches and recommends changes in academic policy and is also responsible for proposing an annual academic calendar. Dates of Academic Review Board Meetings are posted in the Registrar's Office. Students wishing to submit a petition to the Academic Review Board should do so in writing and in consultation with class deans and deliver it to the Registrar at least one week before the petition is to be considered.

Credit for Advanced Placement Examinations

Students entering under the Advanced Placement Program of the College Entrance Examination Board, and who make the scores specified by Wellesley College, will receive credit toward the B.A. degree, provided they do not register in college for courses which cover substantially the same material as those for which they have received Advanced Placement credit. Two units of credit will be given for each AP examination in which a student received a grade of 4 or 5 with the following exceptions: 1 unit of credit will be given for the Latin 4 examination; 1 unit of credit will be given in the Mathematics AB examination; 1 unit of credit for a score of 3 in the Mathematics BC examination. Not more than 2 units may be offered for credit in any one department. Note: the taking of a course deemed equivalent to one for which credit has been granted will nullify the credit previously awarded.

Credit for Other Academic Work

Of the 32 units required for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, a student may earn a maximum of 16 units through a combination of the following: AP examinations (no more than 8); courses taken at another institution during the summer or the academic year; or study independent of Wellesley courses which is then evaluated by examination by a Wellesley department. (See Examinations.) Four units may be earned in summer school, or by a combination of summer school and summer independent study. No more than 2 units may be earned for summer independent study. Eight units, in addition to summer school, may be earned through courses taken at another institution. Students, including transfer students, must complete 16 units at Wellesley. Candidates for the B.A. degree in the program for Continuing Education must complete a minimum of 8 units of work at the College.

Exemption from Required Studies

Students may be exempted from any of the studies required for the degree, provided they can demonstrate to the department concerned a reasonable competence in the elements of the course. Exemption from any of the studies required does not affect the general requirement for completion of 32 units of credit. It does, however, make it possible for some students to select more advanced courses earlier in their college careers.

Such exemption may be achieved in one of two ways: a score of 4 (Honors) or 5 (High Honors) on the CEEB AP tests, or passing a special exemption examination. Permission for the exemption examination must be obtained from the chairman of the department concerned. In addition to the evidence offered by the examination, some departments may require the student to present a paper or an acceptable laboratory notebook.

Research or Individual Study

Each academic department provides the opportunity for qualified students to undertake a program of individual study directed by a member of the faculty. Under this program, an eligible student may undertake a research project or a program of reading in a particular field. The results of this work normally are presented in a final report or in a series of short essays. The conditions for such work are described under the course numbered 350 in each department. Wellesley offers further opportunities for research and individual study. (See Honors in the Major Field.)

Credit for Summer School and Summer Independent Study

Some students undertake planned programs of summer independent study which they have designed with members of the faculty and their Class Dean. Two units of credit may be earned in this way. Four units may be earned by a combination of summer school and independent study. Other students attend summer school. The amount of summer school credit allowed toward the degree is limited to 4 units, and is not automatic. Students should consult their class deans before enrolling in summer school courses. Students should get approval from department chairmen before enrolling in a course from which they expect to receive credit; approval forms are available in the Registrar's Office.

Grading System

Students have the option of electing courses on a letter or nonletter grading system. At the beginning of the eighth week of a semester, students notify their instructor whether they plan to take the course for a letter grade or on the credit/noncredit basis. Credit is given to students who have attained a satisfactory familiarity with the content of a course and have demonstrated ability to use this knowledge in a competent manner. If credit is not earned, the course does not appear on the student's permanent record.

Examinations

An examination period occurs at the end of each semester. Within this period, students may devise their own examination schedules for the majority of courses. Examinations are scheduled for some art, music, and foreign language courses which require audiovisual equipment. Special examinations are offered in September to qualified students to earn credit for work done independently, for admission to advanced courses without the stated prerequisites, and for exemption from required studies.

Students who wish credit for work done independently in the summer should consult the appropriate department and the Class Dean, and should apply to the Registrar at least a month in advance for a special examination to be given at the beginning of the college year.

Examinations may be taken for credit, for admission to a more advanced course, or for exemption from the required studies in Groups A, B, and C. Examinations for credit passed at a satisfactory level also count for advanced placement and/or exemption; examinations for advanced placement also count for exemption. Examinations passed at a satisfactory level for exemption do not count for credit.

Registration for Courses

All returning students must register in the spring for the courses they select for the next academic year. Upon returning to college in the fall, the student will be issued a schedule card of her classes. All changes to this schedule must be recorded in the Registrar's Office by the end of the first week of classes. A student will not receive credit for a course unless she has registered for it, and a student who has registered for a course will remain registered unless she takes formal action to drop it.

Any conflicts in scheduling must be reported to the Registrar's Office immediately. A student is not permitted to take a course if it conflicts with any other course on her schedule.

Adding or Dropping Courses

Add/Drop cards are available from the Registrar's Office during the first week of classes. A student may submit only one Add/Drop card, and it must include all changes in the schedule for that semester. All Adds are due by the end of the first week of classes. Permission is required from the department chairman or the major advisor if the student wishes to drop a course which affects the major. If a course is dropped, with the permission of the Class Dean, before the beginning of the eighth week, it will not appear on her record.

Auditing Courses

A student who wishes to attend a class as a regular visitor must have the permission of the instructor. Auditors may not submit work to the instructor for criticism, and audited courses will not be considered for credit.

Acceleration

A few students complete all the requirements for the degree in less than the usual eight semesters. After two semesters at Wellesley, students who wish to accelerate should consult their deans and then write a letter to the Academic Review Board, petitioning to fulfill the requirements in less than the normal period of time.

The petition should include the month and year in which the degree requirements will be fulfilled, and all units which will be counted toward the degree.

Normally, a plan to accelerate must include 8 units at Wellesley in two consecutive semesters during the junior and senior years. In accumulating units in addition to courses taken at Wellesley, an accelerating student may count:

- 1 Advanced Placement credit (no more than 8 units);
- 2 a maximum of 4 units earned either in summer school or by a combination of summer school and independent study during the summer, validated by the College. No more than 2 units may be earned for summer independent study; and
- 3 a maximum of 2 units of college or university credit earned prior to graduation from secondary school, which is not included in the units of secondary school work required for admission.

An accelerating student must maintain at least a C average at all times.

Leave of Absence

Recognizing that many students benefit educationally if they interrupt the normal sequence of four continuous years at Wellesley, the College has established a policy for temporary leaves of absence. Leaves may be taken for as short a period as one semester or as long as two years, and for a variety of reasons which may include study at another institution, work, travel, or other activities which meet personal needs. Application for leave of absence may be made to the Class Dean at any time after a student has completed at least one year at Wellesley. Freshmen who have completed only one semester may remain on leave for a maximum of three semesters. A student who goes on leave of absence cannot remain in residence on campus more than 48 hours after the effective date of leave.

To obtain permission to spend the year at another institution as nonmatriculated students or guests, students submit a detailed plan to the Class Dean or advisor and, if a major has been chosen, to that department. The plan should list the course of study for the year and justify its relationship to the four year program.

Withdrawal

Voluntary Withdrawal

Students who plan to withdraw must inform the Class Dean. A withdrawal form will then be sent to the parents or guardian for their signature. The official date of the withdrawal is the date agreed upon by the student and the Class Dean and written on the withdrawal card which is signed by the Class Dean. The withdrawal date is important in order to compute costs and refunds. (See Refund Policy p. 24.) Students who have officially withdrawn from the College cannot remain in residence on campus more than 48 hours after the effective date of withdrawal.

Required Withdrawal

The College reserves the right to require the withdrawal of any student whose academic work falls below its standards, who violates its rules and regulations or the rights of others, or whose continuing presence constitutes a risk to the health, safety, or general well-being of the College community or herself. In addition, the College may require the withdrawal of any student who fails to meet financial obligations to the College.

Readmission

A student who has withdrawn from the College and wishes to return should apply to the Office of the Dean of Students for the appropriate forms. Readmission will be considered in the light of the reasons for withdrawal and reapplication, and in the case of resident students, available residence hall space. A nonrefundable fee of $15 must accompany the application form for readmission.

Special Academic Programs

The traditional four-year curriculum offered at Wellesley is expanded by many special academic programs. Some are administered by the College and some are programs run by other institutions in which Wellesley students may participate. Students may participate in some while in residence at the College; others involve living at other colleges or abroad for a semester or a year.

Cambridge Humanities Seminar

The Cambridge Humanities Seminar is a collaborative effort by universities in the Boston-Cambridge area to enrich and diversify their interdisciplinary offerings in the humanities at an advanced level. The program is centered at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and offers subjects to students in the humanities at participating institutions during the last two years of undergraduate and the first two years of graduate work, in an area of scholarship periodically determined by its membership. The program involves faculty in literature, history, philosophy, and fine arts. Its current subject is the idea of the past as it plays a role in the study of various cultural activities. All seminars have limited enrollment. Subjects to be offered in 1981-82 are described on p. 171.

Freshman-Sophomore Colloquia

These courses are designed for freshmen and sophomores to undertake concentrated study of a significant, well-defined topic. They offer students the opportunity to work in small groups in association with individual faculty members. They are similar to advanced seminars in method and approach in that they stress discussion, independent work, and oral and written presentations.

Cross Registration Program with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology

A program of cross registration of students at Wellesley and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology was officially inaugurated in 1968-69. The program allows students to elect courses at the other institution, and extends the diversity of educational experiences available in the curricula and in the environments of both. The two schools combine their academic, extracurricular, and operational resources while maintaining the separate strengths, independence, and integrity.

A Wellesley student interested in exploring the possibilities of electing specific course at MIT should consult the Exchange Coordinator, the department advisor, or the appropriate exchange program faculty advisor. Registration in MIT courses takes place each semester, and application must be made in the Exchange Office during the preceding semester. Since the number of participants in the exchange is limited, upperclass students are given preference.

Students register at the Wellesley Exchange Office and at MIT for MIT courses. They must follow the instruction sheet carefully to insure that they register for courses which are equivalent in credit to Wellesley courses.

Opportunities in Engineering

Cross registration with MIT makes it possible for Wellesley students to take advantage of both the opportunities of a women's liberal arts college and the resources of a superior engineering program. Students interested in mathematics, physics, chemistry, or biology can apply these interests in a very practical way through engineering, an expanding field for women.

Engineering can be pursued at Wellesley in two ways: by designing an individual major combining Wellesley and MIT courses or by fulfilling a Wellesley major while taking advantage of MIT courses to prepare for graduate study in engineering.

Students interested in engineering should take mathematics and physics at Wellesley freshman year in preparation for MIT courses. Information concerning possible fields, prerequisites, and contact persons at MIT is available through the Office of the Class Deans.

The Twelve College Exchange Program

Wellesley belongs to a consortium which includes Amherst, Bowdoin, Connecticut College, Dartmouth, Mount Holyoke, Smith, Trinity, Vassar, Wesleyan, Wheaton, and Williams. Two one-semester programs associated with the Twelve College Exchange are the National Theater Institute in Waterford, Connecticut, and the Williams Mystic Seaport Program in American Maritime Studies. Students in good standing may apply through the Exchange Coordinator for a semester or full academic year in residence at any of the member institutions. The number of places is limited and admission is competitive. Preference is given to students planning to participate in their junior year.

Students must request that transcripts be sent to the Registrar's Office to receive credit for work done away from Wellesley.

The Wellesley-Spelman Exchange Program

Wellesley maintains a student exchange program with Spelman College in Atlanta, Georgia, a distinguished Black liberal arts college for women. The exchange, initiated as a three-year experimental program in 1974-75, was approved in spring 1977 as one of the continuing exchange opportunities available to students.

The program is open only to students in their junior year, with a maximum four-semester enrollment per year (one to four students) at each institution. Students may apply through the Office of the Exchange Coordinator.

The Junior Year Abroad

Qualified students may apply for admission to various groups spending the junior year in Europe and in other foreign countries. A few Wellesley Slater Junior Year Abroad scholarships are available to juniors, eligible for financial aid, who have been accepted for programs approved by the Foreign Study Committee. Stecher Scholarships for the study of art abroad are awarded to qualified students who are eligible for financial aid. Candidates are selected by the Art Department Stecher Scholarship Committee and the Foreign Study Committee. Limited financial support for students wishing to spend the junior year in Africa or the Caribbean is provided by the Waddell Fund. The selection of recipients for awards from the three funds is made early in the second semester of the sophomore year on the basis of academic qualifications and faculty recommendations. The amount of each individual award is determined according to need. Information about these awards may be obtained from the Office of Foreign Study.

The Office of Foreign Study helps students with individual plans for study abroad, for example, applications for direct enrollment as visiting students in British universities. Students who are interested in spending the junior year abroad should consult their Class Dean and the Study Abroad Advisor during the freshman year to ensure completion of Wellesley eligibility requirements.

Students must request that transcripts be sent to the Registrar's Office in order to receive credit for study done abroad.

Internships

The Office for Careers houses information on a wide variety of internship programs available through the College, the local community, and the country, during the term, January, and summer. As well as working closely with the Wellesley academic departments to share information and to develop opportunities, the Office for Careers coordinates efforts with two internship groups: The Shared Educational Experience Program and the Massachusetts Internship Office.

Summer Internships

The College sponsors a Washington Summer Internship Program which provides a unique opportunity for students to learn about the national government through direct participation in political activity. Interested juniors may apply for 15 available summer internships, in governmental and nongovernmental offices. Interns hold full-time jobs for ten weeks and also participate in evening seminars with guest speakers on governmental or political problems. Job assignments are made according to the interest of the student and the potential for learning. Recent assignments have included positions in congressional offices, in the Department of Justice, in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, with the Federal Trade Commission, in the Office of the President, and with a major broadcasting system. Salaries are offered in some of these positions; the College provides stipends for students who hold nonsalaried positions.

In addition, the Wellesley Urban Politics Summer Internship Program offers juniors the opportunity to focus on some of the dilemmas of contemporary urban life. Students participating in this program spend ten weeks working for government agencies or private organizations in Los Angeles. Interns attend seminars and other meetings designed to stimulate analytical thinking about politics, government institutions, and public policy-making. Interns receive a stipend from the College.

Community Involvement

Wellesley students can become involved in the Greater Boston community in a variety of ways. Some students choose to work in communities where they can participate in legal aid, tutoring, and health services, or church work. Others work with the City of Boston or the Town of Wellesley in various departments.

Credit may be given for supervised field work as a research component of some courses or independent study; in other instances, experience in the community forms part of the required work of courses dealing with social, political, or economic issues. Generally, students become involved in community work for many reasons besides the possibility of earning academic credit.

Summer Study Abroad

Students planning summer study in foreign countries should consult the Office of Foreign Study. Wellesley awards Stecher Summer Scholarships for study of art to students who need to have access to materials available only in foreign countries. First consideration is given to applicants whose summer studies are related to honors projects approved for the senior year. Waddell Summer Scholarships provide opportunities for students wishing to study in Africa or the Caribbean. An application for a Stecher or a Waddell Scholarship requires the support of the student's major department and a statement from the Director of Financial Aid showing what funds are needed to supplement the student's financial resources.

Continuing Education

The Continuing Education program provides an opportunity for women to resume their education by electing to study for the Bachelor of Arts degree, or to take courses as special students not eligible for a degree. This nonresidential program enables students to enroll either part-time or full-time. Continuing Education students attend classes with Wellesley undergraduates and take the same courses.

Candidates for the B.A. degree are women, older than the usual undergraduate age, whose educations have been interrupted for several years prior to the date of application. Completion of a minimum of 8 units of work at the College is a requirement for the B.A. degree. There is no time limitation for completion of the degree.

Special students may be graduates of an accredited college or university but requesting course work at the undergraduate level, matriculated students currently affiliated with another accredited college or university and requesting course work for degree credit at the affiliate. Special students are limited to two consecutive years of study and a maximum of 8 units of course work.

For further information about the program, write to the Office of Continuing Education, Wellesley College, Wellesley, Massachusetts 02181.

Academic Distinctions

To give recognition for superior or advanced work, either upon graduation or during the student's career, the College confers a number of academic distinctions.

Departmental Honors

Students who have shown marked excellence and an unusual degree of independence in their work may be invited to participate in the Honors Program, based on their record in the major field. Under this program, an eligible student may be invited to undertake independent research or special study which will be supervised by a member of the faculty. In several departments, options for general examinations, special honors seminars, and opportunities to assist faculty in teaching introductory and intermediate level courses are available to honors candidates. The successful completion of the work and of an oral honors examination leads to the award of Departmental Honors.

Other Academic Distinctions

The College names to Freshman Distinction those students who maintain high academic standing during the freshman year. Wellesley College Scholars and Durant Scholars are named at Commencement, based on academic records after the freshman year. Wellesley College Scholars have achieved high academic standing and Durant Scholars highest academic standing.

Juniors and seniors are elected to membership in the Eta of Massachusetts chapter of Phi Beta Kappa on the basis of their total academic achievement in college. Seniors who are majoring in the sciences may be elected to associate membership in the Wellesley chapter of Sigma Xi.

On recommendation of the faculty, the trustees award the title of Trustee Scholar to four seniors who intend to pursue graduate studies. The awards are made on a competitive basis; the title is honorary. In cases of financial need, stipends are awarded to the Scholars or, if not required by them, to alternates who need financial assistance. Applications and supporting credentials should be sent to the Secretary to the Committee on Graduate Fellowships by January 4.

Certain prizes have been established at the College for the recognition of excellence in a particular field. The selection of the recipient is made by the appropriate academic department; each award carries a small stipend or gift and usually bears the name of the donor or the person honored.

Honors Awarded, 1981

In the Class of 1981, 82 students achieved the highest academic standing and were named Durant Scholars; an additional 210 students won recognition as Wellesley College Scholars for high academic achievement. The names of members of the Class of 1981 who were awarded other honors and prizes appear below. The names of juniors and underclassmen who won prizes in 1981 are also listed, followed by their class years.

Courses of Instruction

A semester course which carries one unit of credit requires approximately eleven hours of work each week spent partly in class and partly in preparation. The amount of time scheduled for classes varies with the subject from two periods each week in many courses in the humanities and social sciences to three, four, or five scheduled periods in certain courses in foreign languages in art and music, and in the sciences. Classes are scheduled from Monday morning through late Friday afternoon; examinations may be scheduled from Monday morning through late Saturday afternoon.

Prerequisites are given in terms of Wellesley courses, exemption examinations, AP scores, and "admission units." Admission units refer to the secondary school credits acquired in various precollege courses.

Freshman-Sophomore Colloquia (150 courses) Directions for Election

For a general description see page . The colloquia have no prerequisites, although some are open only to freshmen. Each course counts as one unit, and may be elected to satisfy in part one of the distribution requirements. Since class sizes are limited, students ordinarily may not enroll in more than one of these courses. They may, however, apply for more than one, indicating their preference. If a course is oversubscribed, the chairman or instructor, in consultation with the Class Dean, will decide which applicants will be accepted.

In 1981-82 colloquia are offered by the Departments of Art, Black Studies, English, History, Mathematics and Philosophy.

Part-time instructor

Anthropology

Professor:
Shimony (Chairman)
Assistant Professor:
Kohl, Merry

104 (1) (2) Introduction to Anthropology

Consideration of man's place in nature. Brief survey of physical anthropology, archaeology and linguistics. Ethnological study of social and political systems, religion, and art. Examination of the nature of culture with examples primarily from non-Western societies.
Open to all students.

Mrs. Shimony, Mrs. Merry

106 (1) (2) Introduction to Archaeology

A survey of the development of archaeology and a presentation of methods and techniques. Introduction to prehistoric cultural evolution from hominid sites in Africa to the rise of civilizations in the Old and New World. Students will have the opportunity to participate in field excavations.
Open to all students.

Mr. Kohl

200 (1)* Current Issues in Anthropology

An examination of current controversial issues in anthropology such as Race and Intelligence, Sociobiology, The Culture of Poverty, Neo-Colonialism.
Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite, and to freshmen with previous anthropological experience, and by permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mrs. Shimony

204 (1)* Physical Anthropology

The origin of man as a sequence of events in the evolution of the Primates. This theme is approached broadly from the perspectives of anatomy, paleontology, genetics, primatology, and ecology. Explanation of the inter-relationship between biological and sociobehavioral aspects of human evolution, such as the changing social role of sex. Review of the human fossil record and the different biological adaptations of the polytypic species Homo sapiens sapiens.
Open to all students.

Mr. Kohl

205 (2)* Social Anthropology

A comparative approach to the study of social organization. Emphasis is placed on the influence of ecology and economy, and on the roles of kinship, marriage, politics, and religion in the organization of tribal societies.
Prerequisite: 104 or Sociology 102 or by permission of the instructor.

206 (2)* Heredity, Evolution, and Society

A study of the causes of human diversity — genetic, environmental, and social — and of the role of natural selection in the evolution of modern human populations. The concept of adaptation will be the unifying theme of the course. Topics for discussion will include the biological role of sex and aging, nature vs. nurture, the biological concept of race, and the political implications of genetics.
Prerequisite: 104 or Sociology 102, or Biological Sciences 110 or by permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

210 (2) Racism and Ethnic Conflict in the United States and the Third World

A comparative view of racial and ethnic conflict in Western and non-Western societies, focusing on underlying social processes and barriers to intercultural communication. Topics for discussion include the history of American immigration, racial conflict in American neighborhoods, school busing, separatist movements, refugee problems, and the competition for subsistence in multi-ethnic nations.
Prerequisite: 104 or Sociology 102, or one unit in Black Studies, political science or economics, or permission of the instructor.

217 (2)* Economic Anthropology

Analysis of economic structures of non-Western societies in relation to our industrial capitalistic system. Concentration on substantive issues in economic anthropology, such as the debate on the applicability of formal economic theory to simpler societies, the nature and importance of the economic surplus, and problems of scarcity and development.
Prerequisite: 104 or Sociology 102 or one unit of economics.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Kohl

234 (2)* Urban Poverty

An anthropological analysis of urban poverty in the U.S. and the Third World. Cultural and structural interpretations of poverty. The strategies of the poor for coping with poverty. Ameliorating poverty as a problem in applied anthropology.

Prerequisite: 104 or Sociology 102, or one unit in political science, economics, or European history; open to juniors and seniors without prerequisite.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mrs. Shimony

236 (1)* Ritual, Myth, and Symbol

A study of the social dynamics of ritual, myth, and symbol in non-Western societies.

Evaluation of various conceptions of ritual and symbolic systems among nonliterate peoples. Readings assigned will include works from Frazer, Malinowski, Leach, Lévi-Strauss, Turner, and Geertz.

Prerequisite: 104 or Sociology 102 or by permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

241 (2)* Development of Archaeological Method and Theory

An evaluation of current trends in archaeological method and theory. The concept of prehistory from the 19th century to the present, and the origins of modern theories of cultural evolution. Research on the analysis of archaeological materials through modern data-processing techniques. Prerequisite: 104 and 106 or by permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Kohl

242 (1)* The Rise of Civilization

A comparative survey of the emergence of the Early Bronze Age civilizations in Mesopotamia, Egypt, the Indus valley, and Shang China, as well as pre-Columbian developments in Mesoamerica and Peru. The course will examine ecological settings, technologies, and social structures of the earliest complex urban societies. Offered in alternation with 243.

Prerequisite: 106 or by permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Kohl

243 (2)* Food Production: Origins and Development in the Old and New World

An examination of the beginnings of agriculture and domestication of animals in the Old and New World and a discussion of the causes and effects of the "neolithic revolution." A survey of traditional subsistence systems throughout the world, such as swidden agriculture, pastoral nomadism, and Asian wet-rice cultivation, and an examination of their effect on social development and structure. Offered in alternation with 242.

Prerequisite: 104 or 106 or by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Kohl

244 (1)* Societies and Cultures of the Middle East

Comparative study of political, economic, and other social institutions of several major cultures of the Middle East. Traditionalism vs. modernization. International conflict in anthropological perspective.

Prerequisite: 104 or Sociology 102, or one unit in political science, economics, or history.

Mr. Kohl

245 (2)* Societies and Cultures of Native South America

A survey of the tribal, rural, and urban peoples of South America, with attention to their histories and current social conditions. Topics include ecology and village economies, male/female roles, race and social class, religious groups and mass movements.

Prerequisite: 104 or Sociology 102.

Not offered in 1981-82.

269 (1)* Sex Roles, Marriage, and the Family

An exploration of the nature of sex roles and family life in a wide variety of non-Western societies. Investigation of attitudes toward birth, sex, marriage, parenthood, masculine and feminine temperament, and male and female dominance. Emphasis is on the ways in which kinship serves as the organizing framework in non-industrial societies.

Prerequisite: 104 or Sociology 102, or by permission of the instructor.

270 (2)* Political and Legal Anthropology

A comparative anthropological analysis of political and legal systems in selected non-Western societies, using anthropological studies of faction-forming, political manipulation, and conflict resolution in small scale societies. Comparison of political roles of men and women.

Prerequisite: 104 or Sociology 102, or one unit of political science.

Not offered in 1981-82.

301 (2) Anthropological Theory

History of ethnological theory. Examination of current evolutionary and functional theories of culture. Discussion of the relationship between personality and culture. Problems of method in anthropology.

Prerequisite: 104 or Sociology 102, and two Grade II units, or permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Shimony

308 (1-2) Seminar for Materials Research in Archaeology and Ethnology 2

The role of materials and technologies in the development of ancient societies. The contribution which scientific analysis of archaeological artifacts and monuments makes to our understanding of the cultures that produced them. The focus is on lithics: their identification and production. Determination of the history of lithic items through the study of their use-wear patterns and weathering. First semester includes weekly seminar and laboratory; second semester devoted to supervised laboratory projects by students. More detailed course description available in the Anthropology Department.

Open to juniors and seniors with permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Luedtke (U. Mass.), Mr. Kohl

342 (1)* Seminar on Native American Ethnology

Selected topics concerning Native Americans. Ethnographic review of North American culture areas; problems of modern Indian communities; ethnic conflicts; sovereignty and legal questions. Native Americans in literature and art.

Prerequisite: same as for 301 or permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Shimony

344 (1) Seminar. Archaeology of Southwest Asia

A rotating seminar on the cultural history of four selected areas in Southwest Asia from the beginnings of food production through the appearance of written records. Reliance on primary archaeological site reports.

Prerequisite: 106 and two Grade II units or permission of the instructor; 242 or 243 are suggested but not required.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Kohl

345 (2)* Seminar in Urban Anthropology

Comparative analysis of the nature of urbanism in the United States and non-Western societies. Topics for discussion include the nature of urban kinship and friendship, social networks, the decline of community, urban social disorder, crime, the role of urban courts, urban housing and gentrification, as well as migration and housing in the developing world.

Prerequisite: same as for 301, or one Grade I and two Grade II units in political science, or economics.

Mrs. Merry

346 (2) Seminar on Social Anthropology

Caste, Ritual, and Myth in India. This course will examine the caste system in India as well as some of India's major symbolic systems. An attempt will be made to reach a cultural understanding of the meanings of the social institutions and the symbolic systems. Other topics covered will be the place and meaning of religion; the place of the individual in hierarchical society; the indigenous categorization of male and female as seen in the kinship realm and in the sphere of gods and goddesses.

Prerequisite: same as for 301.

Not offered in 1981-82.

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Open by permission to juniors and seniors.

370 (1-2) Thesis 2 to 4

Open only to honors candidates.

Extrdepartmental 114.

Directions for Election

Majors in anthropology must take eight courses (which may include courses from MIT's anthropology offerings), of which 104 and 301 are obligatory. In addition, at least one "methods" course is strongly suggested. Preferably this should be calculus or statistics in the mathematics department, or a computer science course, but it may also be the methods course offered by economics, psychology, or sociology (depending on the particular need and interest of the student).

Students may take Grade II and Grade III courses upon the presentation of either Sociology 102 or Anthropology 104, but anthropology majors may not substitute Sociology 102 for Anthropology 104.

The Department of Art offers courses in the history of art and in studio art. Some of the courses in art history include laboratory work in one or more media with which the course is concerned. One of the studio courses, 204, is a survey of the techniques of painting from the Middle Ages to the present, and is required of all art history majors. The department believes that laboratory training has great value in developing observation and understanding of artistic problems. However, no particular artistic aptitude is required, and the laboratory work is adjusted to the student's ability.

An art major may either concentrate in history of art or in studio art.

Stecher Scholarships are available to qualified students for the study of art abroad during the school year, Winter Session, or summer.

History of Art

100 (1-2) Introductory Course 1 or 2

A foundation for further study in the history of art. The major styles in Western architecture, sculpture, and painting from ancient Egypt to the present are presented in lectures and in conference sections. Simple laboratory work requiring no previous training or artistic skill planned to give the student a greater understanding of artistic problems. One unit of credit may be given for 100 (1), but 100 (2) cannot be taken without 100 (1). Open only to freshmen and sophomores.

The Staff

120 (1) Themes and Meaning in Asian Art

Topic for 1981-82: A study of selected artistic and architectural monuments of Asia and the ways in which they embody some of the major religious, philosophical, and social ideas of the Orient. The course will take a broad view of architecture, painting, and sculpture in Asia, and the works will be examined chiefly as symbols of their distinctive cultures.

Open to all students.

150 (2) Colloquium

For directions for applying see p. 47. Open by permission to freshman and sophomore applicants. Limited to 15 students.

The eloquent object

An orientation to art using originals.

Examination of the material properties of objects and the manner in which they may incorporate and express social, political, historical, literary, and aesthetic ideas.

Extensive reading on art by poets, philosophers, and critics as well as art historians. Reading, conversation, writing and rewriting several short papers as well as field trips to Boston and Cambridge. A course in basic drawing or design to accompany this course is strongly advised but not required.

Ms. Janis

200 (1)* Classical Art

Topic for 1981-82: Roman art. A survey of the arts of Imperial Rome. Principal focus on the period from Augustus to Constantine.

Architecture, sculpture, and painting: the function of art in Roman society, the nature of Roman taste, and the influence of Roman art on later Western art. Topic for 1982-83: Greek art from the end of the Dark Ages to the death of Cleopatra.

Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors who have taken 100 (1) or 215, or by permission of the instructor.

Miss Marvin

201 (2)* Egyptian Art

A survey of Egyptian architecture, sculpture, painting and minor arts from 3000 to 31 B.C. The course will trace historically the development of ancient Egyptian style, stressing sculpture and painting.

Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors, and to freshmen who have taken 100 (1).

Not offered in 1981-82.

Miss Marvin

202 (1) Medieval Art

Topic for 1982-83: Early Christian art—a survey of the formation of art and architecture to accord with the developing attitudes of the church and society from the catacombs to the revival under Charlemagne.

Open to all students.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Fergusson

203 (2) Cathedrals and Castles of the High Middle Ages

A study of the major religious and secular buildings of the Romanesque and Gothic periods with emphasis on France and England. Attention will be given to the interpretation and context of buildings and to their relationship to cult, political and urban factors. Occasional conferences.

Open to all students.

Mr. Fergusson

204 (1) (2) General Techniques Course

A survey of significant technical material related to the history of Western painting from the Middle Ages to the modern period. Laboratory problems of purely technical nature requiring no artistic skill.

Prerequisite: 100 (1) and (2) or permission of the instructor. 204 or 209 (1) is required of all art history majors.

The Staff

211 (2) Selected Topics in African, Oceanic and Pre-Columbian Art

Topic for 1981-82: Arts of Black Africa. Style and iconography of sculpture and masking in relation to concepts of self, competition for power and the role of women; principles of African design and aesthetics.

Open to all students.

Ms. Adams

214 (2) Art and Ideology

Case studies of selected monuments from the 5th through the 20th centuries A.D. affording a survey of important phases in the development in Western Christian and secular iconography. The historical context and ideological function of these works will be analyzed, allowing the class to consider the problem of the generation and demise of symbolic codes for political legitimation and dissent.

Prerequisite: 100 (1) and (2) or 215 and 216.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mrs. Carroll

215 (1) European Art to the Renaissance

The major movements in architecture, sculpture, and painting from ancient Egypt to c. 1400. Students attend course 100 lectures and are strongly urged to attend course 100 conferences. Reading and paper assignments differ from those of 100. Students will be assigned staff advisors.

Open only to juniors and seniors who have not taken 100.

The Staff

216 (2) European Art from the Renaissance through the Nineteenth Century

Western art from the Renaissance to the present with emphasis on painting, sculpture, and architecture. Students attend course 100 lectures and are strongly urged to attend course 100 conferences. Reading and paper assignments differ from those of 100.

Prerequisite: same as for 215.

The Staff

219 (1) Painting and Sculpture of the Nineteenth Century

A study of the painting and sculpture of the 19th century in Europe with concentration on France. Special emphasis on the relationship of academic ideals to emerging individualism and on the social context of style.

Open to sophomores who have taken 100 (1) and (2), by permission of the instructor to freshmen who are taking 100, and to juniors and seniors without prerequisite.

Ms. Janis

220 (1) Painting and Sculpture of the Later Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries in Southern Europe

A study of Italian and Spanish painting and sculpture from early Mannerism through the late Baroque. Among the principal artists studied are Michelangelo, Il Rosso Fiorentino, Pontormo, Parmigianino, Tintoretto, El Greco, the Carracci, Caravaggio, Bernini, Pietro da Cortona, Ribera, Velasquez, Tiepolo.

Open to sophomores who have taken 100 (1) and (2), and to juniors and seniors without prerequisite.

Mr. Wallace

221 (2) Northern Art: Sixteenth to Eighteenth Centuries

French, Flemish, Dutch and English art from the school of Fontainebleau through Hogarth. Special emphasis given to the work of Pieter Brueghel the Elder, Rubens, Rembrandt, Poussin and Watteau.

Prerequisite: same as for 220.

Mr. Wallace

224 (1-2) Modern Art 1 or 2

Painting, sculpture, and the related arts of the 20th century. One unit of credit may be given for either semester. Background reading is required if elected in second semester only.

Prerequisite: 100 (1) and (2), or 216, or 219, or permission of the instructor.

Ms. Freeman

225 (1) Cinema

Detailed analysis of selected fiction and nonfiction films. Classics of world cinema, products of the Hollywood studio system, documentary features and shorts, and the work of controversial experimental and avant garde filmmakers. Emphasis on class discussion and numerous short papers.

Open to all students.

Not offered in 1981-82.

226 (1) History of Afro-American Art

A survey of Afro-American art from colonial times to the present. Special attention will be given to the relationship between Afro-American art and social and cultural conditions in America.

Open to all students.

Not offered in 1981-82.

228 (2) Nineteenth- and Twentieth-Century Architecture

A survey of the major movements in architecture in Europe and the United States from Neo-Classicism to the present.

Prerequisite: same as for 220.

Ms. Friedman

231 (1) The Art of the English Colonies and the United States to the Civil War

A survey of American art from the colonial period to the Civil War. Attention given to the relationship between art and the social history and literature of the time.

Prerequisite: 100 (1) and (2).

Ms. Strazdes

232 (2) Art in the United States from the Civil War to World War II

American art from the Civil War to the foundation of the New York School. Attention given to the relationship between art and the social history and literature of the time.

Prerequisite: same as for 231.

Ms. Strazdes

233 (1) Domestic Architecture and Daily Life

A survey of European and American houses, their design and use from the late Middle Ages to the present. Economic and social conditions will be stressed, with particular attention to changes in family structure and the role of women. The use of rooms and furnishings will also be discussed.

Open to all students.

Ms. Friedman

248 (1) Chinese Art

Survey of the major artistic traditions of China through monuments of the Bronze Age, Buddhist sculpture, and painting from the Han to the Ch'ing Dynasty.

Open to all students who have taken one unit either in the history of art, or in Asian history or religion, or by permission of the instructor.

249 (2) Far Eastern Art

Topic for 1981-82: Japanese art. An introduction to the sculpture and pictorial arts of Japan from the early Buddhist period through the 18th century woodblock print.

Prerequisite: same as for 248.

250 (1)* From Giotto to the Art of the Courts

Italian painting and sculpture from 1260-1420; and the art of the International Style in Northern Europe in the later 14th century.

The great narrative tradition in Italian sculpture and painting: Nicola and Giovanni Pisani, Giotto and Duccio; the Sienese painters Simone Martini and the Lorenzetti in the context of the emergent Italian city state; the spread of the International Gothic Style through the Valois courts (the Limbourg Brothers and the Duc de Berry) and its later impact in Italy on Ghiberti and Gentile da Fabriano.

Open to sophomores who have taken 100 (1) and to juniors and seniors without prerequisite.

Ms. Armstrong

251 (2) Italian Renaissance Art

Painting and sculpture in Italy in the 15th and early 16th centuries. Topics included in this survey are: the formation of the Early Renaissance style by Masaccio, Donatello, and Ghiberti; the development of sculpture in relation to architecture in Luca della Robbia; Medici patronage; the spread of the Renaissance outside of Florence by Piero della Francesca, Mantegna and Bellini; and the formation of the High Renaissance by Leonardo, Raphael, and Michelangelo.

Prerequisite: same as for 250.

Ms. Armstrong

254 (1)* Art of the City: Medieval, Renaissance, and Baroque

Aspects of the history of urban form, and of art in public areas of the city in the medieval, Renaissance, and Baroque periods. Analysis of various urban types such as medieval market towns, ideal city plans in the Renaissance, and innovations in city planning in the 17th century. Attention will be given to sculptural programs designed to enhance public spaces and buildings.

Open to sophomores who have taken 100 (1) and (2), or 202 or 203 or 250 or 251, to juniors and seniors without prerequisite, or by permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Armstrong

304 (2)* Problems in Italian Sculpture

Topic for 1980-81: Italian Renaissance sculpture. The works of major Italian sculptors of the 15th and 16th centuries will be stressed. Topics to be considered will include: the formation of the Early Renaissance style in sculpture by Donatello and Ghiberti; patterns of patronage and its effect on sculptors such as Luca della Robbia and Verrocchio; Michelangelo, Sansovino, and the High Renaissance; and the Mannerist sculpture of Benvenuto Cellini and Giovanni Bologna.

Open to sophomores who have taken 220 or 251, to juniors and seniors who have taken or are taking a Grade II unit in history of art, or by permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Armstrong

305 (2) The Graphic Arts

A history of prints and visual communication from the time of Gutenberg to the present alternating between the achievements of great masters such as Dürer, Rembrandt, Goya, Picasso, and the proliferation of popular imagery and ephemera leading to the invention of photography. Emphasis is on class participation and the examination of originals. Required laboratory. Limited to 18. Open only to seniors.

Ms. Janis

306 (1) History of Photography

A seminar treating the language of photography and its peculiar formal code. Treats work by amateurs as well as professionals and artists in 19th and 20th century France, England, and America. Topics range from problems of realism and documentary to what constitutes art in photography. Students will also learn how photography has affected the study of art history. Emphasis is on student discussion, writing and rewriting from originals. Laboratory is not only required but constitutes a fundamental aspect of this course. Limited to 20 students. Open to juniors and seniors who have taken 219 or 305.

Ms. Janis

309 (1)* Renaissance and Baroque Architecture

The Early and High Renaissance, Mannerist, and Baroque styles of the 15th through the 18th centuries, with particular emphasis on Italy.

Painting and printmaking in Northern Europe from the late 14th through the 16th centuries. Emphasis on Jan van Eyck, Rogier van der Weyden, Bosch, Dürer, and Pieter Brueghel the Elder.

Open to sophomores who have taken 202 or 251, to juniors and seniors who have taken or are taking one Grade II unit in the department, or by permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mrs. Carroll

312 (2)* Problems in Nineteenth- and Early Twentieth-Century Art

A study of special problems of interpretation in 19th- and early 20th-century art. Romantic imagery, interpretations of Manet, photography and painting, historicism, origins of abstraction. Emphasis on extensive reading and class discussion.

Prerequisite: 219 or permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Janis

320 (1) American Art and Artifact: The Seventeenth Century

The course will be taught at the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston using its collection as primary documents of historical technologies, styles, and social structures. European sources for Late Medieval and Mannerist styles in the decorative arts will be examined, as will the demography of immigrant craftsmen who transmitted the styles to the New World. Requirements include catalogue entries, brief essays, class reports, a brief research paper, and a written final examination. Limited to ten students. Prerequisite: 100 (2) or 231, or by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Trent

330 (2) Seminar. Italian Art

Topic for 1981-82: Venetian art and culture 1450-1570. Venetian painting, architecture, and patronage in the Renaissance.

Consideration of historical, literary, and musical topics. Commissions executed by the painters Bellini, Carpaccio, Giorgione, Titian and Tintoretto, as well as the architecture and urban projects of Sansovino and Palladio. Prerequisite: any Grade II or Grade III course in Renaissance art or history, or by permission of the instructor.

Ms. Armstrong

331 (1)* Seminar

Ordinarily a different topic each year.

Open to juniors and seniors by permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

332 (2)* Seminar. Medieval Art

Topic for 1980-81: The cathedrals of England. The seminar will focus on selected problems in art, architecture, programming, cult and usage in six cathedrals: Winchester, Durham, Canterbury, Salisbury, Lincoln, and Westminster Abbey.

Open by permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Fergusson

333 (1) Seminar

Painting and printmaking in 18th and 19th century England. Special emphasis on English landscape art and the work of Wenceslaus Hollar, William Hogarth, Thomas Gainsborough, Joseph Wright of Derby, William Blake, and Samuel Palmer. Frequent visits to museums and collections in the area and to the Yale Center for British art.

Open to students who have taken 220, 221 or 305, or by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Wallace

334 (2)* Seminar. Problems in Archaeological Method and Theory

Tell el-Amarna, the city of Akhenaten. An examination of the art and architecture associated with Egypt's heretic Pharaoh and the life of the city that was his new capital. Open by permission of the instructor.

Miss Marvin

335 (1) Seminar. Modern Art

Topic for 1981-82: Art Today. Close study of such diverse recent manifestations as pop art, color field abstraction, minimalism, conceptual art, process and performance art, and photo realism occurring in America and Europe since abstract expressionism. Frequent visits to museums, galleries, collections and presentations by contemporary artists. 224 provides a thorough art history background for this course and is recommended; enthusiasm for engaging the important issues raised by recent art in our culture is essential. Open by permission of the instructor.

Ms. Freeman

336 (1) Seminar. Museum Problems

An investigation of the history and structure of the museum, the philosophy of exhibitions and acquisitions, and the role of the museum in modern society, combining the theory and practice of all aspects of museum work. Problems of conservation, exhibition, acquisition, publication, and education will be discussed. If the museum schedule permits, students will be involved in the planning and mounting of an exhibition. Visits to museums and private collections in the area will be arranged. Limited enrollment.

Open by permission of the instructor to junior and senior art majors.

Ms. Gabhart

337 (2)* Seminar. Chinese Art

Painting of the Ming Dynasty literati masters, the origins of their art in Sung and Yuan, and their relation to the Che School.

Open by permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mrs. Clapp

340 (2) Seminar. American Art and Artifact: The Eighteenth Century

European sources for Baroque, Rococo, and Neo-classical styles in the decorative arts, the indigenous craft traditions and continued immigration of European craftsmen. Taught at the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston using its collection as primary documents of historical technologies, styles, and social structures. Requirements include catalog entries, brief essays, class reports, a brief research paper, and a written final examination. Limited to 10 students. Prerequisite: 100 (2) or 231, or by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Fairbanks

345 (1) (2) Seminar. Historical Approaches to Art for the Major

Comparative study of the major art historical approaches and their philosophical bases: connoisseurship, iconography, theories of the evolution of art, theories of style, psychoanalysis and art, psychology of perception, and theories of art criticism. Strongly recommended to all art majors. Open to juniors and seniors who have taken or are taking one Grade II unit in the department.

Ms. Freeman (1), Ms. Friedman (2)

Open to qualified students by permission of the instructor and the chairman of the department.

370 (1-2) Thesis 2 to 4

Open only to honors candidates.

Boston Museum of Fine Arts Seminar

A limited number of qualified students may elect for credit seminars offered by the curators of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. These are held in the museum and use objects from the collections for study. For enrollment procedures, consult the department chairman. Seminar topics to be offered in 1981-82 to be announced.

Cross-Listed CoursesAnthropology 308 (1-2) 2

Seminar for Materials Research in Archaeology and Ethnology
For description and prerequisite see Anthropology 308.

Greek 228 (1)

Reflections on the Search for Alexander
For description and prerequisite see Greek 228.

Directions for ElectionHistory of Art

An art major concentrating in history of art must elect both semesters of 100 (unless an exemption examination is passed), or 100 (1) and 150; 204 or the first semester of 209 (not the second semester), and at least five further units in history of art. For distribution, students must elect at least one unit each in three of the following six areas of specialization: ancient, medieval, Renaissance, Baroque and 18th century, 19th and 20th centuries, non-Western art. Art 345 and 305 may not be used to meet this distribution requirement. If approved by the chairman, courses elected at other institutions may be used to meet the distribution requirement. Although the department does not encourage over-specialization in any one area, by careful choice of related courses a student may plan a field of concentration emphasizing one period or area, for example, medieval art or oriental art. Students interested in such a plan should consult the chairman of the department as early in the freshman or sophomore year as possible.

Students planning to major in history of art should plan to take 204 or 209 (1) in the second semester of the sophomore year or in the first semester of the junior year.

Art 345 is strongly recommended for all majors, especially those who are considering graduate study in history of art.

A reading knowledge of German and French, or Italian, is strongly recommended for majors.

Students intending to major in art history whose high school preparation does not include a thorough grounding in history should take History 100 and 101. They should also consult the Catalog carefully for other courses in history as well as in literature, religion, philosophy, and music, which will be relevant to their interests.

Students interested in graduate study in the field of conservation of works of art should consult with the chairman of the department regarding chemistry requirements for entrance into conservation programs. Ordinarily at least two semesters of chemistry at the college level should be elected.

The attention of students is called to the interdepartmental major in classical and Near Eastern archaeology, and in medieval/renaissance studies.

Studio Courses

Studio courses meet twice a week for double periods.

105 (1) (2) Drawing I

Introductory drawing with emphasis on basic forms in spatial relationships. Stress on the essential control of line in a variety of media. Open to all students.

The Staff

108 (1) (2) Photography I

Photography as a means of visual communication. Problems dealing with light, tonal values, two- and three-dimensional space, documentary and aesthetic approaches to the medium. Emphasis on printing and critical analysis of photographs. Limited enrollment.

Open by permission of the instructor.

Ms. MacNeil

204 (1) (2) General Techniques Course

A survey of significant technical material related to the history of Western painting from the Middle Ages to the modern period. Included are laboratory problems of purely technical nature requiring no artistic skill. Prerequisite: 100 (1) and (2) or permission of the instructor. 204 or 209 (1) is required of all art history majors.

The Staff

205 (1) (2) Painting I

A study of basic forms in plastic relationships in a variety of media.

Prerequisite: 105 or 209 (1-2), or permission of the instructor.

Ms. Harvey (1), Mr. Rayen (2)

206 (1) Drawing II

Problems dealing with the realization through graphic media of form, light, and volume. Students will be required to establish and work out an individual project during the second part of the course.

Prerequisite: 105.

Ms. Harvey

207 (1) (2) Sculpture I

An introduction to sculpture through basic problems as well as modeling from the figure utilizing various materials such as clay, wax, plaster, wood, and metal. The student will be introduced to lost wax and sand casting in bronze and aluminum. Studio fee for materials: $30.

Prerequisite: 105 or 209 (1-2) or permission of the instructor.

208 (2) Photography II

The development of one's personal photographic vision through intensive technical and aesthetic studies in photography. Each student works in either book or portfolio form exploring relationships between photographers and/or between photographs and words. Study of the work of master photographers and various forms of the photographic book. Limited enrollment. Prerequisite: 108 or permission of the instructor.

Ms. MacNeil

209 (1-2) Basic Design 1 or 2

Consideration of a series of interrelated problems in two-dimensional and three-dimensional design intended to develop both observational and formal skills. Techniques of drawing, sculpture, painting, and graphic design.

Open to all students. One unit of credit may be given for the first semester. Semester II requires Semester I.

Mr. Drew

210 (1) Color

Basic problems in the interaction of color. Special attention will be given to considerations of value, intensity and the natural mutability of hue.

Open to all students.

Mr. Rayen

212 (2) Printmaking

Instruction in the monotype and basic intaglio techniques including line and aquatint etching, lift ground etching, and engraving. Studio fee for materials: $30.

Prerequisite: 105 or 209 (1-2), or permission of the instructor.

307 (1) (2) Sculpture II

The advanced development of sculpture concepts through problems dealing with construction, abstraction, imagery, and the figure. Emphasis on foundry techniques. Studio fee for materials: $30.

Prerequisite: 207 or permission of the instructor.

315 (2) Painting II

Continuing problems in the formal elements of pictorial space, including both representational and abstract considerations in a variety of media.

Prerequisite: 105 and 205.

Ms. Harvey

316 (2) Life Drawing

Intensive analysis of anatomy, perspective, composition, chiaroscuro, with direct visual observation of the model.

Prerequisite: 105.

Mr. Drew

317 (2) Seminar. Problems in the Visual Arts

Concentrated study of individual problems in a variety of media. Each student will be required to formulate a specific project to pursue throughout the semester. Emphasis will be given to group discussions and criticisms on a regular weekly basis. The attention of all studio majors is drawn to this course; it is especially recommended as advanced preparation for those who are contemplating a 350 or 370 project. Prerequisite: 206, 307, 315 or 316, or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Rayen

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Open to qualified students by permission of the instructor and the chairman of the department.

370 (1-2) Thesis 2 to 4

Open only to honors candidates.

Applied Arts Program

In addition to the regular studio curriculum, a separately funded program makes it possible to offer one noncredit course each year in such fields as metal casting and enameling, ceramics, woodworking, and weaving. Topic for 1981-82: ceramic tile making.

Directions for ElectionStudio Art

An art major concentrating in studio art must elect 100 (1 and 2), 105, 209 (1 and 2), plus a minimum of four additional Grade II or Grade III units in studio art. Course 100 is counted toward the degree but not toward the major. Since the department believes in the importance of an understanding of the history of art, the attention of students is drawn particularly to 224 (1 and 2) and 219 (see History of Art).

For students particularly interested in design, attention is further drawn to Theatre Studies 206.

Astronomy

Professor:

Birney•

Assistant Professor:

Little³, Little-Marenin³, Hagen (Chairman), French³

103 (1) (2) Introduction to Astronomy

Relationships of earth and sky; the solar system, stars, and galaxies. Two periods of lecture and discussion weekly with a third period every other week; laboratory in alternate weeks, and unscheduled evening work at the Observatory for observation and use of the telescopes.

Open to all students.

The Staff

203 (2) Recent Developments in Astronomy

Contemporary topics in optical, radio, and space astronomy. Topics include cosmology, pulsars, quasars, black holes, exploration of the planets, and extraterrestrial communication.

Prerequisite: 103.

Ms. Hagen

204 (1) Introduction to Astrophysics

The physical principles behind the analyses of stars, interstellar matter and galaxies.

Prerequisite: 103 and Physics 106 or 110 taken previously or concurrently.

Mr. French

206 (1) Basic Astronomical Techniques I

Visual and photographic use of the telescopes. Optics applied to astronomical instruments. Astronomical coordinate systems. Spherical trigonometry. Conversion of time and use of Ephemeris. Star catalogs. Photometry.

Prerequisite: 103 and a familiarity with trigonometric functions.

Mr. Little

207 (2) Basic Astronomical Techniques II

Measurement of stellar radial velocities. Spectroscopy. Classification of stellar spectra. Applications of the Method of Least Squares and statistical methods. The semester's work includes an independent project at the telescope.

Prerequisite: 206 and some familiarity with calculus.

Ms. Little-Marenin

302 (2)* Galactic Structure

Distribution and kinematics of the stellar and nonstellar components of the galaxy. Galactic rotation, problems of spiral structure, the galactic nucleus, the halo. Comparisons with other galaxies.

Prerequisite: 204 and Mathematics 116.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Birney

304 (1) Stellar Atmospheres and Interiors

The formation of continuous and line spectra in stellar atmospheres. An introduction to stars with unusual spectra. The structure of and energy generation in stellar interiors. Stellar evolution.

Prerequisite: 204 and Mathematics [201] or 215. Physics 204 or [200] is recommended.

Ms. Hagen

307 (2)* Planetary Astronomy

Study of the properties of planetary atmospheres, surfaces and interiors with emphasis on the physical principles involved. Topics covered include the origin and evolution of the planetary system, comparison of the terrestrial and giant planets, properties of minor bodies and satellites in the solar system and inadvertent modification of the earth's climate. Recent observations from the ground and from spacecraft will be reviewed.

Prerequisite: 204 and Physics 106 or 110 or permission of the instructor for interested students majoring in geology or physics.

Mr. French

349 (1)* Selected Topics

Topics in previous years have included Variable Stars, Galaxies, Stars of Special Interest.

Open by permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Hagen

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Open to juniors and seniors by permission.

370 (1-2) Thesis 2 to 4

Open only to honors candidates.

Multivariable Vector Calculus

For description and prerequisite see Mathematics 205.

Physics 202 (1)

Optical Physics

For description and prerequisite see Physics 202.

Physics 204 (2)

Modern Physics

For description and prerequisite see Physics 204.

Directions for Election

The following courses form the minimum major: 204, 207; Mathematics [201], 205 or 210; Physics [200], 202 and 204; two Grade III courses in astronomy and an additional Grade III course in astronomy or physics. Extradepartmental 110 and 216 are strongly recommended. In planning a major program students should note that some of these courses have prerequisites in mathematics and/or physics. Additional courses for the major may be elected in the Departments of Physics, Mathematics, and Astronomy.

A substantial background in physics is required for graduate study in astronomy.

A student planning to enter graduate school in astronomy should supplement the minimum major with courses in physics, including Physics 306 and, if possible, other Grade III work. The student is also urged to acquire a reading knowledge of French, Russian, or German.

See p. 7 for a description of Whiting Observatory and its equipment.

Biological Sciences

Professor:

Widmayer•, Allen (Chairman), Coyne

Associate Professor:

Webb•2

Assistant Professor:

Williams, Harris, Eichenbaum, Hirsch•, Hendricks, Raper, Smith, Langman•2, Richards

Instructor:

Standley

Laboratory Instructor:

Muise, Dermody, Cooper, Hall, Hacopian

Unless otherwise noted, all courses meet for five periods of lecture, discussion, and laboratory weekly, except for seminars that meet for two periods.

108 (2) Horticultural Science

Fundamentals of cultivation and propagation of plants, the effects of chemical and environmental factors on their growth, and methods of control of pests and diseases. Laboratory includes work in the field and in the greenhouses. Not to be counted toward the minimum major in biological sciences. Open to all students.

Ms. Standley, Ms. Richards, Mrs. Muise, Mrs. Dermody

109 (1) Human Biology

Study of anatomy and physiology of man. Some work on human genetics, nutrition, and immunology. Two lectures weekly with a double period every other week for demonstration-discussions. Does not meet the laboratory science distribution requirement. Not to be counted toward the minimum major in biological sciences. Open to all students except those who have taken 111 or [100].

Mr. Eichenbaum, Mr. Langman

110 (1) Introductory Biology I

Eukaryotic and prokaryotic cell structure, chemistry, and function. Cell metabolism, genetics, cellular interactions and mechanisms of growth and differentiation. Open to all students.

Mr. Harris, Mr. Hendricks, Mr. Williams

111 (2) Introductory Biology II

Major biological concepts including the evolution, ecology, and the structure function relationships of multicellular plants and animals.

Open to all students.

Mrs. Coyne, Mr. Harris, Mr. Eichenbaum

200 (2) Cellular Physiology

Intensive study of cell function, physical characteristics of cells, energy metabolism and metabolic pathways, irritability of cells, membranes and membrane transport, evolution of enzyme systems, control mechanisms.

Prerequisite: 110 or [101] and 111 or [100] and one unit of college chemistry.

Mrs. Allen, Mr. Harris, Mr. Hendricks, Ms. Cooper

201 (1) Ecology

An introduction to ecosystem structure and development, including population and community ecology, intraspecific and interspecific relationships among organisms, and biogeography. Emphasis on evolutionary aspects of ecology. Laboratory emphasis on field work and reduction and presentation of quantitative data.

Prerequisite: 111 or [100] or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Williams, Ms. Standley

202 (1) Comparative Anatomy

A systems approach to the study of chordate anatomy emphasizing the relationship between embryology, structure and function which lead to an understanding of evolutionary trends within the vertebrate group as a whole. Laboratory dissection of a variety of chordates from the lamprey to the monkey.

Open to students who have taken 111 [100] or 109 or one semester of college biology, and to juniors and seniors without prerequisite.

Not offered in 1981-82.

203 (1) Comparative Physiology

A comparative approach to the study of physiological systems with a concentration on vertebrates. Emphasis will be placed on the physiological adaptations to the environment. Topics for consideration will be salt and water metabolism, respiratory and circulatory control, temperature regulation, sensory perception and endocrine control mechanisms.

Prerequisite: Biology 111, 109 or AP biology and juniors and seniors with permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Coyne, Mr. Langman

205 (1) Genetics

Principles of inheritance, structure and function of hereditary informational molecules, application of genetic principles to biological problems. Laboratory and lecture material selected from plant, animal, microbial, and human studies.
Prerequisite: 110 or [101] or by permission of the instructor.

Ms. Raper, Mrs. Dermody, Mrs. Hall

206 (1) Histology-Cytology I: Cell and Tissue Structure

The microscopic organization of animal cells and tissues. Ultrastructural and cytochemical features considered, especially in relation to functional activity. Laboratory study includes direct experience with selected histological and histochemical techniques.
Prerequisite: 110 or [101].

Mr. Smith

207 (2) Nonvascular Plants

Biology of algae, liverworts, and mosses. Laboratory includes microscopic observations of a diversity of genera and culturing of selected specimens.

Prerequisite: 111 or [100] or the equivalent or by permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

208 (2) Systematics of Vascular Plants

Introduction to classification and evolution of ferns, gymnosperms and angiosperms. Laboratories will emphasize field study and identification of common plant families and flora of New England.

Prerequisite: 111 or permission of the instructor.

Ms. Standley

209 (1) Microbiology

Introduction to bacteriology, virology, and immunology. A detailed consideration of biological principles which characterize the microbial world. The microbiology of infectious disease and unique features of microorganisms will also be considered.
Prerequisite: 110 or [101] and one unit of college chemistry.

Mr. Hendricks

210 (2) Invertebrate Zoology

Comparative study of the major invertebrate groups emphasizing evolutionary trends and adaptations to the environment. Includes investigation of structure and function and field studies of ecological relationships.
Prerequisite: 111 or [100] or the equivalent.

Mr. Williams

212 (1) Fundamentals of Plant Structure

Study of how plants are constructed starting with the cell, leading to the organization of cells into tissues and the grouping of the tissues into the organs of the plant: leaf, stem and root. The development of the various plant structures as well as their adaptations to specific environments will also be considered. A brief survey of the vascular plants is included to illustrate evolutionary changes of plant structure. Laboratory includes light microscopy and related techniques and observation of prepared plant specimens and living material from the greenhouses.

Prerequisite: 111 or [100] or the equivalent or by permission of the instructor.

Ms. Richards

213 (1) Introduction to Psychobiology

An introduction to the study of the relationship between the nervous system and behavior with particular emphasis on the structure and function of the nervous system. Topics include basic neuroanatomy and neurophysiology, and brain mechanisms involved in such aspects of behavior as emotion, language, motivation, memory, sensation, and cognition. Emphasis on comparison of experiments with animal and human subjects in an effort to shed light on human cognitive functions. Laboratory.
Prerequisite: Psychology 101, and Biology 111 or [100] or 109.

Mrs. Koff, Mr. Eichenbaum

214 (2) Research Methods in Neurobiology

Specific research topics in neurobiology will be selected, presented and discussed by the instructor and students in a seminar format. Possible topics include development of the nervous system, comparative neurology, neuroendocrinology, neuromodulators, small nervous systems, and sociobiology. Laboratory exercises will focus on advanced techniques in small animal surgery, electrophysiology and new methods in histology as they are applied to research problems. The course will meet for one two-and-one-half hour seminar and one three-and-one-half hour laboratory per week.
Prerequisite: Biology 213 and permission of the instructor.

Mr. Eichenbaum

216 (2) Concepts in Growth and Development

Introduction to principles governing the growth and development of organisms. Lectures and laboratory integrate the use of plant, animal and microbial systems to illustrate concepts of development from the molecular to the gross morphological level. Prerequisite: 110 or [101] and 111 or [100] or permission of the instructor.

Ms. Raper, Ms. Richards

302 (2) Animal Physiology

A study of organ systems in vertebrates. Half of this course will cover topics in cardiovascular, respiratory, digestive, excretory, and endocrine physiology. The other half will cover sensory, neural, and muscle physiology. Students gain experience in the use of various physiological measuring devices such as kymographs, polygraphs, strain gauges, pressure transducers, stimulators, oscilloscopes, and microelectrode recording equipment. Prerequisite: 200 or 213 or permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Coyne

304 (2) Histology-Cytology II: Structure of Organ Systems

Analysis of the microscopic organization of organ systems, particularly those of the mammal. Detailed examination of selected specialized cells; the relationship of ultrastructural and cytochemical features to principal physiological processes. Prerequisite: 206.

Mr. Smith

305 (2) Seminar. Genetics

Topics in advanced genetics with emphasis on current forefront research, such as gene structure, sequencing, regulation of gene expression, recombinant DNA technology, the genetics of development, behavior and cancer. The topics to be considered in depth will be chosen cooperatively by students and instructor. Original research publications will be used as the primary source of information. The development of skills of critical reading, discussion, oral presentation, and writing will be emphasized.

Prerequisite: 205 and either 200 or Chemistry 211 and permission of instructor.

Ms. Raper

306 (1) Developmental Biology and Embryology

The first part of the semester is devoted to the study of human ontogenetic development, including some immunological aspects of pregnancy. The remainder of the semester is spent discussing current areas of interest in developmental biology (e.g., tumorigenesis, organization, and operation of the genome, pattern formation, hormone action). Emphasis on the experimental approaches used in determining the cellular and molecular mechanisms involved in developing systems. Students undertake group research projects which are designed to familiarize them with some of the methodology and equipment currently utilized in the experimental analysis of development.

Prerequisite: 216. Students without 216, who have taken 200 or 205, may enroll only with the permission of the instructor.

Mr. Webb

307 (2) Topics In Ecology

Topic for 1981-82: Evolutionary ecology. Issues and controversies in ecology, including the role of competition, population regulation, community structure, and coevolution, all viewed from an evolutionary perspective. Readings from the current literature. Laboratories will include independent field work. Topic for 1982-83: Plant ecology. Prerequisite: 201 or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Williams

309 (1) Experimental Plant Biology

Topic for 1981-82: Plant physiology. A series of independent research projects will be conducted throughout the semester culminating in a final paper and oral presentation. The class will involve informal discussions and oral presentations of both research progress and relevant papers from scientific journals. One class meeting each week.

Prerequisite: 200 and two units of college chemistry or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Harris

310 (1) Seminar. Topics in Plant Biology

Topic for 1982-83: Plant physiology.

Prerequisite: 200 and 205.

Not offered in 1981-82.

312 (1) Seminar. Endocrinology

Selected topics on the regulation and action of hormones and neurohormones in vertebrates. Emphasis on the study of current literature.

Prerequisite: 205 and 200 or permission of the instructor. 302 is strongly recommended.

Mrs. Coyne

313 (1) Microbial Physiology and Cytology

The study of the chemical activities (cellular growth and its physiological basis, metabolic patterns, biochemical genetics, and relation of structural to function) of microorganisms as model systems in order to explain living processes in molecular terms. Emphasis on experimental approaches and current literature. In the laboratory, groups carry out a number of experimental problems designed to allow the development of research techniques and analysis.

Prerequisite: 200 and 205 or permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Allen

314 (2) Topics in Microbiology

Topic for 1981-82: Virology. This laboratory course will retain several aspects of a seminar format. Class meetings will include lectures concerning fundamentals of virology followed by student led discussions. Reference lists will include review articles and current articles which students will be expected to evaluate and criticize. Possible topics of focus in the course will be: regulation of viral growth and expression, anti-viral activities (e.g., interferon) of the infected host, the immune response of the host to viral infection, viruses of public health and economic interest, and viral vaccines. Laboratory exercises designed to demonstrate current methods in virological research will be included.

Prerequisite: Biology 200 or 205, Chemistry 211 and permission of instructor.

Mr. Hendricks

319 (2) Advanced Cytology: Biological Ultrastructure

Introduction to the principles and procedures of electron microscopy using animal tissues. Emphasis on interpretation of ultrastructural features of cells and their components with particular regard to function. A knowledge of the basic structure of animals, especially at the cell and tissue level is essential. In addition, a knowledge of the fundamental principles of biochemistry is recommended. Prerequisite: Biology 304 and Chemistry 211 or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Smith

Topic for 1981-82: Plant development at the organismal level. Describing and, ultimately, understanding certain aspects of plant development require a synthetic viewpoint. In this seminar we will study current hypotheses about 1) the integration of developmental processes which results in a given organ or whole plant form; 2) how these processes change over the life cycle of a plant; and 3) how these processes relate to plant adaptation and evolution. The emphasis of the seminar will be on learning about selected phenomena of plant development, examining what is and is not known about these phenomena, and understanding the general questions which they raise about plant biology.

Prerequisite: 216.

Ms. Richards

331 (2) Seminar

Topic for 1981-82: To be announced.

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Open to juniors and seniors by permission.

370 (1-2) Thesis 2 to 4

Open only to honors candidates.

Cross-Listed CoursesChemistry 323 (1)

Chemical Aspects of Metabolism

For description and prerequisite see Chemistry 323.

Chemistry 324 (2)

Chemical Basis of Selected Physiological Processes

For description and prerequisite see Chemistry 324.

For description and prerequisite see Extrdepartmental 112.

Directions for Election

A major in biological sciences must include two Grade I units or their equivalent and at least two of the following Grade II courses: 200, 205 and/or 216. Students are advised to check the prerequisites for Grade III courses carefully so they will have taken the appropriate Grade II courses early enough to enter the Grade III work of their choice: the required Grade II work should be completed within the first 5-6 units in the major. At least two Grade III units must be taken at Wellesley. One of these Grade III units, exclusive of 350 or 370 work, must require laboratory experience. In addition to eight units in biological sciences, two units of college chemistry are also required. Additional chemistry is strongly recommended or required for certain Grade III courses. Courses 323 [221] and 324 [320] do not count toward a minimum major in biology.

Courses 108, 109, and 112, which do not ordinarily count toward the minimum major in biological sciences, do fulfill the College distribution requirements for the degree; 108 as a laboratory science; 109 and 112 as a non-laboratory science course. Independent summer study will not count toward the minimum major. Course 213 does not fulfill the Group B distribution requirement for biology majors.

Within the major, students may design a program in general biology or one which emphasizes subjects dealing with animals, plants, or microorganisms. A broad training in the various aspects of biology is recommended.

Students interested in an interdepartmental major in molecular biology are referred to the section of the Catalog where the program is described. They should consult with Mrs. Levy, the director of the molecular biology program.

Students interested in an interdepartmental major in psychobiology are referred to the section of the Catalog where the program is described. They should consult with Mr. Eichenbaum and Ms. Koff, the directors of the psychobiology program.

Students interested in an individual major in environmental sciences should consult a faculty member who teaches 201.

Freshmen with advanced placement or with 110 or 111 exemptions are advised to consult the chairman before continuing the core curriculum.

Students planning graduate work are advised to take calculus, statistics, organic chemistry, two units of physics, and to acquire a working knowledge of computers and a reading knowledge of a second language. They should consult the catalogs of the schools of their choice for specific requirements.

Premedical students are referred to the requirements given on p. 32.

Course may be elected to fulfill in part the distribution requirement in Group B¹ or Group B² as designated.

105 (2)² Introduction to the Black Experience

This course serves as the introductory offering in Black Studies and explores in an interdisciplinary fashion salient aspects of Black history, culture, and origins in Africa, and life in America. Its aim is to provide students with a fundamental intellectual understanding of The Black Experience as it is reflected in history, and the social order. Open to all students.

The Staff

106 (2) Introduction to Black Culture

A survey of Afro-American culture, its African roots, and its development in dance, music, religion, philosophy, and architecture. Utilizing slides, films, recordings and lectures, the course emphasizes interrelationships among various cultural forms. Open to all students.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Darling

150 (1) (2)¹ Colloquium

For directions for applying see p. 47. Open by permission to a limited number of freshman and sophomore applicants.

b. 1919: Year of the New Negro

The New Negro period was similar in many ways to the Civil Rights and Black Power era of the 1950s and 1960s. We will examine some of the major problems facing Black people in 1919, including lynching, mob violence and the mistreatment of Afro-American and West Indian soldiers. We will then examine the response to these conditions by Black folk in general, by the Black press and by leaders such as Marcus Garvey, W.E.B. DuBois and A. Philip Randolph. Finally, we will look at the way that state, federal and foreign governments viewed New Negro militancy. Our sources will mostly be newspapers and magazines from 1919.

Mr. Martin

200 (2) Africans in Antiquity

Highlights of the African experience in the pre-Christian era: African origins of humankind; African Egypt; Nubia, Kush, and Ethiopia; Egyptian/Ethiopian influences on the beginnings of Western civilization; Africans in Greece and Rome; Africans in the Bible; ancient Africans in the Americas. Open to all students.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Martin

202 (2)* ¹ Introduction to African Philosophy

Initiation into basic African philosophical concepts and principles. The first part of the course deals with a systematic interpretation of such questions as the Bantu African philosophical concept of Muntu and related beliefs, as well as Bantu ontology, metaphysics, and ethics. The second part centers on the relationship between philosophy and ideologies and its implications in Black African social, political, religious, and economic institutions. The approach will be comparative. Offered in alternation with 211. Open to all students except those who have taken [302].

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Menkiti

203 (2)² Introduction to Afro-American Sociology

This course is designed to introduce the student to the methodology and the theoretical underpinnings of sociology as a basis for the description and analysis of Afro-American experience in cultural rather than racial terms. The course examines the complex realities of racial and social issues associated with being Black in American society.

Prerequisite: Sociology 102, 103, or Black Studies 105.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mrs. Howell

204 (1)¹ Oral History and Social Science Methodologies

Importantly, as one moves to incorporate a multicultural perspective into our understanding of the American experience, innovative research techniques become important tools. The synthesis of oral investigatory techniques with social science behavioral methodologies represents a unique opportunity to explore the creation of new sources and the reworking of existing source material through asking new and heretofore unasked questions in relation to sources and interpretations. This course is designed to focus on the use of oral history, interviews, role theory, collective behavior, cross-cultural analysis, dialectical analysis and other conceptual frameworks and methods in the chronicling of human behavior.

Open to all students.

Ms. Darling

206 (1)¹ Afro-American History

Afro-American history to 1865. Study of the political, economic, and social development of American Blacks from their African origins to the end of the Civil War.

Open to all students.

Ms. Darling

207 (2)¹ Afro-American History

Afro-American history since 1865. An analysis of the social, economic, political, and cultural developments within the Black community from the Reconstruction era to the emergence of Black Power.

Open to all students.

Ms. Darling

209 (1) The Black Total Theatrical Experience: Concepts and Production

An academic study of plays from the rich heritage of Black drama combined with both the technical and performing aspects of theatre. Students will have the opportunity to apply the skills acquired in the course to a major production. Students will be encouraged to direct, act, sing, or dance and to learn about the basic mechanics (lights, set design, set construction, costumes) that help to create the so-called "magic" of theatre.

Open to all students.

Not offered in 1981-82.

210 (2) Black Drama in the Twentieth Century 1 or 2

Basic concepts, subtleties, and complexities of the Black playwright and his interpretation of the various Black experiences that are an integral part of the Black man's existence in a racist society. Lonne Elder III, Ron Milner, Adrienne Kennedy, Alice Childress, Joseph Walker, James Baldwin, Imamu Baraka, Lorraine Hansberry, Ted Shine, William Branch, and Douglas Turner Ward are among the playwrights to be considered. Special emphasis on the aesthetics of Black drama and theatre in general. Students will also be given the opportunity to explore how Black drama has helped to save Broadway from its own artistic and economic decadence.

Open to all students.

Not offered in 1981-82.

211 (2)*  Introduction to African Literature

The development of African literature in English and in translation. Although special attention will be paid to the novels of Chinua Achebe, writers such as James Ngugi, Camara Laye, Wole Soyinka, Ezekiel Mphahlele, and Christopher Okigbo will also be considered. The influence of oral tradition on these writers' styles as well as the thematic links between them and writers of the Black awakening in America and the West Indies will be discussed as time allows. Offered in alternation with 202.

Open to all students.

Mr. Menkiti

214 (2)*2 Blacks and the United States Supreme Court

An analysis of the Supreme Court and its impact on the lives and experiences of Black Americans. Particular concern will focus on the Court's role as protector-creator of fundamental rights and privileges for Black Americans.

Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite and to freshmen by permission of the instructor.

The Staff

215 (1)*2 Race and Racism in American Politics

An introductory examination of the efforts by Blacks in the United States to realize various degrees of political effectiveness within the context of American politics. Particular attention will be focused on the special difficulties presented by the phenomena of race and racism as Blacks have sought to enjoy full citizenship status in the U.S. Some comparisons with other groups in the American political system.

Open to all students.

The Staff

216 (1)*1 History of the West Indies

Survey of political, economic, and sociological factors shaping West Indian society. Topics covered include Africans in the New World before Columbus, genocide against the indigenous peoples, slavery and slave revolts, immigration and emigration, the West Indies and Africa, the West Indies and Afro-America, the struggle for majority rule, the spread of United States influence, independence and its problems.

Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.

Mr. Martin

217 (1)*2 Sociology of the Black Family

Analysis of the Black family from a historical and sociological perspective with an emphasis on the various types of Black family structures. Topics to be discussed include the role of the Black female, the relationship of the Black family to economic institutions and social policy.

Open to juniors and seniors or by permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Howell

220 (2)*2 Segregation in American Communities

Survey of sociological theories of ghettoization as well as the systematic analysis of the various types of ghettoization, social factors and policies involved in the process. Emphasis will be given to the urbanization of Blacks.

Open to all students.

Mrs. Howell

222 (1) Images of Blacks and Women in American Cinema

The creation of images and their power to influence the reality of race and sex in the American experience. Viewing and analysis of American cinema as an artistic genre and as a vehicle through which cultural and social history is depicted.

Open to all students.

Ms. Darling

230 (2)*2 Black and Third World Women

An analysis of the economic, social, political and cultural role of women of color; their historical relationship to their respective societies and the reasons for their oppression. Examination of analytical, factual and audio/visual sources.

Open to all students.

Ms. Darling

264 (2) Black Literature in America

A survey of the Afro-American experience as depicted in literature from the 18th century through the present. Study of various forms of literary expression including the short story, autobiography, literary criticism, poetry, drama, and essays as they have been used as vehicles of expression for Black writers during and since the slave experience.

Open to all students except those who have taken [228].

The Staff

305 (1)*2 The Social Psychology of Blacks

Marginality as a social-psychological dynamic of minority group members in America.

Examination of norms, values and sanctions which determine position and behavior patterns, minority life course and social structure, and social aspects of economic conditions in the society.

Prerequisite: 105 or Anthropology 210.

Mrs. Howell

310 (1-2) Seminar. Black Literature 1 or 2

Black literature seminar explores contemporary works by Black authors. It compares and contrasts themes, structures, characterizations, and environmental sources which inform the authors' perspectives. The course attempts to identify the scope and multiplicity of ideas, thoughts, and activities prevalent among Afro-Americans as they deal with the historical and social obstacles of racism in American society.

Prerequisite: one Grade II unit in literature or permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

312 (1)* Urban Black Politics in the South

The political modernization paradigm has been extensively used by political scientists in their examinations of African, Asian, and Latin American countries. This seminar will use this approach in an effort to examine recent political changes in the urban South. Materials based on the Atlanta, Birmingham, Houston, New Orleans, and Durham experiences will be emphasized.

Open to qualified juniors and seniors.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Jackson

317 (1)*1 Political Sociology of Afro-Americans

An explanatory analysis of the changing political and social indices operative in the Black community. Emphasis will be placed on the political and social patterns that have emerged as a result of these changes.

Open to all juniors and seniors or by permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Jackson

319 (2)*1 Pan-Africanism

The historical efforts of African peoples all over the world to unite for their mutual advancement. Such topics as 19th-century emigrationist movements to Liberia and elsewhere, the role of Afro-American churches in African nationalism, the Pan-African congress of W.E.B. DuBois, the Garvey movement, the Communist International and Pan-Africanism, Pan-Africanism in the 1960s, Pan-Africanism on the African continent.

Open to sophomores, juniors and seniors with at least one course in Black Studies or the equivalent.

Mr. Martin

320 (1)*2 Black Institutions

An overview of the role of Afro-American institutions as expressions of Afro-American cultural autonomy. The focus of this course will be the Black church in general, and the African Methodist Episcopal Church in particular, as we look at the ways in which Afro-American schools, businesses, fraternal and civil rights organizations serve to institutionalize the values of Afro-American life.

Open to qualified juniors and seniors.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Jackson

340 (2)*1 Seminar. Afro-American History

Topic for 1980-81: Marcus Garvey, Marcus Garvey's Universal Negro Improvement Association dominated the Afro-American scene in the decade after World War I and was a major influence in the lives of Black people in the West Indies, Central America, Africa, and elsewhere. Garvey's program of race first, self-reliance, and Black nationalism was still very much alive in the Black Power era of the 1960s and 1970s. Elijah Muhammad, Malcolm X, and Shirley Chisholm are among the many politically active Black people who were associated with Garvey's movement in their formative years. This seminar will examine Garvey's ideas, impact, and struggles.

Open to qualified juniors and seniors and by permission to sophomores with a strong background in Black studies courses.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Martin

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Open by permission to juniors and seniors.

370 (1-2) Thesis 2 to 4

Open only to honors candidates.

The following courses are offered as related work by other departments where they are described. Courses from this list may be counted toward the major, provided that a minimum of six courses is elected from the Black studies departmental offerings.

Art 226 (1) History of Afro-American Art
See Art 226.

History 267 (2) African Historical Traditions
See History 267.

History 268 (1) Africa in the Modern World
See History 268.

Music 106 (2)* Afro-American Music
See Music 106.

Directions for Election

The requirements for the major are consistent with the concept of Black studies as a multidisciplinary field of study. The requirements are designed to provide a wide range of knowledge and analytical ability as well as a firm foundation in an area of specialization, such as sociology, history, economics, political science, or literature.

It is strongly recommended that two units be elected in each of the three general areas of Black history, humanities, and the social sciences as multidisciplinary training. As the basic introduction to the discipline of Black studies, 105 is strongly recommended of all majors. In addition, at least four units must be taken in a single discipline as a field of specialization. Units taken at another institution to fulfill any departmental requirements must be approved by the department.

A minimum of six courses must be elected from Black studies department courses. The others may be elected, after consultation with your advisor, from related courses taught in other departments or from courses taken on exchange.

Chemistry

Professor:
Crawford, Webster•, Rock•, Loehlin
(Chairman), Hicks

Associate Professor:
Kolodny, Levy

Assistant Professor:
Kahl, Hearn, Swallow•, Rosenfeld

Instructor:
Haines, Karnett

Laboratory Instructor:
Darlington, Mann, Smith³, Lieberman³

Unless otherwise noted, all courses meet for two periods of lecture and one three-and-one-half hour laboratory appointment weekly and one 50-minute discussion period every other week, at the pleasure of the instructor. The selected topics courses will generally be taught without laboratory, but may include laboratory for some topics. Calculators may be used in all chemistry courses.

Ordinarily students who have taken one year of high school chemistry should elect 114. Chemistry 113 is intended for students who have not studied chemistry within the past four years and leads to 115. Chemistry 120 replaces 114 and 115 for students with more than one year of high school chemistry.

101 (1) Contemporary Problems in Chemistry I

Consideration of selected aspects of chemistry and related chemical concepts. There will be no scheduled discussion session. Not to be counted toward the minimum major. Students wishing credit for more than one unit of 101-102 should consult the department.

Open to all students except those who have taken any Grade I course in the department.

Not offered in 1981-82.

102 (2) Contemporary Problems in Chemistry II

Consideration of selected aspects of chemistry and related chemical concepts. Topic for 1981-82: To be announced. There will be no scheduled discussion session. Not to be counted toward the minimum major. Students wishing credit for more than one unit of 101-102 should consult the department.

Open to all students except those who have taken any Grade I course in the department.

110 (1) Introductory Chemistry II

Atomic and molecular structure, chemical bonding, chemistry of elements, introduction to chemical energetics and kinetics.

Prerequisite: [105], [106], [107], or [108].

Not offered after Semester 1 1981-82.

The Staff

113 (1) Fundamentals of Chemistry

The periodic table, chemical formulas and equations, atomic and molecular structure, chemical bonding, chemistry of the transition elements, nuclear chemistry, states of matter. Three periods of lecture and one three-and-one-half hour laboratory appointment weekly.

Open only to students who have not taken a chemistry course within the past four years, and to students who feel that their preparation in high school chemistry is equivalent to less than one full year. Serves as prerequisite for 115.

Mrs. Levy

114 (1) (2) Introductory Chemistry I

Atomic and molecular structure, chemical bonding, chemistry of the transition elements, nuclear chemistry, states of matter.

Open only to students who have taken one year of high school chemistry. Not open to students who have taken [110] or [111].

The Staff

115 (1)* (2) Introductory Chemistry II

Colligative properties, chemical kinetics and equilibrium, acids and bases, thermochemistry, electrochemistry, chemistry of the elements.

Prerequisite: 113 or 114. Not open to students who have taken [105], [106], [107], or [108].

*Not offered in Semester 1 1981-82.

Offered in Semester 1 and 2 1982-83.

120 (1) Intensive Introductory Chemistry

A one-semester alternative to Introductory Chemistry I and II for students who have taken more than one year of high school chemistry. Atomic and molecular structure, chemical bonding, properties of liquids and solutions, chemical equilibria, thermochemistry, electrochemistry, chemical kinetics.

Open only to students who have taken more than one year of high school chemistry. Not open to students who have taken any Grade I chemistry course.

Mrs. Kolodny

211 (1) (2) Organic Chemistry I

A study of the synthesis and reactions of typical organic compounds with emphasis on the chemistry of aliphatic molecules.

Prerequisite: [110], [111], 115 or 120.

Miss Crawford, Mr. Rosenfeld, Mr. Haines

222 (2) An Introduction to Biochemical Principles

A study of the chemistry of proteins, nucleic acids, and selected metabolic pathways.

Prerequisite: 211 and one year of high school biology or Biology 110.

Mrs. Levy

231 (1) (2) Physical Chemistry I

Properties of gases, chemical thermodynamics, properties of solutions and chemical kinetics. Second semester will have special emphasis on biochemical examples.

Prerequisite: [110], [111], 115, or 120, Mathematics 116, and Physics 104 or 105 or 106 or 107 or 110.

Mr. Loehlin, Mr. Karnett

241 (1) Inorganic Chemistry

Chemical periodicity, structure and reactivities in inorganic systems.

Prerequisite: 211.

Mr. Kahl

261 (2) Analytical Chemistry

Classical and instrumental methods of separation and analysis, quantitative manipulations, statistical treatment of data.

Prerequisite: 211 or 231 or by permission.

Mrs. Kolodny

306 (1) Seminar

Each year an important topic will be studied from a variety of chemical perspectives. Topic for 1981-82: Clinical chemistry. A study of clinical tests and their biochemical and medical implications. The course will include discussion of analytical techniques, instrumentation and application of results. Tests to be considered will include analysis of enzymes, lipids, hormones, electrolytes, and immunological procedures. One two-period meeting per week. No laboratory. Open to all students regardless of major who have completed two units of chemistry beyond the Grade I level and who have permission of the instructor.

Miss Hicks

309 (1) Foundations of Chemical Research

Advanced study of research design and methods through the literature and the laboratory. Two three-and-one-half hour periods of lecture and/or laboratory each week.

Prerequisite: 211, 231, and 261.

Not offered in 1981-82.

313 (1) (2) Organic Chemistry II

A continuation of 211, with emphasis on the chemistry of aromatic molecules.

Prerequisite: 211.

Not offered in Semester 1 1981-82.

Miss Crawford, Mr. Hearn, Mr. Haines

Offered Semester 1 1982-83.

317 (1) Organic Chemistry III

An examination of fundamental topics such as the nonclassical ion controversy, electrocyclic rearrangements, functional group preparations by novel methods, synthetic strategy. Related laboratory work and readings will be taken from primary research literature. There will be no regularly scheduled discussion session.

Prerequisite: 313.

Mr. Hearn

319 (2)* Selected Topics in Organic Chemistry

Topic for 1981-82: Carbon-carbon bond forming reactions and functional group transformations in the synthesis of organic compounds. There will be no scheduled discussion session.

Prerequisite: 313 and permission of the department.

Mr. Rosenfeld

323 (1) Chemical Aspects of Metabolism

An examination of reaction mechanisms, interrelationships of pathways, and experimental approach to the understanding of metabolism.

Prerequisite: 211 and Biology 200; or 222.

Miss Hicks

324 (2) Chemical Basis of Selected Physiological Processes

A consideration of topics of current research interest such as blood clotting, antigen-antibody interactions, regulation, mechanism of enzyme and coenzyme action.

Prerequisite: 323 or 222 or [326].

Mrs. Levy

329 (1)* Selected Topics in Biochemistry

Normally a different topic each year.

Prerequisite: one unit of biochemistry and permission of the department.

Not offered in 1981-82.

333 (2) Physical Chemistry II

Quantum chemistry and spectroscopy.

Structure of solids and liquids.

Prerequisite: 231, Physics 106 or 110 and Mathematics [201], [215], or 205.

Mrs. Kolodny

339 (1)* Selected Topics in Physical Chemistry

Topic for 1981-82: Chemical kinetics.

Prerequisite: 231 and permission of the department.

Mr. Karnett

349 (2)* Selected Topics in Inorganic Chemistry

Topic for 1981-82: The role of metals in biological systems.

Prerequisite: 241 and permission of the department.

Mr. Kahl

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Open by permission to students who have taken at least two units in chemistry above the Grade I level.

370 (1-2) Thesis 2 to 4

Open only to honors candidates.

Directions for Election

Chemistry 113 or 114 serves as prerequisite for 115. Final assignment to one of these courses will be made by the staff of the chemistry department.

A major in chemistry must include [110], or [111] or 115 or 120 (or their equivalent), 211, 231, 313, and 333, plus two additional units exclusive of 350 and 370. In addition, Mathematics [201], [215] or 205 and a Grade II unit of physics with laboratory are required.

Students planning graduate work in chemistry or closely allied fields should plan to elect 241 and 261, and should also strongly consider additional mathematics and physics courses. A reading knowledge of German and either French or Russian is required in many graduate programs.

Students planning to elect Organic Chemistry I and II are urged to elect both units I and II in the same academic year whenever possible.

Students interested in biochemistry or molecular biology are referred to the section of the Catalog where the interdepartmental major in molecular biology is described. They should consult with the director of the molecular biology program.

Premedical students are referred to the requirements given on p. 32. Note that either 231 or 313 is acceptable to most medical schools as the fourth chemistry unit.

The American Chemical Society has established a set of requirements which it considers essential for the training of chemists. Students wishing to meet the standard of an accredited chemist as defined by this society should consult the chairman of the Department of Chemistry.

Chinese

Professor:
Lin (Chairman)

Assistant Professor:
Lam, W. Liu

Instructor:
Van Zoeren³

Lecturer:
Yao, Crook³

101 (1-2) Elementary Spoken Chinese 2

Introduction to vernacular Mandarin Chinese. Pronunciation, sentence structure, and conversation. Three periods. 101 and 102 combined form the first-year Chinese course. Open to all students with no background or no previous formal Chinese language training. Corequisite: 102.

Mrs. Yao

102 (1-2) Basic Chinese Reading and Writing

Analysis of grammar and development of reading skills of simple texts and in character writing in both regular and simplified forms with emphasis on vocabulary currently used in People's Republic of China. One period with additional hour for smaller group discussions or individual assignments. 101 and 102 combined form the first-year Chinese course. Open to all students with no background or no previous formal Chinese language training. Corequisite: 101.

Mrs. Lin, Mr. Crook

151 (1) Advanced Elementary Chinese

Intensive oral training and practice in reading and writing with particular stress on sentence structure and vocabulary building. Open to students who can read and write some Chinese with a speaking ability of either Mandarin or any kind of Chinese dialect.

Mr. Crook

Placement and Exemption Examinations

For exemption with credit, students will be expected to submit laboratory notebooks or reports.

201 (1-2) Intermediate ChineseReading 2

Reading with emphasis on vocabulary building; review and further development of sentence structure, composition, and oral expression. Newspaper reading. Two periods with additional hour for smaller group discussions or individual assignments. 201 and 202 combined form the second-year Chinese course.

Prerequisite: 101 and 102 taken concurrently, or by permission of the instructor.

Corequisite: 202.

Mr. W. Liu, Mrs. Lam

202 (1-2) Intermediate Conversational Chinese

Discussion of current events and cultural topics combined with use of videotapes. Two periods. 201 and 202 combined form the second-year Chinese course.

Prerequisite: same as for 201. Corequisite: 201.

Mrs. Lam, Mr. W. Liu

252 (1) Readings in Modern Style Writings

Reading and discussion in Chinese of selections from contemporary Chinese writings, including plays, poetry, and essays on various topics such as economics, history, philosophy, political theory, and sociology. Three periods.

Prerequisite: 201 and 202 taken concurrently, or by permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Yao

300 (2) Readings in Contemporary Chinese Literature

Reading and discussion in Chinese of selections from short stories and novels. Readings from 1917 to the present. Three periods.

Prerequisite: 252 or by permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Lin

301 (1) Readings in Expository Writings of People's Republic of China

Readings and discussions in Chinese of selections from People's Republic of China, including the works of Mao Zedong and important issues of various current events and focus on practice in writing and translating in documentary style. Three periods.

Prerequisite: 252 or by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Crook

310 (1) Introduction to Literary Chinese

Wen-yen grammar, reading, and discussion in Chinese of selections of simple texts in classical Chinese. Two periods.

Prerequisite: 252 or by permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Lin

311 (2) Readings in Classical Chinese

Reading and discussion in Chinese of selections of poetry, prose, traditional short stories, and novels. Two periods.

Prerequisite: 310 or by permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Lam

316 (2) Seminar. Chinese Literature in the Twentieth Century

Study of works and authors in Chinese theatre, poetry, novels, etc. Topic for 1981-82: Development of Chinese theatre from its beginning to the present.

Representative plays from different periods will be examined. Students may experiment with writing and staging Chinese plays.

Readings and discussions all in Chinese.

Topic will be changed every year so students can elect repeatedly.

Prerequisite: 300 or 301 or by permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Lin

349 (1) Seminar. Topics in Literary Chinese

Reading and discussion in Chinese of premodern literary writings with chief emphasis on works reflecting significant social changes. Topic will be changed every year so students can elect repeatedly.

Prerequisite: 310 or 311 or by permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Lam

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Open by permission to qualified students.

Cross-Listed Courses

Extrdepartmental 106 (1)

Introduction to Chinese Culture

For description and prerequisite see Extrdepartmental 106.

Extrdepartmental 141 (2)

China on Film

For description and prerequisite see Extrdepartmental 141.

Extrdepartmental 241 (2)

Chinese Poetry and Drama in Translation

For description and prerequisite see Extrdepartmental 241.

Extrdepartmental 242 (2)

Chinese Fiction in Translation

For description and prerequisite see Extrdepartmental 242.

Directions for Election

Students who major in Chinese studies or East Asian studies should consult the chairman of the department and the advisor early in the college career.

For students majoring in Chinese studies, the minimum requirement is extensive Chinese language training, and literature in the original Chinese is highly recommended. Students who wish to take Chinese 252 or other courses in Chinese literature are advised to have a knowledge of Chinese culture or history. For this, Extrdepartmental 106, History 275 and 276 are recommended.

For students majoring in East Asian studies who do not intend to do graduate work, at least one year of Chinese is encouraged, but not required. Students who wish to do graduate work in East Asian studies are advised to complete at least two years of Chinese language training.

Course 350 is an opportunity for properly qualified students to work independently in fields not covered in other courses in the department. It can also provide continuing study in classical Chinese literature.

101 (1) (2) Survey of Modern Economics — Microeconomics

102 (1) (2) Survey of Modern Economics — Macroeconomics 1 each

Each course, which may be taken independently and in either order, presents a view of our market economy, beginning with the nature of economics and economic systems, supply and demand analysis, and the development of economic thought. 101, microeconomics, is an analysis of the choices individuals and firms make in the markets where they buy and sell. It deals with questions of equity and efficiency. Policy problems include income distribution, competition and its regulation, health and education as human capital investment, and current economic topics. 102, macroeconomics, is an analysis of the aggregate dimensions of the economy: GNP, national income and employment, price levels and inflation, money and banking, international trade and investment. Policy problems include the role of government, prosperity and depression, investment and economic growth, worldwide economic development, and current economic topics. All sections present the same course; individual instructors may offer slightly different material and problem sets. Small classes allow for discussion. All registered students must attend a series of special lectures (three for 101, three for 102) given by department faculty or visiting experts. The dates and times of these lectures will be published in the Schedule of Classes; topics and speakers will be announced in class. Open to all students.

The Staff

201 (1) (2) Microeconomic Analysis

Microeconomic theory; analysis of the individual household, firm, and industry. Prerequisite: 101 and 102.

Mr. Morrison, Mr. Nichols

202 (1) (2) Macroeconomic Analysis

Analysis of aggregate income, output, employment, and the price level. Analysis of policies to control inflation and unemployment.

Prerequisite: 101 and 102.

Ms. Baum, Mr. Klamer, Mr. Norton

203 (2) Economic Development: The European Experience

Description and analysis of the economic development of Western Europe from the Middle Ages to the 20th century. Particular emphasis on interrelationships among economic, demographic, and institutional changes which accompany the transformation of agriculture and the Industrial Revolution.

Prerequisite: 101 and 102.

Mr. Klamer

204 (1) American Economic History

Description and analysis of the growth and development of the U.S. economy and its institutions from Colonial times to the 20th century. Emphasis on the "new" economic history: explicit economic models and quantitative methods to analyze historical phenomena, including slavery and the South, the industrial economy and its labor force, the transportation revolutions, and government's role in economic change.

Prerequisite: 101 and 102.

Mr. Norton

205 (2) The Corporation

The development of the modern corporation and its place in the economy. Corporate organization and financial management. Financial markets; the technical and fundamental aspects of the stock market. Government regulation of corporations and markets. Limited to fifty students; preference to seniors.

Prerequisite: 101 and 102.

210 (1) Financial Markets and the Economy

An analysis of the role of commercial banks and other financial institutions in the economy. Microeconomics of financial intermediaries. The Federal Reserve System, regulation of financial institutions and monetary policy.

Prerequisite: 101 and 102.

211 (1) (2) Statistics and Econometrics

Descriptive statistics and an introduction to statistical inference. Expected values, probability distributions, and tests of significance. Classical models of bivariate and multiple regression. Problem solving using the computer.

Prerequisite: 101 and 102, or for students who have completed one course, are taking the other, and have instructor's recommendation in certain cases. See Handbook.

Mr. Case, Mr. Norton

214 (1) International Finance

International monetary problems, institutions and policy.

Prerequisite: 101 and 102.

Mr. Grant

216 (2) Elementary Mathematical Economics

Mathematical foundations of elementary economic theory; fundamentals of relevant advanced theory. Mathematical applications of economic analysis; mathematical problem-solving in the social science.

Prerequisite: 101, 102, and Mathematics 115.

Mr. Grant

217 (1)* Topics in Mathematics and Economics

Applications of calculus and linear algebra to economic analysis. Topics selected from: linear and general optimization, input-output analysis, marginal analysis, analysis of market equilibrium and stability.

Prerequisite: 201 or 202 and Mathematics [201] or [215] or 205, or by permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Grant, Mr. Shuchat

220 (1) Development Economics

Survey and analysis of problems and circumstances of less developed nations. Examination of theories of economic development. Review of policy options and prospects for Third World countries. Specific topics to include: population growth, rural development, basic needs, international trade, foreign aid and investment, planning strategies.

Prerequisite: 101 and 102.

Mr. Lindauer

222 (2) Seminar. Reindustrialization of Massachusetts

Has Massachusetts become the Japan of the United States? What explains Massachusetts' apparent turnaround from 1974 when it had one of the highest unemployment rates among the 50 states to 1981 when it had one of the lowest? Students will be required to prepare case studies, with the hope of publication, examining why firms have located in Massachusetts. Consideration of location theory, tax policy, and the availability of energy, labor and technology.

Prerequisite: permission of both instructors. 201 and 211 strongly recommended.

Mr. Goldman, Mr. Case

225 (1) Urban Economics

Analyses of the urban and suburban economies with particular reference to urban renewal, income distribution, transportation, housing markets, employment, and the economic development of the inner city.

Prerequisite: 101 and 102.

Ms. Sjogren

229 (2) Introduction to Labor Economics

Analysis of labor markets and wage determination including: microeconomics of labor supply and demand; labor unions and collective bargaining; human capital and occupations; minimum wages and "new" theories of unemployment.

Prerequisite: 101 and 102.

Mr. Lindauer

230 (2) Contemporary Economic Issues

A course applying introductory macro and micro economic analysis to problems of current policy. Topic for 1981-82: The economics of education.

Prerequisite: 101 and 102.

Ms. Sjogren

231 (1) Current Economic Topics

One or more subjects under current investigation by economists, e.g., the existence of rational expectations, the extent of involuntary unemployment, defining basic needs, changing population structure and dependency. Topic for 1981-82: Social welfare policy

Prerequisite: 101 and 102.

Ms. Baum

239 (2) Seminar. Economics of Energy and the Environment

Is economic growth without environmental deterioration possible? The economic forces (externalities) which cause pollution; the costs and who bears the costs; the energy crisis; the implications of zero economic growth; the extent of the problem and possible solutions both here and abroad.

Prerequisite: 101 and 102.

Mr. Goldman

241 (1) The Economics of Personal Choice

Analysis and decision-making in ordinary life situations; using economics to plan for one's future. Representative topics include housing, borrowing, having a family, insurance, saving, retirement, investment in one's self.

Prerequisite: 101 and 102.

Mrs. Bell

243 (2) Issues in Social Policy: The Sexual Division of Labor

Analyses of the sexual division of labor in the home and marketplace from historical and theoretical perspectives. Evaluation of social policies to achieve sexual equality from an economic standpoint.

Prerequisite: 101 and 102.

Ms. Amott

249 (1) Topics in Political Economy I

Radical political economy's criticisms of modern capitalism. Study of Marxian economic theory as an alternative conception of the workings of the market economy. Comparison of Marxian and mainstream economic theories.

Prerequisite: 101 and 102.

Mr. Norton

301 (1) Comparative Economic Systems

The economics of capitalism, socialism, fascism, and communism.

Prerequisite: 201 or 202.

Mr. Goldman

305 (1) Industrial Organization

Applied microeconomics directed to the study of the interactions of market structure, business behavior, and economic performance. The first two-thirds of the course emphasizes positive explanation and theory. The remainder focuses on policy and includes critical, ex-post analysis of antitrust rulings.

Prerequisite: 201 and 211.

Mr. Nichols

310 (1) Public Finance

Principles, practices, and economic effects of the public sector. The goals of public finance. A seminar treatment of current issues of fiscal policy.

Prerequisite: 201.

Mr. Case

312 (2) Economics of Accounting

Accounting principles and practice analyzed in terms of economic concepts of value and cost; problems in accumulating and presenting accounting data for decision-making by firms, by investors, by regulators, and others; case method used in class.

Prerequisite: 201 and 202, or by permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Bell

314 (2) International Economics

Theory of international trade. Methods of adjustment to disequilibrium in balance of payments. The impact of international movements of commodities and capital on economic activity in the past and since World War II. Current problems: international liquidity, economic integration, the United States balance of payments.

Prerequisite: 201 and 202.

315 (2) History of Economic Thought

The development of economic thought from ancient to modern times. A brief study of early economic ideas followed by a more detailed examination of the history of economics since 1776. The systems of the leading economists in the light of their own times and of the present day.

Prerequisite: 201.

Ms. Baum

316 (2) Modern Economic History

Economic history from the Great Depression to the present. Analysis of economic problems and policies from the 1920s to the 1970s.

Prerequisite: 202.

Mr. Morrison

317 (1) Introduction to Economic Modeling

Introduction to mathematical and econometric modeling. Techniques of specifications, estimation, and simulation of rational and behavioral economic models.

Prerequisite: 201, 202, 211, and Mathematics 115 or [201], or by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Grant

320 (2) The Challenge to Development Theory

History of Third World development from 1950 to present; evaluation of the development record through individual and collective country experience; assessment of the record's impact on development theory and strategy. Welfare theory, dependency theory, the theory of Dualism, macro-economic planning models, industrialization strategy, the cooperative experience, poverty and income distribution, agricultural development and other topics.

Prerequisite: 201, 202, 211; 220 or by permission of the instructor.

325 (2) Law and Economics

Economic analysis of legal rules and institutions. Application of economic theory and empirical methods to the central institutions of the legal system including the common law doctrines of negligence, contract, and property as well as civil, criminal, and administrative procedure. The course will contrast economic and non-economic theories of law and will address the strengths and limitations of the economic approach to law.

Prerequisite: 201.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Case

326 (2) Social Control of Economic Activity

Welfare economics of market failure, analysis and applications. Philosophies and theories of government intervention in the economy. Both historical and current examples will be explored, e.g., medieval price controls, modern stabilization policy, public utilities, public safety. The implications of deregulation.

Prerequisite: 201, 202, 211.

Ms. Amott

329 (1) Labor Markets and Employment

The structure and functioning of the labor market from both neoclassical and institutional points of view. Human capital theory, labor force participation, the economics of discrimination, labor unions, minimum wage policy, and other topics.

Prerequisite: 201 and 211.

Ms. Amott

330 (1) Seminar. Topics in Current Theory and Policy. Macroeconomic Modeling

Focused on contemporary macroeconomic issues, the economic events affecting them and the practical problems of analyzing and forecasting. Contemporary tools of applied macroeconomics, especially large-scale econometric models: their theoretical foundations, contemporary characteristics, and use. An interactive course: students participate in developing specification of key macroeconomic relationships which they use to analyze topical economic issues.

Prerequisite: 201, 202, and 211.

Mr. Gough, Jr.

331 (2) Seminar. Monetary Theory and Policy

The monetarists' controversy. Readings in contemporary monetary research.

Prerequisite: 201, 202, and 211.

Mr. Klamer

332 (2) Seminar. Topics in Current Theory and Policy Macroeconomics

Stagflation theory and policy alternatives. Supply side disaggregation, job search, rational expectations, tax cut-induced investment, incomes policies, and modern macro debates. Emphasis throughout on the nature and implications of alternative stabilization policy actions.

Prerequisite: 201, 202, and 211.

Mr. Nichols

333 (1) Seminar. Workshop in Applied Economics

Students will apply the concepts of economic modeling and empirical analysis to selected policy topics (e.g., determinants of alumnae contributions, economics of Massachusetts Sunday legislation). Students will work as a group doing primary research in a workshop environment. Enrollment limited to 12.

Prerequisite: 201, 202 and 211

Mr. Lindauer

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Open by permission to juniors and seniors who have taken 201 and 202.

370 (1-2) Thesis 2 to 4

Open only to honors candidates.

Directions for Election

The complete survey course consists of both Grade I level courses. Neither 101 nor 102 is a prerequisite for the other and either may be elected separately for one unit of credit.

Any student who plans to take economics after 101 and 102 should consult a department advisor to avoid poor choices. See also the Department Handbook.

Economics is a social science directed to the study of the universal problems of scarcity, choice, and human behavior. It contains elements of formal theory, history, philosophy, and mathematics. Unlike business administration, which deals with the specific procedures by which business enterprises are managed, it examines a broad range of institutions and focuses on their interactions. Thus students are urged to supplement their program in economics with courses from many other disciplines in the liberal arts.

An economics major contains required courses 201, 202, and 211 which should be taken at Wellesley. Permission to take these courses elsewhere must be obtained in advance from the department chairman. An economics major must take more than half of her Grade III economics units as Wellesley courses; permission for an exception must be obtained in advance from the chairman.

Choosing courses to complete the major requires careful thought; the department discourages a minimum major with only two Grade III courses. Students are advised to consult the Department Handbook prior to selecting courses each term. The Handbook contains specific suggestions and deals with a variety of topics including preparation in mathematics, desirable courses for those interested in graduate study in economics, complementary courses outside economics, etc.

The Economics Complement is recommended for students wishing to develop competence in economics in preparation for work or graduate study in law, business, public administration, area studies, international relations, public health, medicine, etc. The Complement consists of Economics 101, 102, 211, and at least two other courses in the department. The plan for this option should be carefully prepared: a student wishing to add the Economics Complement to the major in another field should consult a faculty advisor in economics.

Course may be elected to fulfill in part the distribution requirement in Group B¹ or Group B² as designated.

102 (1)1 Education in Philosophical Perspective

Examination of modern ethical problems of public education such as equality of opportunity, compulsion and the granting of educational credentials, student rights, and the education of religious minorities. Recent examples of the philosophical thinking necessary to understand and resolve these problems will be studied. Special attention will be paid to the interpretation and application of philosophical texts and to the writing of philosophical arguments. Relevant field placement may be arranged as part of this course; it will be available for all students but especially for those wishing to fulfill state requirements for teacher certification. Open to all students.

Mr. Bull

200 (1)1 Modern Philosophies of Education

Analysis of the role of education in modern social and political philosophy. Background study of the works of John Dewey, Eduard Bernstein, Edmund Burke, and Karl Marx. Focus on the educational writings of more recent participants in these philosophical traditions — including Paul Goodman, Jacques Maritain, Jacques Barzun, Paulo Freire, and Ivan Illich. Open to all students.

Not Offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Bull

206 (1) Women, Education, and Work

Examination of ways in which the background of women, the educational system, and the structure of work affect the lives of women, from a historical, sociological, and public policy point of view. Relationships between educational and economic institutions, intersections among the family lives, educational experience, and work lives of women.

Open to students who have taken one unit in Group B.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Brenzel

208 (2) Moral Education and Schooling

Study of recent demands for and attempts to develop educational practices explicitly designed to affect students' values and moral beliefs. Particular emphasis will be placed on theories of value clarification (Louis Rath and Sidney Simon) and moral development (Jean Piaget and Lawrence Kohlberg); their assumptions about morality, their instructional programs and their public justification will be examined.

Open to all students who have taken one unit in Group A or Group B.

Not Offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Bull

212 (1)*1 History of American Education

Study of the various historical conflicts and controversies leading to the development of education as a central force in American culture. Topics include the popularization of public schooling, its role in socializing the young, and the effects of political, economic, and social forces in shaping American education. Relevant field placement may be arranged as part of this course; it will be available for all students but especially for those wishing to fulfill state requirements for teacher certification.

Open to all students.

Ms. Beatty

216 (2)*2 Education, Society, and Social Policy

Through examination of educational theories and practices in an interdisciplinary manner, the social context of educational and social policies will be analyzed. The formulation and implementation of these policies will be studied with special emphasis on issues such as inequality, desegregation, community control, alternative schooling, testing, youth unemployment and family policies. Course will focus on the interrelationships between social structure and education, the potential and limits of education and social policy. Open to all students.

Ms. Beatty

300 (1) Mandatory Knowledge: Epistemology, Curriculum, and Evaluation

An examination of the major epistemological and ethical questions in school curriculum, the relation of curriculum to intellectual development and the structure of the disciplines, its usefulness, and its evaluation. Relevant field placement may be arranged as part of this course; it will be available for all students but especially for those wishing to fulfill state requirements for teacher certification. Required for secondary school teacher certification.

Prerequisite: 102 or 212 or for MIT students, MIT Seminar 212 or by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Bull

302 (2) Methods and Materials of Teaching

Study and observation of teaching objectives and classroom procedures in secondary schools. Review of teaching and learning theories. Study of the philosophy underlining the secondary school, its history and contemporary functions. Examination of curriculum materials in major teaching fields and of classroom practice. Open only to seniors doing student teaching. This course is required for Secondary School certification. Students electing 302 and 303 may include in addition one unit of independent study in the same semester.

Prerequisite: 300, and at least one of 102, 212. MIT students only may substitute MIT Seminar 212 for 102 or 212.

The Staff

303 (2) Practicum - Curriculum and Supervised Teaching

Observation, supervised teaching, and curriculum development in student's teaching fields throughout the semester. Attendance at secondary school placement required five days a week. Students electing 302 and 303 may include in addition one unit of independent study in the same semester. This course is required for secondary school teacher certification.
Corequisite: 302.

The Staff

307 (2) Seminar. Law, Ethics, and Education

Study of federal and state statutory and constitutional law governing public education as it reveals public purposes of education, the legal status of students and teachers, the requirements for equal educational opportunity, and the basis of public school finance. Emphasis on ethical aspects of issues such as student rights, academic freedom and affirmative action. Attention will be paid to the comprehension and interpretation of legal cases and, to a limited extent, to methods of independent legal research.

Open to juniors and seniors.

Mr. Bull

312 (2)*1 Seminar. History of Child Rearing and the Family

Examination of the American family and the emerging role of the state in assuming responsibility for child rearing and education. Study of the role of institutions and social policy in historical and contemporary attempts to shape the lives of immigrants, poor families, and their children.
Open to juniors and seniors without prerequisite.

Ms. Beatty

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Open to juniors and seniors by permission.

Directions for Election

With the exception of Education 302 and 303 the department's courses are designed for all students and not simply those planning a career in public or private school teaching. For those students who do wish to be certified as high school teachers (grades 7-12) upon graduation, the following program will ordinarily satisfy the requirements of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Certification in Massachusetts is recognized by many other states.

Required: Education 102 or 212, 300, 302 and 303.
Psychology 207

Recommended: 200, 208, 216 or 307
Psychology 212, 217, or 219
MIT Seminars 211 and 212, SRE 222
Black Studies 105

The Commonwealth requires that two courses taken prior to student teaching include field experience. In some circumstances, students may meet some of the requirement by submitting evidence of similar experience. For additional requirements in particular disciplines consult members of the department.

The writing of sketches and the short story. For interested students, experience in the writing of one-act plays.

Prerequisite: same as for 202.

Ms. Moss

211 (1)* Medieval Literature

Major works of medieval literature excluding those of Chaucer. A study of the medieval search for ways to represent human experience in imaginative literature, a search that led writers to the authority of dreams, to creating dramatic allegories, to recasting ancient stories into medieval forms, and to the song-like simplicity of medieval lyric poetry. Works will include, for example, Piers Plowman, cycle plays, and Sir Gawain and the Green Knight.

Open to all students.

Not offered in 1981-82.

213 (1) Chaucer

Intensive study of The Canterbury Tales, supplemented by the short later poems as they reveal Chaucer's comic artistry, his relation to history and society of the late 14th century in England.

Open to all students.

Mr. Stehling

222 (1) Renaissance Literature

Prose and poetry from More and the courtier poets of Henry VIII through Shakespeare's greatest 16th-century predecessors, Sidney, Spenser, and Marlowe. A study of forms characteristic of the Renaissance, and of the changing climate of ideas.

Open to all students.

Mr. Polito

227 (2) Milton

Close analysis of Milton's major poems. Some examination of the political and religious contexts of Milton's writings, his influence on later poets, and his importance for 20th-century critics and literary theorists.

Open to all students.

Mr. Cain

234 (2) Eighteenth-Century Literature

An historical approach, from the Glorious Revolution of 1689 to the French Revolution of 1789. Emphasis on class conflicts, climates of opinion, the play of ideas, and ways of conceiving the significance of changes in style. Authors to include Congreve, Defoe, Johnson, Boswell, Sterne, Burke and Crabbe.

Open to all students.

Directions for Election

Grade I literature courses are open to all students and presume no previous college experience in literary study. They provide good introductions to such study because of their subject matter or focus on training in the skills of critical reading and writing. Grade II courses, also open to all students, presume some competence in those skills. They treat major writers and historical periods, and provide training in making comparisons and connections between different works, writers, and ideas. Grade III courses encourage both students and teachers to pursue their special interests. They presume a greater overall competence, together with some previous experience in the study of major writers, periods, and ideas in English or American literature. They are open to all those who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be Grade II, and by permission of the instructor or chairman to other qualified students. For admission to seminars and for independent work (350), students of at least B+ standing in the work of the department will have first consideration. Students are encouraged to consult with the instructors of courses they are interested in. More complete descriptions of all courses, composed by their instructors, are posted on bulletin boards in Founders Hall, and are available from the department secretary.

Students with AP credits in English, together with other freshmen and sophomores who may be considering English as a major or double major, should at some convenient point confer with the chairman. The department also maintains a roster of faculty advisors available for students contemplating English courses, whether as majors or nonmajors.

The English major consists of a minimum of eight courses, six of which must be in literature. At least four of the latter courses must be above Grade I and at least two at the Grade III level. (Neither English 100 nor English 200 may be counted toward the major.) Students must take Critical Interpretation, or present very clear evidence of having had its equivalent. This course offers fundamental and rigorous practice in methods of interpreting a literary text. All majors must also take at least one course in Shakespeare, ordinarily English 323 or 324. They should work closely with their advisors in seeking to arrange a program of study combining breadth and depth: a more than superficial acquaintance with some major works, authors, and periods that comprise the history of English and American literature, together with a developing interest in some special field of study, such as the English Renaissance, drama, criticism, or modernism.

The department offers a choice of three programs for Honors. Under Program I the honors candidate does independent research or a project in creative writing. Although this program, upon completion, enters the student's transcript as two units of English 370, it may be begun as a unit of 350 and converted to 370 at the end of an auspicious fall semester. Programs II and III offer an opportunity to receive Honors on the basis of work done for regular courses; these programs carry no additional course credit. A candidate electing Program II takes a written examination in a field defined by several of her related courses (e.g., the Renaissance, drama, criticism). One electing Program III presents a dossier of essays written for several courses with a statement of connections between them and critical questions raised by them. An oral examination is required in all Honors programs.

Special attention is called to the range of courses in writing the College offers. English 100 is open to all students who want to improve their skills in writing expository essays. Extradepartmental 100 is open, with the permission of a class dean, to students who would benefit from a continuation of English 100 or from an individual tutorial. English 200 is a new course made possible through an endowed fund given by Luther I. Replogle in memory of his wife, Elizabeth McIlvain Replogle. It is a workshop designed especially for upperclassmen who want training in expository writing on a level above that of English 100. English 201 (The Critical Essay), besides offering intensive instruction in writing about literature, may include opportunities for writing review articles about the other arts. Courses in the writing of poetry and fiction (Grades II and III) are planned as workshops with small group meetings and frequent individual conferences. In addition, qualified students may apply for one or two units of Independent Study (350) in writing. Grade II and Grade III courses in writing and 350 writing projects as well, may at the discretion of the instructor be offered credit/noncredit/ credit-with-distinction. In general, enrollment in writing courses is limited to 15.

Knowledge of English and American history, of the course of European thought, of theatre studies, and of at least one foreign literature at an advanced level is of great value to the student of English. See, for example, History 239, 240, 252; Philosophy 203; Grade II and Grade III courses in foreign literatures; Greek 104; Russian 201, 202; Extradepartmental 211, 220, 247, 330; and courses in Theatre Studies.

A reading knowledge of at least one ancient or modern foreign language is desirable for all majors. Students expecting to do graduate work in English should ordinarily plan to acquire a reading knowledge of two foreign languages.

For students interested in American literature, in American studies, in modern drama, and in modern poetry, attention is called to relevant courses in the department of Black Studies, especially 105, 210, 211, and 310.

All courses (except 220 and 349) are conducted in French. Oral expression, composition, and, in certain courses, creative writing are stressed.

The department reserves the right to place new students in the courses for which they seem best prepared regardless of the number of units they have offered for admission.

Qualified students are encouraged to spend the junior year in France. See p. 37.

101-102 (1-2) Beginning French 2

Intensive oral training and practice in listening, speaking, and reading, supplemented by regular laboratory assignments. A slide presentation of the text introduces each week's cultural and linguistic material. The French comic book Astérix will be used as a supplement during the second semester. Three periods.

Open only to students who do not present French for admission.

Mr. Grimaud and Staff

111 (1) Elementary Intermediate French

Intensive oral training and practice in listening comprehension and writing. Thorough grammar review. Vocabulary building. Three periods.

Open to students by permission of the department only. To receive credit for 111, students completing the course must proceed to 122. To fulfill the language requirement, students completing 111 must proceed to 122.

Ms. Levitt

121-122 (1-2) Intermediate French 2

First semester: Particular stress on grammar review, listening comprehension, vocabulary building, and development of oral skills.

Second semester: Choice of different sections emphasizing either the reading of modern texts with discussion and written work or further development of conversational skills through regular laboratory work using primarily nonliterary materials. Three periods.

Prerequisite: 102.

Ms. Hules, Mr. Straus and Staff

141-142 (1-2) The Language and Culture of Modern France 2

Discussion of selected modern literary and cultural texts. Grammar review. Study of vocabulary and pronunciation. Frequent written and oral practice. Three periods.

Prerequisite: 122.

Mr. Frye and Staff

Contemporary problems and attitudes. Class discussion of representative texts, periodicals, and newspapers. Oral reports, short papers, outside reading.

Prerequisite: same as for 201.

Ms. Raffy

206 (1) (2) Intermediate Spoken French

Practice in conversation, using a variety of materials including films, videotapes, periodicals, songs, radio sketches, and interviews. Regular use of the language laboratory. Enrollment limited to 15. Freshmen may register for this course only after consultation with the instructor. Prerequisite: same as for 201.

Ms. Gillain, Ms. Raffy

212 (1) Medieval French Literature I

The knight, the lover, and the outlaw: from the Chanson de Roland through Villon. Medieval texts read in modern French. Prerequisite: one unit of 201, 202, 203, 205, or 206; by permission of the instructor, 142. Miss McCulloch

213 (1) (2) French Drama in the Twentieth Century

Trends in contemporary drama: symbolism, the use of myths, the influence of existentialism, the theatre of the absurd. Prerequisite: same as for 212.

Mr. Straus, Mr. Stambolian

214 (1) (2) The French Novel in the Nineteenth Century

Intensive study of narrative techniques and the representation of reality in major works by Balzac, Stendhal, Flaubert, Zola. Prerequisite: same as for 212.

Mr. Frye, Ms. Mistacco

215 (1) Baudelaire and Symbolist Poets

The nature of the poetic experience studied in the works of Baudelaire, Verlaine, Rimbaud, Mallarmé, and Laforgue. Prerequisite: same as for 212.

Mr. Galand

219 (2) Love/Death

In major novels of different periods, this course will investigate the connection between fiction and our fundamental preoccupation with the issues of love and death. Texts ranging from medieval to 20th century will be studied, with an eye toward understanding how the themes of love and death are related to structure, narration, and the dynamics of reading. Prerequisite: one Grade II unit of French literature. Permission of the instructor is required.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Respaut

220 (2) Proust and the Modern French Novel (in English)

Psychology and aesthetics in works by Flaubert, Gide, Sartre, Beckett, and Robbe-Grillet, with emphasis on Proust's Remembrance of Things Past. Lectures, papers, and class discussion in English. Students may read the texts in French or in English translation. Cross-listed in Extradepartmental.

Open to all students except those who have taken two or more Grade II courses in French literature.

Mr. Stambolian

222 (1) (2) Studies in Language

A review of selected problems in French grammar, enrichment of vocabulary, and an introduction to specifically French techniques of composition and the organization of ideas. Limited enrollment.

Open to freshmen in the first semester only after consultation with the instructor.

Prerequisite: 142, or 122 by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Galand, Mr. François, Mr. Grimaud, Mr. Abetti

223 (2) The Nature of Narrative: An Introduction to Structuralist Criticism

How to analyze novels, plays, short stories or nonliterary texts. Emphasis on the different ways one can study plot; implications for a psychological and social analysis of creation and reading pleasure.

Prerequisite: one Grade II unit of French literature.

Mr. Grimaud

226 (1) (2) Advanced Spoken French

Practice in oral expression to improve fluency and pronunciation with special attention to idiomatic vocabulary and phonetics. In addition to recordings, videotapes, and periodicals, classics of the French cinema will be studied for their linguistic interest. Regular use of the language laboratory. Enrollment limited to 15. Not open to freshmen. Not recommended for students who have already studied in France. Prerequisite: one Grade II unit except 206, or by permission of the instructor.

Ms. Gillain, Mr. Abetti

240 (1) French Cinema

A survey of French cinema from its invention (Lumière, Méliès) to the New Wave (Godard, Truffaut) with emphasis on the classical narrative film of the '30s and '40s (Vigo, Carné, Renoir, Ophüls, Cocteau, Bresson). Enrollment limited to 20. Prerequisite: same as for 223.

Ms. Gillain

249 (1) (2) Selected Topics 1 or 2

Not offered in 1981-82.

250 (2) The French Press

A reading of current newspaper and magazine articles in French. The emphasis will be political, sociological, intellectual as well as linguistic (practice in conversation and composition). Analysis of cartoons and comic strips from satirical newspapers and magazines and of advertisements from the daily and weekly press. Ideological and stylistic differences will be stressed. Oral and written reports. Enrollment limited to 15. Prerequisite: one Grade II unit except 220, or by permission of the instructor.

Ms. Raffy

300 (2)* French Literature of the Renaissance

Social and intellectual contexts of the Renaissance in France. Humanism vs. traditional theology. Popular vs. official culture. Oral tradition and the revolution of printing. Tolerance vs. religious fanaticism. Study of major writers and the important literary beginnings their works reflect: Rabelais and the birth of the novel; Montaigne and the origins of autobiography; love poetry reoriented with Ronsard; a tradition of women's writing established by Louise Labé and Marguerite de Navarre. Frequent reference to concurrent developments in music and the plastic arts. Prerequisite: two units of 201, 202, or 203, or one unit of 212, 213, 214, 215, or 219.

Mr. Lydgate

301 (1) The French Classical Theatre

Power struggle as represented on the stage. Study of plays by Corneille, Racine, and Molière, with reference to important political, social, religious, and philosophical changes in the 17th century from Louis XIII and Richelieu through the most spectacular decades of the reign of the Sun King.

Prerequisite: same as for 300.

Mr. François

303 (2) Advanced Studies in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries

Prerequisite: same as for 300.

Not offered in 1981-82.

304 (1) The French Novel in the Eighteenth Century

The affirmation of self and the evolution of narrative forms. Special attention will be given to the ideological assumptions underlying the portrayal of women and their relationship to narrative structures. Authors studied: Prévost, Marivaux, Rousseau, Diderot, Laclos, Sade.

Prerequisite: same as for 300.

Ms. Mistacco

305 (2) Advanced Studies in the Nineteenth Century

Prerequisite: same as for 300.

Not offered in 1981-82.

306 (1) Literature and Ideology in the Twentieth Century

Ideological purpose and literary form in selected works of Proust, Gide, Breton, Malraux, Sartre, Camus, and Robbe-Grillet. Prerequisite: same as for 300.

Mr. Galand

307 (2)* French Poetry in the Twentieth Century

The nature and function of poetic creation in the works of Valéry, Apollinaire, Breton, Saint-John Perse, Char, and Ponge. Representative texts by poets associated with OULIPO and Tel Quel will also be included.

Prerequisite: same as for 300.

Mr. Galand

308 (1) Advanced Studies in Language I

Comparative stylistics: a normative approach through linguistic analysis to the processes and patterns of translation. Theories are tested and applied.

Prerequisite or corequisite: one Grade III unit of French literature and 222, or their equivalents.

Mr. François

309 (2) Advanced Studies in Language II

Translation into French from novels, essays and poetry. Study of French style through analysis of selected texts.

Prerequisite: same as for 308.

Ms. Gillain

312 (1) Medieval French Literature II

See 212. Joint class meetings for 212 and 312. Supplementary assignments and readings in Old French for students at Grade III level.

Open by permission of the instructor.

Miss McCulloch

318 (2)* The Reader in the New Novel

Recent experiments in fiction: textual play vs. expression, communication, representation; transgression and transformation of conventions of reading. Some discussion of film. Emphasis on the works and theoretical writings of Sarraute, Butor, Beckett, Duras, Simon, Ricardou, and Robbe-Grillet. Prerequisite: same as for 300.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Mistacco

319 (2) Women and Literary Expression

Topic for 1981-82: Transgression and Transcendence: Modern French Women Writers. Revolt against traditional androcentric psycho-social models, the creation of "feminine" alternatives and the search for another language. Selected texts of Chawaf, Cixous, Duras, Leclerc, Rochefort and Wittig as well as excerpts from feminist theoreticians.

Prerequisite: one Grade III unit of French literature or, by permission of the instructor, its equivalent.

Ms. Hules

321 (2) Seminar

Topic for 1981-82: Le metteur en scène. An exploration of the esthetics and politics of modern French theatre through consideration of writings by eminent 20th-century French directors from Jacques Copeau, whose Théâtre du Vieux Colombier opened its doors to the public in 1913, to Ariane Mnouchkine whose Théâtre du Soleil on the outskirts of Paris is working today to carry theatrical innovation forward.

Prerequisite: one Grade III unit of French literature or by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Straus

349 (2) Studies in Culture and Criticism (in English)

Topic for 1981-82: French Lyricism: From Literary Text to Opera. Classic French stories, plays, and novels and their adaptation by French, Italian, and German librettists and composers. Reading and discussion of a specific literary text precedes consideration of its transformation into an opera. The central issue is the manner in which narrative construction, dramatic characterization, mood, and style differ in prose fiction, dramatic literature, and opera. Texts by Perrault, Corneille, Beaumarchais, Prévost, Hugo, Dumas, Mérimée, Maeterlinck, Apollinaire. Operas by Rossini, Massenet, Mozart, Verdi, Bizet, Debussy, Puccini and Poulenc.

Additionally listed under Extradepartmental. Prerequisite: one Grade II unit in literature or by permission of the instructor. Reading knowledge of French required.

Mr. Turk (Taught at MIT)

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Prerequisite: same as for 321.

370 (1-2) Thesis 2 to 4

Open only to honors candidates.

Directions for Election

Course 101-102 is counted toward the degree but not toward the major. Students who begin with 101-102 in college and who plan to major in French should consult the chair of the department during the second semester of their freshman year. Course 141-142 may not be elected by students who have taken both 101-102 and 121-122. A student may not count toward the major 220, both 121-122 and 141-142, both 206 and 226. Course 349 may be counted toward the major but not toward the minimum major.

Students who achieve a final grade of A or A- for 121 or 141 may, on the recommendation of their instructor, accelerate their study of French in the following manner: from 121 to 142, from 141 to a lower Grade II course. Students achieving a final grade of A or A- for 102 may, upon the recommendation of their instructor, accelerate to 141.

Majors are required to take two of the following courses: 222, 308, 309. In some cases 226 may also be required. Majors should consult their advisors regularly to arrange a program of study with these objectives: (a) oral and written linguistic competence; (b) acquisition of basic techniques of reading and interpreting texts; (c) a general understanding of the history of French literature; (d) focus on some special area of study (such as a genre, a period, an author, a movement, criticism, poetics, contemporary French culture).

Courses in other foreign language and literature departments, in Art, History (especially 242 and 243), Philosophy, English, Extradepartmental 237, 330, 333, and 331, and Religion 104 and 105 are recommended for majors.

Students who plan to do graduate work in French are advised to begin or to pursue the study of a second modern language and the study of Latin; those who plan to do graduate work in comparative literature are advised to continue the study of one or more other modern literatures and to acquire proficiency in at least one classical language.

Geology

Associate Professor:
Andrews (Chairman)

Assistant Professor:
Besancon, Thompson

Instructor:
Jannik³

100 (1) Oceanography

An introduction to ocean science with an emphasis on marine geology. Topics include ocean currents and sediments, ocean basin tectonics and evolution, coral reefs, deep-sea life, and marine resources. No laboratory. Open to all students.

Mr. Andrews

102 (1) (2) Introduction to Geology

An introduction to the basic features of the solid earth and the processes that continue to modify it. Emphasis on the development and impact of the continental drift and plate tectonics theories. Laboratory and field trips include study of minerals, rocks, topographic and geologic maps.

Open to all students.

Mr. Andrews, Ms. Thompson, Mr. Besancon

200 (2) Historical Geology

The geologic history of North America and the evolution of life as revealed in the fossil record. Interpretation of paleogeography and ancient sedimentary and tectonic environments. Laboratory and field trips. Prerequisite: 102 or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Andrews

202 (1) Mineralogy

Introduction to crystallography; systematic study of the rock-forming minerals. Emphasis on geochemical relationships including bonding, solid solution series, and mineral structure. Introduction to optical mineralogy. Laboratory.

Prerequisite: 102 or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Besancon

205 (2)* Invertebrate Paleontology

The morphology and evolution of the major fossil invertebrate phyla with discussion of such general topics as functional morphology, origin of species and higher taxa, ontogeny and phylogeny, and animal size and shape relationships. Laboratory. Prerequisite: 102 and 200, or one unit in biology, or permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Andrews

Offered in 1982-83.

206 (1)* Structural Geology

Introduction to geometry and origin of rock structure ranging from micro-textures and fabrics to large-scale folding and faulting. Emphasis on processes of rock deformation in terms of theoretical prediction and experimental findings. Laboratory and field trips.

Prerequisite: 102 or permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Thompson

Offered in 1982-83.

207 (1)* Earth Resources

An introduction to the formation and location of geological resources, especially petroleum, coal, ores, water and gem minerals. Topics will include supply and estimation of reserves, modern exploration and exploitation techniques, and environmental considerations. Field trips to be arranged. No laboratory.

Prerequisite: 102 or permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Besancon

Offered in 1982-83.

304 (1)* Stratigraphy and Sedimentation

Study of the formation, composition, and correlation of stratified rocks. Emphasis on sedimentary environments, transportation of sedimentary particles, sediment diagenesis, and sedimentary petrography. Laboratory and field trips.

Prerequisite: 202.

Ms. Thompson

Not offered in 1982-83.

308 (2)* Plate Tectonics

The purpose of this course is to examine geological, paleontological, and geophysical arguments underlying the plate tectonic theory of global dynamics. Topics to include: historic controversy over continental drift, evidence from the ocean basins leading to the concept of sea floor spreading, geophysical evidence for plate boundaries and plate motions, tectonic provinces associated with presently active plate boundaries, applications of plate theory in the interpretation of ancient tectonic provinces. Prerequisite: 102 and 206.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Thompson

Offered in 1982-83.

309 (2) Petrology

Study of the origin and occurrence of igneous and metamorphic rocks with particular reference to modern geochemical investigations. Examination and description of hand specimens and thin sections using the petrographic microscope. Laboratory. Prerequisite: 202.

Mr. Besancon

310 (2)* Geometrics

Statistical analysis of geologic data utilizing univariate, bivariate, and multivariate techniques. Development and application of FORTRAN computer programs for the solution of geologic problems. Laboratory includes field mapping and scientific photography.

Prerequisite: 102 and one Grade II unit, or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Andrews

Not offered in 1982-83.

349 (1) Seminar

Geomorphology. Study of processes acting on the earth's surface.

The Staff

Not offered in 1982-83.

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Open by permission to juniors and seniors.

370 (1-2) Thesis 2 to 4

Open only to honors candidates.

Cross-Listed CoursesExtrdepartmental 112 (2)

Evolution: Change Through Time

For description and prerequisite see Extrdepartmental 112.

Directions for Election

In addition to eight units in geology, normally to include 205, 206, 304, and 309, the minimum major requires four units from other laboratory sciences, mathematics, or computer science. All four units may not be taken in the same department. A student planning graduate work should note that most graduate geology departments normally require two units each of chemistry, physics, and mathematics. Biology often may be substituted if the student is interested in paleontology.

The department recommends that students majoring in geology attend one of the Rocky Mountain geology field courses given by other colleges. Credit may be given for such courses provided the student's plans are approved in advance by the department.

German

Professor:

Goth (Chairman)

Associate Professor:

Ward

Assistant Professor:

Prather, Hansen

The language of the classroom in all courses is almost exclusively German. The student thus has constant practice in hearing, speaking, and writing German.

The department reserves the right to place a new student in the course for which she seems best prepared regardless of the number of units she has offered for admission.

By doing special reading during the summer and upon approval of the chairman, capable students in 100 have the opportunity to omit intermediate level courses and proceed with 202.

Upon recommendation of their instructor and approval of the chairman, students may proceed from 101 or 102 to 105 or from 104 to 203 at mid-year.

Qualified students may be recommended to spend the junior year in Germany. See p. 37.

100 (1-2) Beginning German 2

An introduction which emphasizes German as it is spoken and written today. Extensive practice in all four skills: listening, speaking, reading and writing. Weekly laboratory assignments with special emphasis on oral expression. Reading of fables, fairy tales and short stories. Introduction to contemporary life and culture in German speaking countries. Four periods.

Open only to students who do not present German for admission.

The Staff

101 (1) Intensive Review German 2

Intensive practice in listening comprehension, speaking and writing for students with previous knowledge of German. Thorough grammar review. Vocabulary building. Reading and tapes from the intermediate level. Five periods. Entering students must take a placement exam. To fulfill the language requirement, students must proceed to 103, or with special permission, 105. Three units of credit are given after completion of 101-103 or 101-105.

Mr. Hansen

102-103 (1-2) Intermediate German 2

Review of grammar and practice in all language skills with special emphasis on idiomatic usage. First semester: thorough grammar review, practice in classroom and language laboratory, reading in contemporary culture. Second semester: extensive composition practice, readings in German history and culture and modern literary texts, some computer laboratory work. Three periods.

Prerequisite: one to two admission units and placement exam or 100.

Ms. Ward, Mrs. Prather

104-105 (1-2) Studies in Language and Literature 2

Intermediate language study with emphasis on idiomatic usage, vocabulary building, and expository writing. First semester: Grammar review, written and oral practice based on literary readings. Second semester: Further training in analysis of fiction, poetry, and drama with emphasis on the continued development of language skills. Three periods. Prerequisite: two to three admission units and placement exam or, by permission of the department, 100. Permission will be based on a high grade in 100.

Ms. Goth

202 (1) 203 (2) Introduction to German Literature 1 or 2

Interpretation of selected masterpieces. Short papers with emphasis on stylistics and grammar. First semester: From the Middle Ages to the Enlightenment. Emphasis on the Reformation and Baroque periods. Second semester: From the 18th- to the 20th-century. Texts by Lessing, Goethe, Schiller, the Romantics and the Realists. Both semesters are required for the major. Each semester may be taken independently. Three periods. Prerequisite: three or more admission units and placement exam, two units of intermediate level German, or by permission of the department, 100. Permission will be based on a high grade in 100 and summer work.

Mrs. Prather, Ms. Goth

205 (1) Studies in Romanticism: Literary and Folk Fairy Tales

The "Kunstmärchen" of the Romantic epoch and its relationship to the folk "Märchen" (Grimm, Anderson, Perrault) and to myth. Religious, social and psychological patterns. Psychoanalytical interpretations of the fairy tale: Freud, Jung, Bettelheim, Fromm. Prerequisite: 202, 203 or by permission of the instructor.

Ms. Goth

206 (1) Nineteenth-Century Literature: From the Fairytale to the Novelle

Late Romanticism and Realism with special emphasis on the development of the Novelle as a genre. Tieck, Hoffman, Stifter, Keller, Droste-Hülshoff, Storm, and others. Prerequisite: 202 and 203.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Ward

207 (1) Twentieth-Century Literature: Hugo von Hofmannsthal

A study of the major poetry, plays, and libretti of Hofmannsthal; will include investigation of such topics as Decadence, Symbolism, and classical motifs in modern literature. The course ends with a study of selected operas by Hofmannsthal and Richard Strauss with special emphasis on Rosenkavalier. Prerequisite: two Grade II units or by permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Hansen

208 (2) Literature since 1945: Women and Women Authors in the Two Germanies

Discussion of the changing role of women in the Federal Republic of Germany and the German Democratic Republic through an analysis of contrasting literary works by representative women writers from Anna Seghers and Ingeborg Bachmann to Sarah Kirsch and Gabriele Wohmann. The image of women in literature considered within a political/historical context. Attention will also be given to recent trends in literary criticism, including feminist and Marxist approaches. Prerequisite: one Grade II unit.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Ward

Offered in 1982-83.

210 (2) Theatre in Germany

German drama theory and practice from the Middle Ages to the present, with attention to theatrical as well as textual issues. Extensive use of tapes. The course will culminate in the staging of a one-act play or portion of a longer drama chosen by the class.

Prerequisite: one Grade II unit.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Ward

Offered in 1982-83.

225 (2) Clashing Myths in German Culture (in English)

Mythology from the Classical and Norse Traditions as a subject of inquiry in modern German thought and as thematic material in opera, literature, philosophy, psychology, and social thought. Includes theories of myth, some classical myths, a study of specific Norse Myths, myth in Wagner, Nietzsche, Hofmannsthal, Freud, Jung, Hesse, Alfred Rosenberg, and Thomas Mann. Course will include listening to two German operas. All texts read in English.

Open to all students.

Mr. Hansen

230 (2) Advanced German Language Skills

A review of difficult points of grammar, syntax and style, with intensive practice in composition, translation and oral skills. Readings from newspapers and magazines, as well as technical material from various fields. Regularly scheduled work in language and computer laboratories. Required for all German majors whose native language is not German. Two periods.

Prerequisite: one Grade II unit.

Mrs. Prather

304 (2) Goethe

An introduction to the Goethe-era through study and performance of his dramas from Götz von Berlichingen to Faust. The Storm and Stress and classical periods.

Prerequisite: 202-203 or by permission of the instructor.

Ms. Ward

305 (1) Reading in Eighteenth-Century Literature

Emphasis on writers of the Enlightenment and the Storm and Stress movement: Gottsched, Lessing, Herder, Bürger, Goethe, Schiller.

Prerequisite: two Grade II units or by permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Goth

Offered in 1982-83.

310 (1) Studies in Poetry

Study of themes, techniques, and historical background. The development of German poetry from the Baroque to modern times.

Close study of key poems by Gryphius, Goethe, Novalis, Rilke, Brecht, Celan and others.

Prerequisite: 202-203 or by permission of the instructor.

Ms. Goth

349 (1) Seminar. German Exile Literature (1933-1945)

Exploration of the writers who were forced to flee Hitler and continue their literary production outside Germany. Topics to be considered include the psychological crisis of exile and its effect upon the writers and their works; the recurring themes and techniques of oppositional, anti-fascist literature; political and aesthetic concerns of exile literature. Letters and memoirs, as well as primary texts, will be examined as documents of the literary life of this troubled era.

Prerequisite: one Grade III unit or by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Hansen

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Open by permission to juniors and seniors.

370 (1) (2) Thesis 2 to 4

Open only to honors candidates.

Directions for Election

Course 100 is counted toward the degree but not toward the major. Intermediate level courses (101, 102-103, 104-105) are considered as Grade I courses and are not ordinarily counted toward the major. Students who begin with 100 and who wish to major in German should consult the department in order to obtain permission to omit the intermediate level and take 202-203. Students who begin with intermediate level work and wish to major may be encouraged at mid-year to advance from 101 or 102 to 105 and from 104 to 203.

Students intending to major in the department are required to take 202-203, 304 or 305 offered in alternate years, 230, and at least one seminar.

It is strongly recommended that the major include a distribution by approach; that is, at least one period, one genre and one single-author course, and that there be three Grade III units.

Courses in art, music, philosophy, English, literature courses in other foreign language departments, and History 244 are recommended.

Greek and Latin

Professor:

Lefkowitz (Chairman), Geffcken•¹

Associate Professor:

Marvin

Assistant Professor:

Engels•, Rash, Starr, Poliakoff

Courses on the original languages are conducted in English and encourage close analysis of the ancient texts, with emphasis on their literary and historical values.

The departments reserve the right to place a new student in the course for which she seems best prepared regardless of the number of units she has offered for admission.

Qualified students are encouraged to spend a semester, usually in the junior year, at the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome. See Directions for Election.

Greek

102 (1) Beginning Greek

An introduction to Ancient Greek, stressing rapid reading and Greek as an example of a highly inflected Indo-European language. Four periods.

Open to students who do not present Greek for admission.

Mr. Rash

103 (2) Intermediate Greek

Further development of Greek reading and language skills. Three periods.

Prerequisite: 102 or equivalent.

Miss Marvin

104 (1) Classical Mythology

The more important classical myths read in English translations of Greek and Latin authors; their religious origins; their expression in ancient literature and art; their later influence.

Directions for Election

To fulfill the distribution requirement in Group A, students may elect any courses in Greek or Latin except Greek 252, 328; History 150, 229, 230, 231, 360; Extradepartmental [243], 246, 251, (these courses may be elected to fulfill the requirement in Group B). The following may not be counted toward the major in Greek or Latin: Extradepartmental [243], 246, 251; Greek 203, 228, 252, 254, 328; Greek/Latin 104; History 229, 230, 150, 231, 360.

All students majoring in Greek must complete four units of Grade III work.

All students majoring in Latin are required to complete 302 and at least two units of the following: 308, 309, 316, 317.

Latin students who offer an AP Latin score of 5 should elect 249; an AP score of 4 normally leads to 202.

Students majoring in Greek or Latin are advised to elect some work in the other language. It should be noted that work in both Greek and Latin is essential for graduate studies in the classics.

Courses in ancient history, ancient art, ancient philosophy, and classical mythology are recommended as valuable related work. Students interested in a major in classical and Near Eastern archaeology are referred to p. 175 where the program is described.

Students who wish to focus a classical major on ancient civilization can plan with the department an appropriate sequence of courses, which should include work in art, history, philosophy, and literature. Such a program should always contain at least four units of work in the original language. Basic knowledge of French or German is recommended. For details on the classical civilization major, see p. 174.

The departments offer a choice of two plans for the Honors Program. Plan A (Honors Research, see 370 above, carrying two to four units of credit) provides the candidate with opportunity for research on a special topic and the writing of a long paper or several shorter papers. Plan B provides an opportunity for the candidate to show through examinations at the end of her senior year that she has acquired a superior grasp, not only of a basic core of texts, but also of additional reading beyond course requirements. Plan B carries no course credit, but where appropriate, students may elect a unit of 350 to prepare a special author or project which would be included in the Honors examinations.

Honors candidates who are classical civilization majors should elect Plan B.

The College is a member of the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome, a program for American undergraduates in classical languages, ancient history and topography, archaeology and art history. Majors, especially those interested in Roman studies, are urged to plan their programs so as to include a semester at the Center in the junior year.

100 (1) (2) Medieval and Early Modern European History

A study of the major ideas and institutions that have shaped Western civilizations from the "grandeur that was Rome" to the Age of the Renaissance and Reformation. Emphasis upon the different "lifestyles" of successive Western societies and upon the processes of social change in the history of Western Europe. Introduction to the techniques of historical analysis and to problems in the interpretation of historical evidence through extensive use of original sources. Open to all students.

Mr. Cox, Ms. Dyer

101 (1) (2) Modern European History 1

An introduction to European history from 1600 to the present, designed to aid the student in formulating historical judgments about the significance of representative institutions, the scientific revolution, the Enlightenment, the French Revolution, industrialization, imperialism, world wars, totalitarianism. Open to all students.

Ms. Tumarkin, Mr. Knudsen, Ms. Gouda

102 (1) The American Experience

An introduction to the social, cultural, political, and economic forces that have shaped American history, including colonization, slavery, immigration, civil conflict, industrialization, and international relations. Open to all students. Principally for those who have not had a survey course in American history in junior or senior year of high school.

Ms. Jones

103 (1) Introduction to Non-Western History

An introduction to world history focusing appreciably on non-Western societies and civilizations. Deals with common themes in the origins and evolution of civilization from Europe, Africa and the Middle East, to India, China and the Far East. Discussion of the delineation of world cultures from ancient to post medieval times. Concludes with a survey of the Western expansion, from the age of exploration to imperialism, and the responses of various societies to the rise of globalism in the modern era. Open to all students.

Mr. Saad

150 (1) (2) Colloquia

For directions for applying see p. 47. Open by permission to a limited number of freshman and sophomore applicants.

(1)

a. The Southern confederacy

An examination of the various forces that shaped, divided, and ultimately led to the defeat of the Confederate States of America, with special emphasis on racial, class, and political conflict within the new nation.

Ms. Jones

c. Early Greece

A study of the formation of the Western cultural tradition in Greece from the Bronze Age to 500 B.C. The course will emphasize the development of fundamental innovations such as rational thought, the belief in natural law, and systems of government based on the consent of the governed. Other topics will include the Minoan and Mycenaean civilizations, the problem of the Dorian invasion and the Greek Dark Ages, religion, society, the formation of city states, and colonization.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Engels

e. China in outside perspective

Can another people's historical or cultural experience be understood in its own terms by an outsider? Or does the outsider's outsideness place definite limits upon cross-cultural understanding? Many westerners who went to China in the 20th century stayed for long periods, became deeply engaged in the revolutionary changes that were taking place, and then wrote accounts (often highly personal) of their experiences. What we can learn from these accounts about China—and what the accounts tell us about the outsiders themselves (many of them Americans)—will be the central problem explored in this course. Readings will be drawn from autobiography, fiction, personal memoirs, and journalism.

Mr. Cohen

d. Henry VIII: wives and policy

A study of the relationship between Henry's matrimonial ventures (all six) and issues of domestic and foreign policy during his reign. The colloquium will be structured around the BBC television series (6 films, 90 minutes each) called "The Six Wives of Henry VIII." Recent scholarly works, including biographies where possible, and 16th century sources will provide historical materials for comparison with and contrast to the dramatic presentations.

Mrs. Robinson

h. Richard The Lion-Hearted in history and legend.

An introduction to the great issues of life and death, love and war, politics and religion during the second half of the 12th century in England, France, and the "kingdoms beyond the Sea" through a study of the life and career of one of medieval Europe's most famous figures.

Mr. Cox

j. Germany in the twenties

Introduction to the Weimar Republic from its revolutionary beginnings in 1918 until the Depression and the Nazi takeover. Course will study the politics, society and culture of the twenties using memoirs, plays, films, novels, and pamphlets.

Mr. Knudsen

222 (1) Classical and Early Medieval Intellectual History

A history of Western thought from its pre-Socratic origins to Boethius. Emphasis will be placed on the living issues of thought in the pre-Socratics, Plato, Aristotle, the Stoic and Epicurean philosophers, the Bible and the Church Fathers, among others.

Open to freshmen and sophomores who have taken 100 or related work in literature or philosophy, and to juniors and seniors without prerequisite.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mrs. Chaplin

229 (2)* Alexander the Great and the Hellenistic World

The course will survey the achievements of Alexander and the culture of the new world he created. The personality and career of Alexander will be examined as well as the innovations he introduced into the Western world: new concepts of kingship, political organization, and the notion of brotherhood between diverse ethnic groups. The rich diversity of the Hellenistic world will also be surveyed: trade with India and China, religious syncretism, the spread of oriental religions into the Mediterranean world, and the achievements of Hellenistic science which formed the foundation for the future development of the Western scientific tradition.

Open to all students.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Rash

230 (2)* Greek History from the Bronze Age to the Death of Philip II of Macedon

A survey emphasizing the relationships between the patterns of Greek culture, the origins of the Western intellectual tradition, and the development of constitutional forms of government culminating in the formulation of democracy in Athens. Other topics will include Greek religion, society, economy, and the failure of Athenian democracy in its conflicts with Sparta and Macedon.

Open to all students.

Mr. Rash

231 (1)* History of Rome

An introduction focusing on Rome's cultural development from its origins as a small city state in the 8th century B.C. to its rule over a vast empire extending from Scotland to Iraq. Topics for discussion will include the Etruscan influence on the formation of early Rome, the causes of Roman expansion throughout the Mediterranean during the Republic, and the Hellenization of Roman society. Also, the urbanization and Romanization of Western Europe, the spread of mystery religions, the persecution and expansion of Christianity, and the economy and society of the Empire will be examined.

Open to all students.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Engels

232 (2) The Medieval World, 1000 to 1300

An introduction to the history and culture of Europe during the High Middle Ages, for students interested in art, literature and philosophy as well as history. The attempt to create a Christian commonwealth will be examined, together with its effects upon feudal monarchy, knights and chivalry, peasants, townsmen and students. Life in castles, on manors, in villages and towns will be seen in relation to political, religious and social ideas as expressed in contemporary sources, including art and literature.

Open to qualified freshmen and sophomores (see Directions for Election) and to juniors and seniors without prerequisite.

233 (1) Renaissance Italy

Italian history and culture from the age of Petrarch and Boccaccio to the age of Michelangelo and Machiavelli. The new urban civilization of late medieval Italy as a background to the developments in art, literature, and philosophy of the Renaissance. Topics to be discussed include the commercial revolution, the impact of the Black Death, republicanism and the growth of civic humanism, patronage and art, the rise of the court, theories of princely power, and Counter-Reformation culture.

Prerequisite: same as for 232

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Dyer

234 (1) Renaissance and Reformation in Western Europe

The development of culture and society between 1300 and 1600. The course will concentrate on the intellectual movements of the Renaissance and Reformation period: humanism, neoplatonism, scholasticism, mysticism, scepticism, and reformation thought. Reading will consist largely of primary sources, including works by Dante, Petrarch, Pico, Erasmus, Machiavelli, Luther, Calvin, Loyola, Montaigne.

Open to all students.

Ms. Dyer

235 (2) Medieval and Early Modern European Intellectual History, 400 to 1600

A survey in the history of ideas from Augustine to Francis Bacon. Themes to be studied: the dignity of man, the freedom of the will, man and nature, man and God. Reading largely from primary sources, including Augustine, Boethius, Anselm, Abelard, Bonaventure, Aquinas, Ockham.

Prerequisite: same as for 232.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Dyer

236 (1)* The Emergence of Modern European Culture: The Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries

A comparative survey of Enlightenment culture in England, France, and the Germanies. Topics to be considered include skepticism, the scientific revolution, classicism in art, the formation of liberal society, the differing social structure of intellectual life. The approach is synthetic, stressing the links between philosophy, political theory, art, and their historical context. Among the authors: Locke, Hume, Voltaire, Diderot, Rousseau, Lessing, Kant, Goethe.

Prerequisite: same as for 232.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Knudsen

237 (1)* Modern European Culture: The Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries

A survey of European culture from the French Revolution to the post-World War II period—from idealism to existentialism in philosophy, from romanticism to modernism in art and literature. As with 236, emphasis is placed on the social and historical context of cultural life. Among the authors: Wordsworth, Hegel, Marx, Mill, Nietzsche, Freud, Merleau-Ponty.

Prerequisite: same as for 232.

Mr. Knudsen

238 (1) English History: 1066 and All That

From the coming of the Anglo-Saxons through the coming of Henry Tudor. This survey will study some of the traditional heroes and villains, such as Alfred the Great, William the Conqueror, Richard the Third; church and churchmen, such as Bede, Becket, and Beaufort; developments into and away from feudal monarchy; aspects of sociopolitical history, including baronial and peasant uprisings; and selected cultural achievements. Open to qualified freshmen and sophomores (see Directions for Election), to sophomores who have taken 100 or are concentrating in English literature, and to juniors and seniors without prerequisite.

Mrs. Robinson

239 (2) English History: Tudors and Stuarts

The 16th and 17th centuries, emphasizing the unique aspects of the English Reformation, Elizabethan achievements and failings, and the multiple revolutions or alleged revolutions of the 17th century. Special attention to exploring the controversies among historians in explaining and interpreting these transforming developments. Prerequisite: same as for 238.

Mrs. Robinson

240 (1) Modern England

English history from the 15th century into the 20th. We will explore some of the tensions and difficulties accompanying the transformation of a basically agrarian, hierarchical, traditional society into an industrial, secular democratic welfare state. The emphasis will fall on the time period 1815-1914.

Open to qualified freshmen and sophomores (see Directions for Election), to students who have taken 101 or 259, to sophomores concentrating in English literature, and to juniors and seniors without prerequisite.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mrs. Robinson

242 (1) The Age of Louis XIV in France

The history and culture of France, 1600-1715. Absolute monarchy and the palace-city of Versailles, both as techniques of government and as expressions of political, religious and aesthetic ideals will be studied against the background of crisis, rebellion and war during the first half-century. The art, architecture, drama and literature of the "Classical Age" will complete this picture of the France that became the wonder and the terror of its time. Prerequisite: same as for 232.

243 (2) The Enlightenment, the French Revolution, and Napoleon

The history and culture of France, 1715-1815. Monarchical splendor, lordly pleasures, the new urban culture, and the pursuit of happiness and reform, as seen in art, architecture and letters during the Age of Voltaire and Rousseau. Analysis of the causes and events of the Revolution, the effort to create a Republic of Virtue, the rise of Napoleon and the creation of the Napoleonic Empire. Napoleon himself will be studied as one of the more fascinating and enigmatic phenomena in modern European history. Prerequisite: same as for 232.

244 (2) Modern Germany

Beginning with the revolution of 1848, an examination of German politics, society, and culture to the post-World War II period. Special emphasis on Bismarck and the founding of the German Empire; the Empire's crisis and collapse in World War I; the formation of the Weimar Republic; and the emergence of Nazism and the Third Reich. The task will be to explore the German response to problems shared throughout Western Europe.

Prerequisite: same as for 232.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Knudsen

245 (2) History of Modern France, 1815-Present

Starting with the restoration of the monarchy this course will explore the interaction between the revolutionary tradition and reactionary factions in French politics, the eruption of revolution in 1830 and 1848, the Commune in 1870 and the emergence of a politicized labor movement and its connections to international Marxism, and in the 20th century attention will be devoted to the fate of France during World War I, the United Front in the inter-war years, and political alignments during World War II; France's economic takeoff in the postwar era, the Algerian crisis, and the student protests of the 1960s.

Prerequisite: same as for 232.

Ms. Gouda

246 (2) Medieval and Imperial Russia

A study of the social, political, economic, and cultural development of Russia from the medieval period to the mid-19th century. Particular consideration is given to the rise of absolutism, the enslavement of the peasantry, and the impact upon Russia of successive foreign cultures—Byzantium, the Mongol Empire, and the West.

Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.

Ms. Tumarkin

247 (1) Modern Russia and the Soviet Union

One hundred years of reform, revolution, and reaction. Late Imperial Russia, the Revolution of 1917, and the creation of a Soviet state under Lenin and Stalin. Special emphasis is placed on the Russian Revolution and on continuity and change under Soviet rule.

Prerequisite: same as for 246.

Ms. Tumarkin

Ms. Fitzpatrick

330 (1) Seminar. The Age of Chivalry

Studies in the history of the medieval knight from the formation of the first knightly orders in the mid-12th century to the "flowering" of chivalry in the mid-15th century, as seen in historical documents, literature, art, and music. Different kinds of knights and their differing roles in medieval society will be examined as well as the emergence of chivalric courts and the degree to which real-life knights conformed to the ideal depictions of them in literature and art.

Open to qualified juniors and seniors by permission of the instructor (see Directions for Election).

Not offered in 1981-82.

331 (2) Seminar. Russia after Stalin

Who or what could replace Stalin after his death in 1953? How did the U.S.S.R. achieve the status of a great power, and at what cost? This seminar on the last quarter-century of Soviet history will explore such topics as: the politics of de-Stalinization; Khrushchev and Brezhnev as leaders; Soviet relations with China, the West and the Third World; Solzhenitsyn, Sakharov and other dissident writers; hooliganism, alcoholism, religious revivals. For their seminar papers students will have the option of writing the biography of a Soviet citizen based on interviews with a recent emigré.

Open to juniors and seniors who have taken History 247 or Political Science 301, or by permission of the instructor.

Ms. Tumarkin

332 (1) Seminar. The "Woman Question" in Victorian England

A study of the literature about, and the struggles for, the emancipation of women: personal, legal, educational, professional, political. A major source will be the periodical literature from the 1850s onward, with special attention to the many articles written, often anonymously, by women.

Prerequisite: same as for 330.

Mrs. Robinson

337 (2) Seminar. The Revolutionary Americas

As comparative history this course will examine the American Revolution and the Spanish-American wars for independence (especially that of Mexico) as parts of a world-wide revolutionary movement. Subjects will include the nature of society in both North and South America between 1770 and 1830, the goals and achievements of the wars for independence, the typology of revolutions, and the nature of 19th-century liberalism. Students will be asked to complete a research paper stressing the techniques of comparative history.

Open to juniors and seniors with permission of the instructor. (Knowledge of Spanish not necessary).

Mr. Cayton

338 (2) Seminar. America as the Promised Land

An examination of selected texts drawn from various disciplines and historical eras which attempt to define the promise of the American experience and analyze the fulfillment or failure of that promise.

Open to qualified juniors and seniors by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Auerbach

339 (1) Seminar. American Jewish History

The development of American Jewish life and institutions since the era of mass immigration, with particular attention to the tension between Old World and American Jewish cultures. Historical and literary evidence will guide explorations into the social, psychological, and political implications of Jewish minority status in the United States. Open by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Auerbach

341 (2) Seminar. The Nature and Meanings of History

Introduction to modern historical writing with an emphasis on the tendencies and counter-tendencies in the 20th-century European tradition. Particular concern with patterns of historical explanation as adopted by practicing historians: individual and collective biography, demography and family reconstruction psycho-history, Marxism.

Open to qualified juniors and seniors by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Knudsen

342 (2) Seminar. Imperialism and Dependency in the Third World

Theoretical approaches to the economic and political expansion of Europe and the United States since the 19th century. Analyzes the emergence of dependency relations in Africa, Asia, and Latin America during the present century. Discussion of development theory and its applications in contemporary Third World history. Due attention to recent trends, such as the rise of oil prices and the growing trend towards global interdependence.

Prerequisite: same as for 330.

Mr. Saad

345 (1) Seminar. Chinese History

Normally a different topic each year.

Prerequisite: same as for 330.

Not offered in 1981-82.

346 (2) Seminar. Chinese History

Topic for 1981-82: Sino-American relations from the late 19th century to the present. Possible issues to be covered: the treatment of Chinese in California and U.S. exclusion legislation, the rhetoric and reality of the Open Door, American intellectual and cultural influence on China in the 1920s and 1930s, China and the U.S. as allies during World War II, American intervention in the Chinese civil war, McCarthyism and the re-emergence of anti-Chinese feeling in the 1950s, the Nixon opening and the renewal of diplomatic relations, current and future problems in Sino-American relations.

Prerequisite: same as for 330.

Mr. Cohen

347 (2) Seminar. History and Poverty: The Poor and the Oppressed in Nineteenth-Century Europe

In an age without comprehensive social provisions for the poor and the oppressed, life for the majority of citizens in France, the Netherlands, and England was "nasty, brutish, and short." This seminar will explore the ways in which European societies cared for their indigent masses and, when poor relief was not forthcoming, how the poor responded to their plight and material suffering. By examining a variety of literary sources, household budgets, documents of working class organizations, and national legislation, the seminar will address such issues as the impact of the revisions of the British Poor Law in 1834, the relationship between poverty and economic change in the Netherlands, and the connection between pauperism and criminality in France in order to derive insights into the social conditions of the poor as well as the origins of the contemporary welfare state.

Prerequisite: same as for 330.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Gouda

348 (1) Seminar. Women, Work and the Family in European History, 1700-present

An exploration of the ways in which economic and social transformations between 1700 and the present affected the lives of women, their work patterns, and modified their relative positions of power not only within the family but also within society at large. By placing women within the context of the family economy, topics to be discussed are demographic changes, household structures, the demand for female labor, and the changing position of women within the organization of the family.

Prerequisite: same as for 330.

Ms. Gouda

349 (1) Labor and Working Class Culture in Modern Europe

A comparative history of various European nations-among them France, England, the Low Countries, and Germany-since the beginning of industrialization. While the French Revolution changed the nature of political authority, industrialization, as it first occurred in England during the 18th century, revolutionized many of the prevailing productive and social relationships. Emphasis will be placed on social and demographic developments, changes in social structure and the family, working class conditions, and popular culture.

Open to juniors and seniors.

Ms. Gouda

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Open by permission to juniors and seniors.

355 (1-2) Intellectual History of the United States 1 or 2

The ideas associated with the development of American culture as they are embodied in political thought, religion, the arts, philosophy and social institutions from the colonial period to the present time. By permission of the instructor either semester may be elected independently.

Open to juniors and seniors.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mrs. Preyer

356 (2) Seminar. The 1920s in America

Examination of American society in the aftermath of a disastrous war. Among the major topics are political repression, presidential scandals, the retreat from political activism to narcissism and careerism and Babbity as a dominant cultural norm. Consideration of the Crash of 1929 will precede comparisons with the 1970s. Prerequisite: same as for 330.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Auerbach

360 (1)* Roman History

Topic for 1981-82: The Collapse of the Roman Republic. Survey of the Republic in a period of stability (c. 200 B.C.); investigation of events and personalities in its last century (c. 130 B.C.-31 B.C.) which led to its destruction. Topics include the nature and limitations of the Roman constitution, Roman imperialism and its social and economic consequences, Greek influences upon Rome, the impact of the volunteer army, and the rise of the great military leaders.

Prerequisite: 231 or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Rash

367 (2) Seminar. Renaissance Florence "It is undoubtedly a golden age," wrote Marsilio Ficino in 1492, "which has restored to light the liberal arts that had almost been destroyed: grammar, poetry, eloquence, painting, sculpture, architecture, and music. And all that in Florence." But the Florentine Renaissance was also a period of social upheaval, political constriction, economic depression, and religious uncertainty. In what ways did the social, political, and economic crises serve as the background and impetus to the intellectual and artistic flowering? We will approach this question by examining the structure of Florentine society, and in particular the life and mentality of the patrician families whose patronage and protection fueled the "golden age" of Florentine culture.

Prerequisite: same as for 330.

Ms. Dyer

368 (2) Seminar. Origins of the World Wars

A comparative study of the literature and the historians' debates about the coming of war in 1914 and again in 1939. The alleged underlying origins, some of the precipitating crises, and the roles of the various powers will be examined. Special attention will be given to the equivocal position of Great Britain in both the pre World War I and pre World War II years.

Prerequisite: same as for 330.

Mrs. Robinson

370 (1-2) Thesis 2 to 4

Open only to honors candidates.

Directions for Election

A wide variety of programs may provide insight into the nature and scope of history as a discipline. Accordingly, the student majoring in history is given great latitude in designing a program of study. Department offerings fall, for the most part, into three roughly defined areas: (1) the modern West (Europe since 1600, the United States, modern Russia); (2) the premodern West (ancient Greece and Rome, Europe before 1600, medieval and imperial Russia); and (3) the non-West (Africa, China, Japan, and the Third World). Majors may elect courses freely, but it is strongly recommended that at least one unit be taken from each of these areas. (The department chairman should be consulted if it is unclear into which area a particular course falls.)

Majors are encouraged to focus eventually upon a special field of interest, such as (1) a particular geographical area, nation, or culture; (2) a limited time period; (3) a special aspect of history, e.g., social, intellectual, economic; (4) a significant historical problem or theme, e.g., revolution, cultural change, urbanization, institutional development, colonialism. In designing a program, students should consider courses given at MIT and in other departments at Wellesley.

The concept of the major should be discussed with the major advisor, and students should consult with their advisors about changes they may wish to make in the course of the junior and senior years.

The colloquia are available to freshmen and sophomores without prerequisite. However, since colloquia enrollments are limited, the instructor will decide which applicants are to be accepted in the event of over-subscription. Students are advised to consider alternate courses.

Some seminar work is strongly encouraged of all majors. Seminars, unless otherwise indicated, are open by permission of the instructor to qualified juniors and seniors. Notification of which applicants are to be accepted will be made no later than the announced date for course changes without fee in each semester.

The general survey courses (100, 101, 102, 103) and Grade II survey courses in classical (229, 230, 231), American (257), Asian (271, 275, 276), Middle Eastern (280, 284), and African (267, 268, 269) history are open to all students without prerequisite. In addition, freshmen and sophomores with a strong secondary school background in European history (ancient, medieval, or modern) may elect as a beginning course 232, 233, 234, 235, 236, 237, 238, 239, 240, 242, 243, 244, 245, 248, 258. Courses at the Grade I level, however, are strongly recommended for students planning to major in history.

Italian

Assistant Professor:
Ellerman³, Jacoff[•], Fontanella

Instructor:
Mattii³ (Acting Chairman), Ciccarello

All courses, unless otherwise listed, are conducted in Italian. In all courses given in Italian, except seminars, some work may be required in the laboratory.

Qualified students may be recommended to spend the junior year in Italy. See p. 37.

Attention is called to the major in Italian Culture. See Directions for Election and Individual Majors.

100 (1-2) Elementary Italian 2

Development of basic language skills for the purpose of acquiring contemporary spoken Italian and a reading knowledge useful in the study of other disciplines. A general view of Italian civilization. Three periods.

The Staff

202 (1) Intermediate Italian I

Review of grammar, syntax, and development of vocabulary. There will be short written compositions and emphasis on the spoken language with conversations on a variety of topics. The topics will be suggested by the reading of a significant modern novel or selected short stories. The novel or stories will be supplemented by pertinent articles which clarify their themes in historical and social terms. Three periods.

Prerequisite: 100 or the equivalent.

The Staff

203 (2) Intermediate Italian II

Development and refinement of language skills, with equal emphasis on written and oral practice. A significant modern novel will be read. The novel will be the basis for class discussion of cultural, historical and literary issues. It will be supplemented by pertinent articles and other shorter literary texts. In this fourth semester of Italian, there will also be a greater emphasis on critical and analytical reading of the novel. Three periods.

Prerequisite: 202 or the equivalent.

The Staff

207 (1) An Introduction to Italian Literature and Culture of the Late Middle Ages and the Renaissance

An introduction to the Golden Age of Italian literature. Study and analysis of selected texts by authors such as Petrarch, Boccaccio, Poliziano, Michelangelo, Vittoria Colonna, Machiavelli and Castiglione.

Prerequisite: 203 or by permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Mattii

208 (2) An Introduction to Italian Literature and Culture of the Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries

An introductory study of selected major poetic and prose texts of the period. The course will discuss authors such as Leopardi, Manzoni, Pascoli, Verga, Ungaretti, Svevo and Montale.

Prerequisite: 207 or by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Fontanella

211 (1-2) Dante (in English) 2

An introduction to Dante and his culture. This course presumes no special background and attempts to create a context in which Dante's poetry can be carefully explored. It concentrates on the Divine Comedy and Dante's use of his literary and philosophical sources. The centrality and encyclopedic nature of the Comedy make it a paradigmatic work for students of the Middle Ages. Since Dante has profoundly influenced some key figures of the 19th and 20th centuries, students will find that he illuminates modern literature as well. First semester may be elected independently, second semester may be elected independently by permission of the instructor.

Open to all students.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Jacoff

212 (2) Literature of the Italian Renaissance (in English)

An opportunity to read certain key texts of the Italian Renaissance in depth: Boccaccio's Decameron, selected Petrarch letters and poems, Cellini's Autobiography, Castiglione's The Courtier and Machiavelli's Prince and Discourses. The focus will be on stylistic and thematic issues and on the problems of interpretation raised by these texts.

Open to all students.

Not offered in 1981-82.

214 (2) Machiavelli (in English)

An analysis of Machiavelli's thought in terms of its political, cultural and methodological elements. The analysis will proceed according to two complementary lines: reading and discussion of basic works (The Prince, Discourses, Art of War, Letters, History of Florence); study of the historical context and cultural tradition in which the various themes developed. Interpretation of reality, the dichotomy between "virtù" and "fortuna"; force and persuasion; the role of the aggregate and of the individual "virtù." Evaluation of Machiavelli's intellectual revolution, the emergence of a new relationship between empirical observation and theoretical elaboration. The science of politics. Discussion of some significant historiographical interpretations. Also, particular attention to Machiavelli in relation to the intellectuals of his own time. Open to all students.

Mrs. Mattii

249 (2) Significant Moments in the History of Italian Culture (in English)

This course is designed to supply a historical context in which certain major cultural movements and works of individual authors may be best studied. It follows a chronological order, going from the 13th century up to the modern period, with particular attention to the historical periods of greatest cultural importance, such as: the age of the city-state, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment, the Unification of Italy, Fascism and the Resistance. The readings will include analysis both of historical and literary texts. The course serves to integrate the curriculum of study offered by the Italian department but should also be useful to students in other fields. Open to all students.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mrs. Mattii

301 (1-2) Dante 2

A study of Dante's Divina Commedia and minor works.

Prerequisite: same as for 208.

Not offered in 1981-82.

302 (1)* The Theatre in Italy

The development of the theatre from its origins to the present time. An introduction to the classical theatre, the Commedia dell'Arte, the Pastoral drama; special emphasis on the modern theatre and experimental theatre of today. Study of plays by authors such as Machiavelli, Tasso, Goldoni, Pirandello, Betti, and Fo.

Prerequisite: same as for 208.

Not offered in 1981-82.

303 (1)* The Short Story in Italy Through the Ages

A study of the art of the "Novella" based on readings by authors such as Boccaccio, Saccetti, Verga, Pirandello, Calvino, and Moravia. Attention will also be given to the content of these works as a reflection of changing social mores.

Prerequisite: same as for 208.

Not offered in 1981-82.

308 (2) The Contemporary Novel

The study of Italian fiction since the 1940s as seen in the works by authors such as Pavese, Pratolini, Viganò, Levi, Volponi, and novelists of the 1970s. Special emphasis on themes related to the literary, social, and cultural problems of the postwar era.

Prerequisite: same as for 208.

Ms. Ciccarello

310 (1) Italian Lyric Poetry

Background and development of lyric poetry. Selected Medieval, Renaissance, and 19th-century texts, with main emphasis on 20th-century poetry.

Prerequisite: same as for 208.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Fontanella

312 (1) Chivalric Literature of the Italian Renaissance

Development of the Italian "romanzo cavalleresco" genre. Interdisciplinary approach to its sources in French and English epic literature. Reading and analysis from Pulci's Morgante, Bojardo's Orlando Innamorato, Ariosto's Orlando Furioso, and Tasso's Gerusalemme Liberata. Study of Epic Literature in the context of Italian Renaissance culture and its linguistic background.

Prerequisite: 207 or by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Fontanella

349 (2) Seminar. Literature and Society

The works of one or two writers studied in relation to their historical context. The author(s) will be chosen according to the interests of the participants in the course. Open by permission of the chairman.

Ms. Mattii

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Open by permission to students who have completed two units in literature in the department.

370 (1-2) Thesis 2 to 4

Open only to honors candidates.

Cross-Listed CoursesExtrdepartmental 245 (2)

Films and the Novel in Italy

For description and prerequisite see Extrdepartmental 245.

Directions for Election

Course 100 is counted toward the degree but not toward the major.

Students majoring in Italian are required to take 207 and are advised to take 208. Courses in one or more other languages, ancient or modern, art, history, and philosophy, are recommended as valuable related work.

Students interested in an individual major in Italian Culture are referred to the section in the Catalog where the program is described. They should consult with the director of the Italian Culture program. 214 is strongly recommended and will count toward the major.

Majors planning to do graduate work in Italian are advised to take at least one unit in French or Spanish literature and to have a reading knowledge of Latin or of a third Romance language.

Most courses meet for two periods weekly with a third period every other week.

100 (1) (2) Introduction to Mathematical Thought

Topics chosen from areas such as strategies, computers, infinite sets, knots, coloring problems, number theory, geometry, group theory. Neither 100 nor 102 may be counted toward the major; both may be elected.

Not open to students who have taken 115, 150, or the equivalent.

The Staff

102 (1) (2) Applications of Mathematics without Calculus

Introduction to topics such as probability and statistics, matrices and vectors, linear programming, game theory; applications in the biological and social sciences. Neither 100 nor 102 may be counted toward the major; both may be elected.

Open to all students.

The Staff

103 (1) Review of Algebra with an Introduction to Calculus I

This course is open to students who lack the necessary preparation for 115. Mathematics 103 together with 104 provides the equivalent of 115 plus a review of algebra, trigonometry and logarithms necessary for work in calculus. Methods of problem solving; an emphasis on development of analytic and algebraic skills and an introduction to calculus. 103 does not count toward the Group C distribution requirement.

Open by permission of the department.

Ms. Campbell

104 (2) Review of Algebra with an Introduction to Calculus II

This course is a continuation of 103 and includes further topics in pre-calculus and calculus. A student who completes 104 will be prepared to enter 116.

Prerequisite: 103.

Ms. Campbell

115 (1) (2) Calculus I

Introduction to differential and integral calculus for functions of one variable. Differentiation and integration of algebraic and transcendental functions. Applications to curve sketching, extremal problems, velocities, related rates, areas, and linear approximation.

Open to all students who have not taken an equivalent course.

The Staff

116 (1) (2) Calculus II

Theoretical basis of limits and continuity, Mean Value Theorem, inverse trigonometric functions. Further integration techniques. Volumes of revolution. Sequences and series. L'Hospital's Rule and Improper Integrals.

Prerequisite: 104 or 115, or the equivalent.

The Staff

150 (2) Colloquium

For directions for applying see p. 47. Open by permission to a limited number of freshman and sophomore applicants.

Discovery course in mathematics and its applications

Mathematical reasoning and its applications. A discussion group in which students discover mathematical structure in several fields, including some not often recognized as mathematical in nature. Topics chosen from: network analysis, mathematics in music and art, graphing and interpretation of data, exponential growth, computer programming. Especially appropriate for students with an interest in fields requiring quantitative reasoning but who might otherwise avoid these fields because of the mathematics involved. Two 70-minute meetings and another 1-2 hour meeting weekly. Mandatory credit/noncredit. May not be counted toward the major.

Prerequisite: reasonable knowledge of high school level mathematics. Not open to those who have taken 100 or calculus.

Ms. Beers

203 (1) Probability and Elementary Statistics

Topics selected from the theory of sets, discrete probability for both single and multivariate random variables, probability density for a single continuous random variable, expectations, mean, standard deviation, and sampling from a normal population.

Prerequisite: 116 or the equivalent.

Mr. Hirschhorn, Mr. Shull

205 (1) (2) Multivariable Vector Calculus

Vectors, matrices, and determinants. Curves, functions of several variables, partial and directional derivatives, gradients, vector valued functions of a vector variable, Jacobian matrix, chain rule. Introduction to first-order differential equations.

Prerequisite: same as for 203. Not open to students who have taken [215].

The Staff

206 (1) (2) Linear Algebra

Sets, functions, and relations. Algebra of complex numbers. Vector spaces, subspaces, linear independence, bases, dimension, inner products. Linear transformations, matrix representations, range and null spaces, inverses, eigenvalues. Applications to differential equations and Markov processes. Emphasis on proving theorems.

Prerequisite: 205 or [215]. Not open to students who have taken [216].

The Staff

209 (1) (2) Methods of Advanced Calculus

Inverse and implicit function theorems. Multivariable integral calculus (multiple integrals, line integrals, Green's Theorem, numerical methods). Topics such as Fourier series, approximation methods, partial differential equations, and harmonic functions. Prerequisite: same as for 206.

The Staff

210 (2) Differential Equations

An introductory course in ordinary differential equations.

Prerequisite: same as for 206.

Ms. Sontag, Ms. Lawrence

217 (1)* Topics in Mathematics and Economics

Applications of calculus and linear algebra to economic analysis. Topics selected from: linear and general optimization, input-output analysis, marginal analysis, analysis of market equilibrium and stability. (Additionally listed in the Economics Department.)

Prerequisite: Economics 201 or 202 and Mathematics [201], [215], or 205, or permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

218 (2)* Topics in Applied Mathematics

See Mathematics 318.

Not offered in 1981-82.

249 (1) Selected Topics

Topic for 1981-82: Operations research and systems analysis. The application of calculus, linear algebra, and probability to decision-making problems in management and government. Sample applications include the analysis of production policies, transportation and distribution networks, harvesting policies, facility location, traffic flow and waiting times. Prerequisite: two Grade II level courses or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Shuchat

302 (1) Elements of Analysis I

Metric spaces; compact, complete, and connected spaces; continuous functions; differentiation, integration, interchange of limit operations as time permits.

Prerequisite: 206 or [216].

Ms. Cook

303 (2) Elements of Analysis II

Topics such as measure theory, Lebesgue integration, Fourier series, and calculus on manifolds.

Prerequisite: 302.

Mr. Wilcox

305 (1) Modern Algebraic Theory I

Introduction to groups, rings, integral domains, and fields.

Prerequisite: same as for 302.

Ms. Beers

306 (2) Modern Algebraic Theory II

Topics chosen from the theory of abstract vector spaces, Galois theory, field theory.

Prerequisite: 305.

Mr. Shull

307 (1)* Topology

Introduction to point set, algebraic, and differential topology. Topological spaces, continuity, connectedness, compactness, product spaces, separation axioms, homotopy, the fundamental group, manifolds. Prerequisite: 302.

Not offered in 1981-82.

309 (1)* Foundations of Mathematics

An introduction to the logical foundations of modern mathematics, including set theory, cardinal and ordinal arithmetic, and the axiom of choice.

Prerequisite: 302 or 305.

Ms. Edwards

310 (2) Functions of a Complex Variable

Elementary complex functions and their mapping properties; integration theory; series expansions of analytic functions.

Prerequisite: [216] or 209, and 302.

Mr. Hirschhorn

318 (2) Topics in Applied Mathematics

Topic for 1981-82: Mathematical modeling. Translation of "real world problems" into mathematical form (building a model), analysis of the model, and interpretation of the results. Mathematical techniques especially relevant for modeling will be applied to problems in areas such as public planning, demography, economics, energy, ecology, the physical sciences, and renewable resource management. Each student will develop a model of a significant contemporary problem as part of the course. Calculus and linear algebra will be used throughout; probability, statistics, and differential equations will be introduced as needed. Students should be able to write simple computer programs or be willing to learn this in extra sessions of the course.

Prerequisite: 206 or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Shultz

349 (2) Selected Topics

Normally a different topic each year.

Not offered in 1981-82.

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Open to juniors and seniors by permission.

370 (1-2) Thesis 2 to 4

Open only to honors candidates who choose to do honors research. See Directions for Election.

Placement In Courses and Exemption Examination

Placement of calculus students in 103, 115, 116, or 205 is based on their previous courses and examination results. The elections of freshmen are reviewed by the department during the summer; those of upperclassmen at the beginning of the semester. Students may not enroll in a course equivalent to one for which they have received high school or college credit. A special examination is not necessary for placement in an advanced course.

Students entering with AP scores of 4 or 5 on the AB Examination, or 3 on the BC Examination of the CEEB are eligible for 116; those entering with AP scores of 4 or 5 on the BC Examination of the CEEB are eligible for 205.

Examinations for exemption from one or two courses in mathematics to satisfy partially the College requirement in science and mathematics will be offered to students who have been well prepared in the subject matter of 115 and 116. Exemption examinations are not offered for other courses.

Directions for Election

A major in mathematics must include 205 or [215], 206 or [216], 209 or [216], 302, 305, and either 303 or 310. Students expecting to major in mathematics should complete 206 or [216] before the junior year. It is desirable to take 303 in the same year as 302 and 306 in the same year as 305. In order to take 310, a student must first complete 209 or [216] as well as 302.

For the Class of 1982, units of AP credit and courses 100, [101], 102, 103, and 150 may not be counted toward the minimum of eight units in the major.

For the Class of 1983 and subsequent classes, the major must include 115, 116 (or the equivalent) and seven units of Grade II and III courses.

Students expecting to do graduate work in mathematics should elect 303, 306, 310 and another Grade III course. They are also advised to acquire a reading knowledge of one or more of the following languages: French, German, or Russian.

Majors who may be practice teaching in their senior year should elect 302 and 303 or 310 not later than their junior year. Students are encouraged to elect MIT courses which are not offered by the Wellesley College mathematics department. Note that 303 was formerly called 302 (2) and 306 was formerly 305 (2). All candidates for honors will be required to complete two of the following three courses: 303, 306, and 310. The department offers the following options for earning honors in the major field: (1) completion of 303, 306, 310 and one additional Grade III course, and two written comprehensive examinations; (2) two semesters of thesis work (370); or (3) participation in a two-semester seminar and a written examination on the seminar topics. An oral examination is required in all honors programs.

99 (1-2) Performing Music Noncredit

One half-hour private lesson per week. Students may register for hour lessons for an additional fee. For further information, including fees, see Performing Music: Private Instruction. See also Music 344.

Open by interview with the performing music faculty member(s) concerned. A basic skills test is given to students wishing to enroll in Music 99. For those who do not pass this test, a corequisite to Music 99 is Music 111. Such students must pass the basic skills test before continuing with their second semester of study.

The Staff

100 (1) (2) Style in Music

A survey of principal musical styles and forms of Western music, with emphasis on the period 1700 (Bach and Handel) to the turn of the last century (Moussorgsky, Debussy, and Stravinsky). Not to be counted toward the major. Two lectures and one section meeting.

Mr. Herrmann, Mr. Ladewig

106 (2)* Afro-American Music

A survey of Black music in America, its origins, its development, and its relation to cultural and social conditions. Not to be counted toward the major in music. Normally alternates with 104 and 105.

Open to all students.

Mr. Davis

111 (1) (2) The Language of Music

Instruction in simple musical skills, such as the reading and writing of notation, in a context that encourages students to discover for themselves the ideas underlying musical perception, systems of notation, and the elements of composition. Consideration of new ways of hearing and thinking about music. Not to be counted toward the major. Two section meetings and one 60-minute class devoted to lecture or laboratory. Open to all students.

Mr. Brody, Mrs. Proctor

115 (1) Musicianship

Cultivation of the ability to see and hear what is in a musical score through practice in reading, ear-training, and keyboard skills. Students develop a working understanding of tonality through writing melodies, and through reading and experiencing tonal works. Normally followed by 202. Two class meetings and one 60-minute laboratory. Open to all students who have passed the basic skills test.

Miss Barry, Mrs. Proctor

200 (1-2) Design in Music 2

A survey beginning with Gregorian chant and concluding with electronic music, with emphasis on live performance and on the incisive analysis of scores. One unit of credit may be given for the first semester. Three periods.

Prerequisite: 202.

Mr. Jander

202 (2) Harmony I

A continuation of 115. Further development of reading and listening skills. Figured bass; harmonic writing, analysis, and keyboard realization. The study of classical tonal relationships. One lecture, two section meetings, and one 60-minute laboratory. Prerequisite: 115 or [102].

Miss Barry

204 (1)* Counterpoint I

Writing and analysis of 16th-century modal counterpoint. A practical study based on the vocal music of the period. Offered in alternation with 304.

Open to students who have taken, or exempted, 115 or [102].

Mr. Brody

208 (2)* The Baroque Era

Studies in the music of the 17th and early 18th centuries with emphasis on the works of Bach and Handel. Not to be counted toward the major in music. Normally alternates with 209, 210, and 214.

Prerequisite: 100, 115, or [102].

Not offered in 1981-82.

209 (1)* The Classical Era

Normally a different topic each year. Not to be counted toward the major in music. Normally alternates with 208, 210, and 214.

Prerequisite: same as for 208.

Not offered in 1981-82.

210 (2)* The Romantic Era

Normally a different topic each year. Not to be counted toward the major in music.

Normally alternates with 208, 209, and 214.

Prerequisite: same as for 208.

Not offered in 1981-82.

211 (2)* Instrumental Music

Normally a different topic each year. Not to be counted toward the major in music.

Prerequisite: same as for 208.

Not offered in 1981-82.

214 (2)* American Music in the Twentieth Century

A number of topics, indicative of the diversity and richness of American music in this century will be examined. Among the topics to be considered will be: the confluence of European and American influences on 20th century composition; European expatriots in America; jazz; and music since World War II — serialism and the American transcendental school. Not to be counted toward the major in music. Normally alternates with 208, 209, and 210. Prerequisite: same as for 208.

Mr. Brody

215 (1)* Vocal Forms

Topic for 1981-82: The opera. The growth of the opera as a musical and dramatic form from its beginnings in the early Baroque to the end of the 19th century. Works studied will cover the span from Monteverdi's Orfeo to Puccini's La Bohème, but particular emphasis will be placed upon the operas of Mozart, Verdi, and Wagner. Not to be counted toward the major in music.

Prerequisite: same as for 208.

Mr. Herrmann

240 (2) Proseminar in Performance

Studies in performance and interpretation. Exploration of available repertory, editorial problems, and questions of performance practice in several historical periods through the performance and analysis of a few representative works. The study of a common repertory, shared by the entire class, will be supplemented by individual projects relating directly to the student's own performance interests and needs. Limited enrollment. Open by consultation and informal audition with the instructor.

Prerequisite: 202.

Not offered in 1981-82.

251 (2)* Music in the Middle Ages

A survey of music in medieval society: Christian chant and its offshoots; liturgical drama; liturgical music at Notre Dame and elsewhere; the rise of secular lyric song; instrumental and dance music.

Prerequisite: 200 (1).

Mr. Ladewig

252 (2)* Music in the Renaissance

Music at the courts and cathedrals of France, Italy, England, and Flanders during the 15th and 16th centuries. A study of the Masses, motets, madrigals, chansons, and instrumental works of composers from Dunstable and Dufay to Byrd and Gabrieli.

Prerequisite: same as for 251.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Ladewig

302 (1) Harmony II

The harmonization of melodies. Improvisation and elaboration of typical harmonic phrases. A continuation of figured bass studies with emphasis on keyboard realization. Further study in the structure of classical tonality. Two class meetings and one 60-minute laboratory. Prerequisite: 202.

Mrs. Proctor

304 (2)* Counterpoint II

A Study of tonal counterpoint through written exercises based on examples from the works of J. S. Bach. Additional study will be devoted to developing an understanding of the role of counterpoint in classical tonal composition. Offered in alternation with 204. Prerequisite: 302.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Brody

306 (2) Tonal Analysis

The normal continuation of 302. A study of the tonal forms of the 18th and 19th centuries. Analysis emphasizing musical form as a process in time and tonality. Three class meetings and one 60-minute laboratory. Prerequisite: 302.

Mrs. Proctor

307 (1)* The Opera

A study of operatic forms, styles, and traditions from the time of Mozart to the present. Prerequisite: 200 or, with permission of the instructor, two Grade II units in the literature of music.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Herrmann

313 (1)* Twentieth-Century Analysis and Composition

A study of compositional devices of 20th-century music through the analysis of selected short examples from the literature. Techniques will be reinforced by the composition of solo and small ensemble pieces, vocal and instrumental. Offered in alternation with 314. Prerequisite: same as for 204.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mrs. Proctor

314 (2)* Tonal Composition

A study of tonal forms—the minuet, extended song forms, and the sonata—through the composition of such pieces within the style of their traditional models. Offered in alternation with 313.

Prerequisite: same as for 304.

Mr. Brody

319 (2)* Seminar. The Nineteenth Century

Normally a different topic each year.

Open to students who have taken 200 and who have taken or are taking 306.

Not offered in 1981-82.

320 (1)* Seminar. The Twentieth Century

Topic for 1981-82: Opera in the 20th century, involving the study of works by Bartok, Britten, Berg, Schoenberg.

Prerequisite: same as for 303.

Mrs. Proctor

321 (1)* Seminar. The Age of Bach and Handel

Normally a different topic each year.

Prerequisite: 200 and 306.

Not offered in 1981-82.

322 (2)* Seminar. The Classical Era

Topic for 1981-82: The art of development. An investigation of developmental procedures employed by Haydn and Beethoven through a study of selected works by these composers. Prerequisite: same as for 321.

Miss Barry

323 (1)* Seminar. Selected Topics

Topic for 1981-82: The birth of the Baroque style in Italy in works such as the operas of Monteverdi and the keyboard music of Frescobaldi. The spread of this new music style beyond the Alps to Germany (Schuetz), France (Lully), and England (Purcell). An appraisal of Bach and Handel as the culmination of a century and a half of Baroque music.

Prerequisite: same as for 319.

Mr. Ladewig

344 (1) (2) Performing Music—A Special Program 1 or 2

Intensive study of interpretation and of advanced technical performance problems in the literature. One hour lesson per week plus required biweekly performance workshop. Music 344 is a special program whereby students receive academic credit for work done in performing music at Wellesley College. One to four units may be counted toward the degree provided at least two units in the literature of music other than Music 200 (1-2), a prerequisite for 344, are completed. One of these units must be Grade III work, the other either Grade III or Grade II work which counts toward the major. Music 344 should ordinarily follow or be concurrent with such courses in the literature of music; not more than one unit of 344 may be elected in advance of election of these courses. Only one unit of 344 may be elected per semester. Permission to elect the first unit of 344 is granted only after the student has successfully auditioned for the department faculty upon the written recommendation of the instructor in performing music. This audition ordinarily takes place in the second semester of the sophomore or junior year. Permission to elect subsequent units is granted only to a student whose progress in 344 is judged excellent.

The Staff

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Directed study in analysis, composition, orchestration, or the history of music. Open to qualified juniors and seniors by permission.

370 (1-2) Thesis 2 to 4

Open only to honors candidates who choose to do honors research, or an honors project in composition or in performance. See Directions for Election.

Directions for Election

The normal music major sequence is 115, 202, 200 (1-2), 302, and 306. Also required for the major are four additional units of Grade II or Grade III work in courses designed for the music major. Two of these units must be in music literature; at least one of the literature units must be Grade III work. Students who major in music are encouraged to explore their special areas of interest; composition, literature, performance, or theory.

Students who plan to undertake graduate study in music should be aware that a knowledge of both German and French is essential for work at that level, and a proficiency in Italian is highly desirable. Also of value are studies in European history, literature, and art.

Music majors are especially urged to develop their musicianship through the acquisition of basic keyboard skills, through private instruction in practical music, and through involvement in the Music Department's various performing organizations.

Training in sight reading, keyboard harmony, and score reduction is provided without charge to all students enrolled in 115, 202, 302, or 306.

The department offers a choice of three programs for Honors, all entitled 370. Under Program I (two to four units of credit) the honors candidate performs independent research leading to a thesis and an oral examination. Under Program II, honors in composition, one unit is elected per semester in the senior year, these units culminating in a composition of substance and an oral examination on the honors work. Prerequisite for this program: 204, 306, distinguished work in 313, and evidence of independent work in 314; prerequisite or corequisite: 320. Program III, honors in performance, involves the election of one unit per semester in the senior year culminating in a recital, a lecture demonstration, and an essay on some aspect of performance. Prerequisites for Program III: Music 344 (normally two units) in the junior year, and evidence that year, through public performance, of exceptional talent and accomplishment.

Performing Music

Instrument Collection

In addition to a number of modern instruments, the music department owns an unusually fine collection of early instruments, largely reproductions, available for use by students. These include a clavichord, virginal, two harpsichords, a positive organ, fortepiano, and two Clementi pianos; a lute, eight violas da gamba, and a baroque violin; a sackbut, krumphorns, shawms, recorders, a renaissance flute, two baroque flutes, and a baroque oboe. Of particular interest is the new Fisk organ in Houghton Chapel, America's first 17th-century German style organ.

Performance Workshop

A biweekly performance workshop, directed by a member of the performing music faculty, gives performing music students an opportunity to perform in an informal situation before fellow students and faculty, to discuss the music itself, and to receive helpful comments concerning performance. Required for 344 students, the workshop is open to Wellesley students who study performing music at Wellesley and elsewhere, on the recommendation of their instructor.

Private Instruction

The music department offers private instruction in voice, piano, fortepiano, organ, harpsichord, harp, violin, viola, cello, double bass, viola da gamba, flute (baroque and modern), oboe, clarinet, bassoon, trumpet, French horn recorder, lute, and classical guitar.

Information concerning interviews, auditions, and course requirements for performing music study is given above under the course listings for Music 99 and 344. Interviews for Music 99 are ordinarily given at the start of the first semester only; the basic skills test is given before the beginning of both semesters.

There is no charge for performing music instruction to students enrolled in Music 344. All other students who contract for performing music instruction are charged $350 for one lesson per week throughout the year. An additional fee of $25 per year is charged to performing music students for the use of a practice studio. The fee for the use of a practice studio for harpsichord and organ is $35. Performing music fees are payable in advance and can be returned or reduced only under limited conditions and upon the approval of the chairman of the Department of Music.

Arrangements for lessons in performing music are made at the department office during the first week of the semester. Students may begin their performing music study at the start of the second semester only if space permits.

Performing Organizations

The following six organizations are a vital extension of the academic program of the Wellesley music department.

The Wellesley College Choir

The Wellesley College Choir, with approximately 80 members, gives concerts on and off campus during the academic year, many of them with men's choirs. Endowed funds provide for at least one joint concert each year accompanied by a professional orchestra.

The Wellesley Madrigal Singers

The Madrigal Singers are a chamber chorus of about 25 mixed voices. The organization elects its own student director.

The Collegium Musicum

The Collegium Musicum, directed by a faculty member and several assistants, specializes in the performance of early music. Members of the Collegium enjoy the use of an unusually fine collection of historical instruments. See under Performing Music: Instrument Collection.

Separate consort instruction is available in viola da gamba, renaissance winds, and recorder for both beginning and advanced players. Members of such groups are encouraged to take private instruction as well.

The Chamber Music Society

The Chamber Music Society, supervised by a faculty member and assistants, presents three concerts each year, plus a number of diverse, informal programs.

The Wellesley College Chamber Orchestra

The Wellesley College Chamber Orchestra is a student-directed organization consisting of approximately 30 members. Its concerts include works from several periods for small orchestra, with possibilities for solo performance.

The MIT Orchestra

Through the Wellesley-MIT cross-registration program, students on the Wellesley campus are eligible to audition for membership in the MIT Symphony Orchestra. Wellesley members of the orchestra have often held solo positions.

Philosophy

Visiting Professor:

MacIntyre, Henry R. Luce Visiting Professor

Associate Professor:

Menkiti

Assistant Professor:

Janik³, Flanagan, Winkler

101 (1) (2) Plato's Dialogues as an Introduction to Philosophy

An introduction to philosophy through a study of Plato's views of the nature of man and society, and of the nature of philosophical inquiry as found in the early and middle dialogues taking Socrates as their central concern. Some consideration will be given to Aristotle.

Open to all students.

Ms. Congleton, Mr. Winkler, Mrs. Chaplin, Mr. MacIntyre

106 (1) (2) Introduction to Moral Philosophy

An examination of the methods by which intelligent moral decisions are made through an examination of the views of several major figures in the history of moral philosophy. An attempt to develop the capacity to recognize and critically analyze philosophical arguments pertinent to the resolution of concrete contemporary issues.

Open to all students.

Mr. MacIntyre, Mrs. Putnam, Mr. Winkler, Mr. Flanagan, Ms. Congleton

150 (1) Colloquium

For directions for applying see p. 47. Open by permission to a limited number of freshman and sophomore applicants.

Darwin, Marx, and Freud: pioneers of modern thought

An introduction to the thought of three 19th-century thinkers who have provided the historical framework for the contemporary period. Emphasis will be placed on their interpretations of human nature and history. A specific interest of this colloquium will be the psychological process of discovery, the origins of new ideas, and the process of social acceptance and assimilation of ideas which may appear to threaten the intellectual establishment.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mrs. Chaplin

200 (1) (2) Modern Sources of Contemporary Philosophy

A study of the work of Descartes, Hume, and Kant. The course is intended to introduce students to the most influential philosophers of modern times. Key concepts, terms and arguments used by philosophers from the 17th century to the present day will be discussed. The course also provides preparation for more advanced work both in contemporary philosophy and in the history of modern philosophy.

Open to all students except freshmen in the first semester.

Mr. Flanagan

201 (1) Philosophy and the Scientific Revolution

During the 17th and 18th centuries, philosophical theories about knowledge, reasoning, nature and reality influenced the work of practising scientists; and the successes of mathematics, physics, and later biology, led philosophers to develop new ideas and raise new questions. The course will study this interaction through readings from Galileo, Bacon, Descartes, Newton, Berkeley, Leibniz and Diderot.

Open to all students except first semester freshmen.

Mrs. Janik

202 (2)* Introduction to African Philosophy

Initiation into basic African philosophical concepts and principles. The first part of the course deals with a systematic interpretation of such questions as the Bantu African philosophical concept of Muntu and related beliefs, as well as Bantu ontology, metaphysics, and ethics. The second part centers on the relationship between philosophy and ideologies and its implications in Black African social, political, religious, and economic institutions. The approach will be comparative.

Prerequisite: same as for 203.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Menkiti

Offered in 1982-83.

203 (1) Philosophy of Art

An examination of some major theories of art and art criticism. Emphasis on the clarification of such key concepts as style, meaning, and truth, and on the nature of judgments and arguments about artistic beauty and excellence.

Open to freshmen who have taken one unit in philosophy, and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.

Mrs. Stadler

205 (2) Nature and Convention

How much of our life depends on changeable social convention and how much on unchangeable necessity? The first half of the course will be based on short readings from various fields showing how the question of convention arises in connection with such questions as the relation of thought and language, the basis of sex role definition, and the ways judges reach and justify their decisions. The second half of the semester will be a study of convention by the 20th century philosopher Ludwig Wittgenstein. Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.

Ms. Congleton

210 (1) Social Philosophy

An exploration of some key issues in social philosophy which will focus on such topics as the nature and value of community; the grounds for social coercion and the moral legitimacy of group rules; collective versus individual rationality; the responsibilities of persons in their roles; and obligations between generations.

Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.

Mr. Menkiti

211 (2) Philosophy of Religion

An examination of basic problems regarding the nature of religion, the grounds of religious belief, and the character of ritual, with attention to both traditional and contemporary positions.

Prerequisite: same as for 203.

Mr. Menkiti

215 (1) Philosophy of Mind

Topics for discussion include the mind-body relation; free will/determinism; the problems of knowledge of one's own mind and other minds; the problems of unconscious motivation; the relation between mind and brain. Readings include Descartes, Freud, Skinner, Chomsky, Piaget.

Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors.

Mr. Flanagan

216 (1) (2) Logic

An introduction to the methods of symbolic logic and their application to arguments in ordinary English. Discussion of validity, implication, consistency, proof, and of such topics as the thesis of extensionality and the nature of mathematical truth.

Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Not recommended for freshmen.

Mrs. Putnam, Mr. Winkler

217 (2) Philosophy of Science

A study of problems in the philosophy of the natural and social sciences, such as the growth of scientific knowledge, the reality of theoretical entities, space and time, purpose in nature, and the explanation of human action. Readings in both classical and contemporary sources.

Prerequisite: same as for 203.

Mr. Winkler

221 (2) History of Modern Philosophy in the Nineteenth Century

A study of Post-Enlightenment philosophy, concentrating on the German tradition. Selected texts from Hegel, Schopenhauer, and Nietzsche will illustrate the themes of reason, history, and human nature. Some attention will also be given to the thought of John Stuart Mill and Auguste Comte. Prerequisite: 200 or 201 or other previous study of Kant accepted as equivalent by the instructor.

Mrs. Janik

222 (1) American Philosophy

The development of American philosophy from its beginnings as an attempt to come to terms with Puritanism, through the response to revolution and slavery and the development of Transcendentalism, to its culmination in Pragmatism. Pragmatism, exemplified by Peirce, James, and Dewey, as America's unique contribution to world philosophy occupies roughly half of the course. This course is intended for American studies majors as well as for philosophers.

Prerequisite: 200 or 201 or by permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Putnam

223 (2) Phenomenology and Existentialism

Central themes in contemporary European philosophy with special emphasis on the contributions of Søren Kierkegaard, Edmund Husserl, Martin Heidegger, and Jean-Paul Sartre.

Prerequisite: 200 or other previous study of Kant accepted as equivalent by the instructor.

Mrs. Stadler

227 (2) Feminism, Anti-Feminism and Philosophy

Study of the range of feminist and anti-feminist theories developed in the course of Western history from Plato to the present. Emphasis will be placed especially on discovering what values and concepts underlie anti-feminist theories and attitudes. Some recent discussions of the possibility of changing traditional values and concepts so as to reflect women's equality will also be examined.

Open to all students without prerequisite.

Mrs. Janik

234 (2) Philosophy of History

An introduction both to speculative and analytical philosophy of history. The course will first study some attempts at demonstrating the existence of patterns or general laws in the human past, then examine the main problems engendered in the process of translating historical events into written form, in particular the nature of historical explanation and the possibility of historical objectivity.

Prerequisite: same as for 203.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mrs. Janik

249 (1) Medical Ethics

A philosophical examination of some central problems at the interface of medicine and ethics. Exploration of the social and ethical implications of current advances in biomedical research and technology. Topics discussed will include psychosurgery, gendersurgery, genetic screening, amniocentesis, euthanasia. Prerequisite: same as for 203.

Mr. Menkiti

302 (1) Kant

Intensive studies in the philosophy of Kant with some consideration of his position in the history of philosophy.

Prerequisite: 200.

Mrs. Stadler

304 (2) The Theory and Practice of Metaphor

A "discovery course," tracing the function of metaphor in literature, the sciences, and human creativity in general. Theoretical analysis of metaphorical thinking as well as studies of the role of some specific metaphors in past and present will be included.

Prerequisite: one Grade II course, preferably 200 or 201, or permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Janik

311 (1)* Plato

Two issues in Platonic philosophy will be emphasized. The so-called "Socratic paradox" which holds that no one knowingly does evil and the theory of "forms" or "Platonic ideas." Offered in alternation with 312.

Prerequisite: 101 or Greek 201.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Congleton

Offered in 1982-83.

312 (1)* Aristotle

Intensive study of the thought of Aristotle through detailed reading of selected texts. Attention will be given especially to those works which present Aristotle's picture of nature, human nature, and society. Aristotle's influence on subsequent science and philosophy will be discussed briefly. Offered in alternation with 311.

Prerequisite: 101 or Greek 201.

Mrs. Janik

326 (2) Philosophy of Law

A systematic consideration of fundamental issues in the conception and practice of law. Such recurrent themes in legal theory as the nature and function of law, the relation of law to morality, the function of rules in legal reasoning, and the connection between law and social policy are examined. Clarification of such notions as obligation, power, contract, liability, and sovereignty. Readings will cover the natural law tradition and the tradition of legal positivism, as well as such contemporary writers as Hart and Fuller. Open to qualified juniors and seniors, or by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Menkiti

327 (2) Seminar. Ideas of Progress and Perfection

The aim is to discover what exactly is at issue in discussions of the debts which the arts, sciences, and philosophies of the 20th century owe to their respective historical antecedents. The seminar will examine texts in the history of art, science, and philosophy with a view to clarifying the measure of agreement between different answers to the questions of what progress is and how it is to be assessed. Readings will include Gombrich, Lakatos, and Collingwood. Offered jointly with MIT 21.367. Open to juniors and seniors by permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Stadler, Mr. Kibel (MIT)

328 (2) Problems in Twentieth-Century Art and Philosophy

Twelve major painters of the last 100 years, from Manet to Olitski, will be studied. Equal emphasis will be given to their stylistic development through a close study of individual paintings and to the critical issues raised by their work especially as these issues relate to the history of Modernist thought. Readings will include writings of the artists themselves, as well as relevant critical and philosophical texts. Offered jointly with MIT 21.980. Open by permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Stadler, Mr. Ablow (Boston University)

335 (1) Theory of Meaning

A study of some contemporary discussions of what it might mean to say language has "meaning" in addition to grammatical structure. Theories to be discussed include the reference theories of such philosophers as Gottlob Frege, Bertrand Russell, Hilary Putnam, and Saul Kripke, and the transformational theories of Noam Chomsky and the interpretive and generative semanticists.

Prerequisite: 216 or equivalent study of logic.

Ms. Congleton

336 (1) Contemporary Analytic Philosophy

A study of contemporary philosophy in the English-speaking world. Points of contact with the philosophical tradition and philosophy on the European continent will be emphasized. Among the topics: language and the world, philosophical method, moral psychology, the self, skepticism, relativism.

Prerequisite: 200.

Mr. Winkler

338 (1) Justice: The Proper Balance of Liberty and Equality

Intensive study of John Rawls' A Theory of Justice as one attempt to clarify our thinking concerning the apparently conflicting demands for greater equality and more extensive liberty put forward by various groups in a democratic society. Attention will be paid to some of the major areas of conflict, e.g., affirmative action, the ERA, the welfare state, as well as to some of the philosophical responses to and clarifications of A Theory of Justice.

Prerequisite: one course in moral or social philosophy or in political theory, or permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Putnam

339 (2) Contemporary Ethical Theory

Questions to be studied include: Are moral values discovered or invented? If there are objective values how do we come to know them, and if there aren't, where does the sense of moral obligation come from? What is the nature of moral (practical) reasoning? What is the point of morality? Readings will be taken primarily from the works of 20th century philosophers.

Prerequisite: one course in Philosophy or permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Putnam

345 (2) Philosophy and the Human Sciences

A critical study of some major philosophical issues raised by the advent of sociobiology, psychology, and anthropology as sciences. Issues to be addressed are: Are there any essential differences between the human and the natural sciences? Can the human sciences give objective value-free knowledge? To what extent do the human sciences conceal political ideologies? What are the implications of the human sciences for our conceptions of human nature, values, and culture? Case studies include Freud's psychoanalysis, Wilson's sociobiology, Kohlberg's moral psychology, and Milton Friedman's economic theory. Open by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Flanagan

Directions for Election

Beginning with the Class of 1982, philosophy majors are expected to elect at least two courses from each of the following three areas:

- A. (Historical): 101, 200, 201, 202, 205, 221, 222, 223, 302, 311, 312
- B. (Value Theory): 106, 202, 203, 210, 211, 227, 249, 326, 328, 338, 339, 342
- C. (Metaphysics and Theory of Knowledge): 202, 205, 215, 216, 217, 234, 304, 327, 335, 336, 341, 345

Philosophy 200 is required of all philosophy majors; 216 is strongly recommended to students who plan to do graduate work in philosophy.

A knowledge of Greek, French, or German is desirable. Students planning graduate work in philosophy should acquire a reading knowledge of two of these languages.

The department offers the following options for earning honors in the major field: (1) writing a thesis or a set of related essays; (2) a two-semester project which replaces the thesis with some of the activities of a teaching assistant; (3) a program designed particularly for students who have a general competence and who wish to improve their grasp of their major field by independent study in various sectors of the field. A student electing option (2) will decide, in consultation with the department, in which course she will eventually assist and, in the term preceding her teaching, will meet with the instructor to discuss materials pertinent to the course. Option (3) involves selecting at least two related areas and one special topic for independent study. When the student is ready, she will take written examinations in her two areas and, at the end of the second term, an oral examination focusing on her special topic.

121 (1-2) Physical Education Activities

The instructional program in physical education is divided into four seasons, two each semester. To complete the College work in physical education a student must earn 8 credit points. Students are strongly urged to earn the 8 credits by the end of the sophomore year. These credit points do not count as academic units toward the degree, but are required for graduation. Most activities give 2 credit points each season, but certain activities give 3 or more credit points. Each activity is divided into skill levels to provide instruction in homogeneous groups. Special fees are charged for a few courses and are listed in the course descriptions. More detailed information on specific course offerings, skill levels, prerequisites, and numbers of points may be found in the Department of Physical Education and Athletics Curriculum Handbook which is sent to entering students and is distributed to each student prior to registration. The total program of activities offered in 1981-82 in very general terms follows.

(1)

Scheduled throughout the first semester

Advanced Life Saving and Aquatic Safety

Ballet

Conditioning

First Aid

Jazz

Modern Dance

Scuba

Self Defense

Sports Medicine Seminar

Swimming

Yoga

Season 1. Scheduled in first half of first semester

Aerobic Running I

Canoeing

Crew

Exercise and Weight Control

Golf

Horseback Riding

Intercollegiate Program

There are opportunities for those who enjoy competition to participate in one of the intercollegiate teams presently sponsored by the Department of Physical Education and Athletics.

These teams include:

Basketball
 Crew
 Fencing
 Field Hockey
 Lacrosse
 Soccer
 Squash
 Swimming and Diving
 Tennis
 Volleyball

Directions for Election

Each student is expected to complete a minimum of two seasons a year until Physical Education 121 is completed. A student may elect a course which is scheduled throughout a semester, two courses concurrently, or may choose not to elect a course during some seasons.

Students should select courses which meet their present and projected interests in physical activities. It is hoped that students will gain knowledge of the relation of physical activity to the maintenance of general well-being; that they will achieve a level of ability, understanding, and participation in sports, dance, and/or exercise so that they may experience satisfaction and enjoyment; and that they will be able to swim with sufficient skill to participate safely in recreational swimming and boating.

A student's choice of activity is subject to the approval of the department and the College Health Services. Upon recommendation of a College physician and permission of the department, a student who has a temporary or permanent medical restriction may enroll in a modified program.

Students may continue to enroll in physical education after Physical Education 121 is completed. Members of the faculty may elect activities with permission of the department.

Physics

Professor:
Fleming (Chairman), Brown

Assistant Professor:
Ducas, Marshall

Laboratory Instructor:
Benson³, Sweeney³, Cope³

All courses meet for two periods of lecture weekly and all Grade I and Grade II courses have one three-hour laboratory unless otherwise noted.

100 (2) Musical Acoustics

Production, propagation and perception of sound waves in music; emphasis on understanding of musical instruments and the means of controlling their sound by the performer. No laboratory. Each student will write a term paper applying physical principles to a particular field of interest. Not to be counted toward the minimum major, or to fulfill entrance requirement for medical school.

Open to all students except those who took 102 in 1979-80.

Ms. Brown

101 (2)* Physics in Perspective

A qualitative overview of the evolution of physics from classical to modern concepts. An introduction to the methodology and language of physics. Laboratory in alternate weeks. Not to be counted toward minimum major, or to fulfill entrance requirement for medical school.

Open to all students.

Not offered in 1981-82.

102 (2) Musical Acoustics with Laboratory

Same description as 100 except the course is offered with laboratory in alternate weeks and the students will write a shorter term paper. Not to be counted toward the minimum major, or to fulfill entrance requirement for medical school.

Open to all students except those who took 102 in 1979-80.

Ms. Brown

103 (1) Contemporary Problems in Physics

Consideration of selected aspects of physics and physical concepts in their relationship to contemporary societal problems. Topic for 1981-82: Physics of whales and porpoises. Various aspects of these unusual mammals will be explored and viewed in the light of the physical principles they embody. Areas covered include: diving, acoustics, and movement through fluids. Each student will write a final paper on a particular topic. Laboratory in alternate weeks. Not to be counted toward the minimum major, or to fulfill entrance requirement for medical school.

Open to all students.

Mr. Ducas

104 (1) Basic Concepts in Physics I

Mechanics including: statics, dynamics, and conservation laws. Introduction to waves. Discussion meetings in alternate weeks. Open to all students who do not offer physics for admission and by permission of the instructor to juniors and seniors who offer physics for admission.

Prerequisite or corequisite: Mathematics 115.

Ms. Marshall

105 (1) General Physics I

Elementary mechanics and applications to gravitation and planetary motions; introduction to wave phenomena; a special topic of classical physics, such as thermodynamics; fluids. Discussion meetings in alternate weeks. Open to students who offer physics for admission and are not eligible for 110.

Prerequisite or corequisite: Mathematics 115.

Mr. Roberts

106 (2) Basic Concepts in Physics II

Electricity and magnetism; wave phenomena and optics. Discussion meetings in alternate weeks.

Prerequisite: 104 and Mathematics 115.

Ms. Marshall

107 (2) General Physics II

Electricity and magnetism; wave phenomena and optics. Discussion meetings in alternate weeks.

Prerequisite: 105 and Mathematics 115, or permission to students who offer physics for admission.

Mr. Roberts

110 (1) Advanced General Physics

An intensive course which includes forces on particles in gravitational, electric, and magnetic fields; rotational motion; wave motion; simple circuits. A student who successfully completes 110 is eligible for Grade II work in physics. Discussion meetings in alternate weeks.

Open to students who offer physics for admission and have completed Mathematics 115.

Miss Fleming

201 (2) Electricity and Magnetism

Fundamental laws of electric and magnetic fields; electric circuits; electric and magnetic properties of matter. Laboratory includes practice in the use of the oscilloscope and other measuring instruments.

Prerequisite: 106 or 110, and Mathematics 116.

Miss Fleming

202 (1) Optical Physics

Wave theory as applied to optical phenomena. Interference, diffraction, coherence, polarization, dispersion, resolution. Introduction to modern optics including lasers and holography.

Prerequisite: same as for 201.

Ms. Brown

204 (2) Modern Physics

Basic principles of relativity and quantum theory, and of atomic and nuclear structure.

Prerequisite: 106 or 110, and Mathematics 115.

Mr. Lucas

222 (1) Medical Physics

Biological applications of physics. Such areas as mechanics, electricity and magnetism, and thermodynamics will be investigated. No laboratory.

Prerequisite: 106 or 110, and Mathematics 115, or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Lucas

249 (1)* Selected Topics

Topics selected from areas not covered in the general physics courses. Normally a different topic each year. No laboratory.

Prerequisite: 106 or 110 and 216 or Mathematics 116 or the equivalent, or permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

305 (2)* Thermodynamics

The laws of thermodynamics; kinetic theory of gases; statistical mechanics.

Prerequisite: 106 or 110, and one Grade II course; 216 or Mathematics 205 or [201] or [215].

Not offered in 1981-82.

306 (1) Mechanics

A vector analytical presentation of Newtonian mechanics including central fields, rotational motion, and small vibrations; Lagrange's equations.

Prerequisite: 201 or 202; 216; or permission of the instructor.

Ms. Marshall

314 (2) Electromagnetic Theory

Maxwell's equations, boundary value problems, special relativity, electromagnetic waves, and radiation.

Prerequisite: 201 and 306, and 216 or Mathematics 205 or [215].

Ms. Brown

321 (1) Quantum Mechanics

Interpretative postulates of quantum mechanics; solutions to the Schrodinger equation; operator theory; perturbation theory; scattering; matrices.

Prerequisite: 204 or [200] and Mathematics 210; 306 or 314 are strongly recommended.

Ms. Brown

349 (2)* Selected Topics

Advanced topics of mutual interest to faculty and students. Topic for 1981-82: Modern Spectroscopy. Students will report on topics of special interest.

Prerequisite: 204.

Mr. Lucas

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Open by permission to juniors and seniors.

370 (1-2) Thesis 2 to 4

Open only to honors candidates.

Cross-Listed Courses

Extrdepartmental 216 (2)

Mathematics for the Physical Sciences
For description and prerequisite see Extrdepartmental 216.

Directions for Election

Credit will be given for only one of the following courses: 104, 105, 110.

A major in physics should ordinarily include 201, 202, 204 or [200], 306, 314, and 321. Extradepartmental 216 or Mathematics 209, or [216] is an additional requirement. One unit of another laboratory science is recommended.

A reading knowledge of two of the following languages is desirable for students planning to attend graduate school: French, German, Russian.

Exemption Examination

An examination for exemption from Physics 110 is offered to students who present one admission unit in physics. Students who pass this examination will be eligible for Grade II work in physics. No unit of credit will be given for passing this examination.

101 (1) (2) Introduction to Politics

Study of political conflict and consensus, or "who gets what, when, and how." Topics include ways in which political systems deal with problems of leadership, economic development, social and racial inequality. Comparison of democratic and authoritarian systems, including the United States, Great Britain, Nazi Germany, and the People's Republic of China. Emphasis on the relationship between political thought, institutions, and policy problems. Readings from Rousseau, Madison, Mill, Hitler, Marx, Lenin, and Mao as well as contemporary political analysts. Strongly recommended for all further work in political science. Open to all students.

The Staff

Comparative Politics

204 (1) Political Economy of Development and Underdevelopment

An analysis of the national and international context of political and economic problems in Third World countries, with special consideration of major explanations of development and underdevelopment. Topics discussed include colonialism, industrialization, rural development, and economic dependency; constraints of political and economic structures on national decision-making; and the potential for change. The course will include case studies of specific political systems.

Prerequisite: one unit in political science, economics, or European history; open to juniors and seniors without prerequisite.

Mr. Joseph

205 (1) Politics of Western Europe

A comparative study of democratic politics in Western Europe. The course will focus on political development in Great Britain, France, and Germany and will examine the role of political culture, parties, interest groups, and leaders in the political process. Contemporary problems in civil rights, economics, and European integration will be explored.

Prerequisite: one unit in political science or European history; open to juniors and seniors without prerequisite.

Mr. Krieger

207 (2) Politics of Latin America

An analysis of political and economic problems of Latin America, including alternative explanations of development and underdevelopment in the region. The course will focus on major national problems such as urbanization, rural development and agrarian reform, economic dependency, industrialization and redistribution and explore the political consequences of public policies formulated to deal with these issues. Special consideration given to the political systems of Mexico, Brazil, Peru, Argentina, and Chile.

Prerequisite: one unit in political science; by permission to other qualified students.

Ms. Wasserspring

209 (2) African Politics

An examination of the politics of Africa, with special emphasis on relations among African countries and between Africa and the rest of the world. Attention will be paid to the problems of decolonization, national integration, and to the crisis in southern Africa.

Prerequisite: one unit in political science; by permission to other qualified students.

Mr. Murphy

300 (2) Politics of East Asia

National and international politics of China and Japan. The People's Republic of China will be considered as an experiment in a radical political ideology and a response to the problems of economic development. Study of Japan will emphasize contemporary voting behavior and bureaucratic politics.

Prerequisite: two units in political science or one unit in Asian history.

Mr. Joseph

301 (1) Politics of the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe

Study of the ideology and political organization of Soviet and Eastern European Communism since the 1917 Bolshevik Revolution. Topics include theory and practice of Marxism-Leninism and Stalinism, internal politics of the Communist Party, Soviet education and public opinion, and varieties of socialist democracy in contemporary Eastern Europe.

Prerequisite: two units in political science or Russian language and/or history.

Mrs. Heer

303 (2) The Political Economy of the Welfare State

A comparative study of the foundations of social and welfare policy in Western democracies. Focus will be on the changing character of the welfare state in Europe and America: its development in the inter-war years, its startling expansion after World War II, and its uncertain future today as a result of fiscal crisis and diverse political oppositions. Themes to be discussed include: state strategies for steering the capitalist economy; problems of redistribution of wealth; social security, health, and unemployment protection; and equal employment and educational opportunity.

Prerequisite: one Grade II unit in American or comparative European politics or macroeconomics or European history; open to juniors and seniors without prerequisite by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Krieger

304 (2) Studies in Political Leadership

A comparative study of the resources and constraints modern political leaders experience. Conceptual approaches and case studies will be analyzed. Exploration of succession problems and political culture in a variety of democratic and authoritarian societies. Individual research and student reports.

Open to students who have taken one Grade II unit in international relations, American or comparative politics, or by permission of the instructor.

Miss Miller

305 (1) Seminar. The Military in Politics

A comparative exploration of the role of the military in the political process. Why and how does the military become involved in politics? What are the consequences of its involvement for the society and for the military as an institution? Special attention to military and civilian elite interaction, causes of military coups, decision-making styles, and policy outcomes in military regimes. Case studies drawn from experiences in the U.S., Western Europe, and the Third World. Open to juniors and seniors by permission of the instructor.

Ms. Wasserspring

306 (2) Seminar. Revolutions in the Modern World

Comparative analysis of the theory and practice of revolutions in the 20th century. The seminar will consider such questions as: Why and when do revolutions occur? Why do some succeed while others fail? Are there different types of revolutions? What are the important qualities of revolutionary leadership? How are people mobilized to join and support a revolutionary movement? Revolutionary writings by Lenin, Mao, Guevara, Debray, and Ho Chi Minh will be studied, along with contemporary social science analyses of the phenomenon of revolutions. Case studies will be drawn from revolutions in Russia, China, Cuba, Vietnam, Chile, and Iran. Open to juniors and seniors by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Joseph

308 (1) Seminar. War, Protest and Politics in Vietnam and the U.S.

Analysis of political participation in Vietnam and the United States as a result of America's involvement in Vietnam. Issues to be considered include: conscription, political mobilization, anti-war protests, civil rights, loyalty to the state, economic implications, political integration, impact of the war on contemporary political issues in both countries.

Open to juniors and seniors by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Sanchez-Jankowski

American Politics200 (1) (2) American Politics

The dynamics of the American political process: constitutional developments, growth and erosion of congressional power, the rise of the presidency and the executive branch, impact of the Supreme Court, evolution of federalism, the role of political parties, elections and interest groups. Emphasis on national political institutions and on both historic and contemporary political values. The course will include analysis of a variety of contemporary policy problems, including such issues as race and sex discrimination, individual liberties, poverty, urban conflict, environmental disruption, inflation, and unemployment. Recommended for further work in American law and politics.

Prerequisite: one unit in political science, economics, or American studies, or by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Schechter, Mr. Sanchez-Jankowski, Mr. Lewis

210 (1) Voters, Parties, and Elections

Analysis of political behavior in America. The role of interest groups and public opinion in policy issues. Study of voting decisions, political campaigns, party organization, and the meaning of elections. Special topics include the use of media and technology in campaigns, political alienation, and structural reform.

Prerequisite: two units in political science or American history or sociology, or permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Just

212 (1) Urban Politics

Introduction to contemporary urban problems. Analysis of the various perspectives on the nature of urban and suburban problems and policies. Evaluation of the formation, implementation, and impact of selected urban policies concerning housing, education, race, criminal justice, welfare, finances, transportation. Examination of trends in national urban policy, intergovernmental relations, and patterns of political involvement and conflict.

Prerequisite: one Grade II unit in American politics, two units in American history, sociology, or economics, or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Sanchez-Jankowski

310 (1) Political Decision-Making in the United States

Analysis of the policy-making process based on simulation of decision-making in executive, legislative, and/or judicial units at different levels of government in the United States. Four or five nationally important questions considered with all class members playing roles as advocates, witnesses, decision-makers, or analysts; evaluation of role-playing and extent to which relevant considerations are taken into account in reaching decisions.

Prerequisite: one Grade II unit in American politics or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Lewis

313 (2) American Presidential Politics

Analysis of the central role of the president in American politics, and the development and operation of the institutions of the modern presidency, including the White House staff, the Office of Management and Budget, the Council of Economic Advisors, and the National Security Council. The course will focus on sources of presidential power and limitations on the chief executive, with particular emphasis on congressional relations and leadership of the federal bureaucracy. Case studies will be drawn from recent administrations.

Prerequisite: 200, or the equivalent, or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Lewis

314 (1) Congress and the Legislative Process

An examination of the structure, operation, and political dynamics of the U.S. Congress and other contemporary legislatures. Emphasis will be on Congress: its internal politics, relations with the other branches, and responsiveness to interest groups and the public. The course will analyze the sources and limits of congressional power, and will familiarize students with the intricacies of lawmaking.

Prerequisite: 200, or 210, or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Sheppard

315 (2) Public Policy and the Bureaucracy

Exploration of the expanding role of the federal bureaucracy. What are the causes of bureaucratic growth? What impact has this had on individuals, on institutions, and on the policy process? Focus on processes of decision-making, problems of implementation, intergovernmental relations, and program evaluation. Examination of specific bureaucratic responsibilities such as budgeting, regulating the private business sector, and the Great Society programs of the 1960s. Case studies of agencies such as the Office of Management and Budget, the Environmental Protection Agency, the Office of Economic Opportunity, and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

Prerequisite: 200 or permission of the instructor.

316 (2) Mass Media and Public Opinion

Analysis of development and treatment of contemporary political issues in the mass media and the written press. Relevant topics in political behavior will also be explored. How consistent or mutable are popular opinions? How does public opinion influence or constrain democratic leadership? Comparison will be made of the development of issues such as the Vietnam War, school desegregation, national health insurance, and ERA.

Prerequisite: 200, or 210, or permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Just

317 (2) Seminar. Race and Ethnicity in Urban Politics

Examination of the roles of race and ethnicity in the politics of American cities, with some comparison to Montreal, Mexico City, and other metropolitan areas in the world. At the micro level, attention will be given to the analysis of conventional forms of individual participation (electoral politics, collective action, and lobbying activity) and to the analysis of unconventional forms of participation (protest activity, strikes, riots, and urban terrorism). At the macro level, the focus will be on the ways issues of race and ethnicity influence public policy, with particular regard to the response by urban governments to demands made by members of minority groups. Open to juniors and seniors by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Sanchez-Jankowski

318 (1) Field Research Seminar in Welfare Policy

A seminar combining student internships in governmental agencies or public interest groups with investigation of the law and politics of welfare in the United States. Class sessions will explore welfare policies, and procedures and structures of the different agencies in which interns have been placed. Open to juniors and seniors by permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

International Relations

221 (1) (2) World Politics

An introduction to the international system with emphasis on contemporary theory and practice. Analysis of the bases of power and influence, the policy perspectives of principal states, and the modes of accommodation and conflict resolution.

Prerequisite: one unit in history or political science.

Miss Miller

222 (2) Comparative Foreign Policies

An examination of factors influencing the formulation and execution of national foreign policies in the contemporary international system. Comparisons and contrasts between "advanced" and "developing" countries will be stressed, especially the varying significance of domestic sources of foreign policy in Western and non-Western settings. Prerequisite: one unit in international relations or comparative politics.

Mr. Murphy

223 (1) International Organization

The changing role of international institutions since the League of Nations. Emphasis on the General Assembly and the Security Council of the UN, plus examination of specialized agencies, multilateral conferences and regional or functional economic and security organizations. The theory and practice of integration beyond the nation-state, as well as the creation and destruction of international regimes. Prerequisite: one unit in international relations or comparative politics.

Mr. Murphy

321 (1) The United States in World Politics

An exploration of American foreign policy since 1945. Readings will include general critiques and case studies designed to illuminate both the processes of policy formulation and the substance of policies pursued. Consideration of future prospects. Prerequisite: one unit in international relations or permission of the instructor.

Miss Miller

323 (1) The Politics of Economic Interdependence

A review of political strategies for coping with global economic interdependence. Emphasis on the promise and performance of national, regional, international, and transnational organizations, including multi-national corporations, in response to demands for a new international economic order. Global issues discussed will include food, oil, terms of trade, population, income inequality, and resource depletion.

Prerequisite: one unit in international relations or comparative politics.

Mr. Murphy

324 (2) International Security

War as the central dilemma of international politics. Shifting causes and escalating consequences of warfare since the industrial revolution. Emphasis on the risk and avoidance of armed conflict in the contemporary period, the spread of nuclear and conventional military capabilities, arms transfers, arms competition, and arms control.

Prerequisite: same as for 321.

Not offered in 1981-82.

325 (2) Seminar. Negotiation and Bargaining

An examination of modern diplomacy emphasizing the behavior of states, international organizations, and other actors in a variety of political settings. Case study material will be drawn from the experience of World Wars I and II, Vietnam, and the Middle East. Consideration of the roles of personalities, national styles of statecraft, and domestic constraints in East-West and North-South conflicts. Individual research and student reports on such topics as strategic arms limitation, the Law of the Sea, and the Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty. Open to juniors and seniors by permission of the instructor.

Miss Miller

326 (2) International Politics in the Middle East

A systematic examination of the role of domestic and foreign ideas and policies in the emergence of nationalism, and nationalist movements in the Middle East. Topics to be discussed include: self-determination, the state, the policies of major powers; Arab, Jewish, Kurdish and Palestinian nationalist movements; the situation in Iran and Afghanistan; and the Arab-Israeli conflict. Prerequisite: same as for 321.

Mr. Murphy

Legal Studies

330 (1) (2) Law and the Administration of Justice

Fundamentals of the American legal process, including development of common law, courts and judges, civil and criminal proceedings, consumer rights and duties, criminal liability, interaction of law and politics, limits of the legal system; some comparison with other legal systems. Legal research and moot court practice. Recommended for further work in legal studies.

Prerequisite: two Grade II units in political science or two Grade II units in any combination of Group B disciplines; and by permission of the instructor to sophomores.

Ms. Entmacher, Mr. Leymaster

331 (1) International Law

The law applicable to the relations of States, international organizations, and individuals in the international community, considering lawmaking processes, settlement of public and private disputes, national claims to marine areas, control of international terrorism, nationality and alienage, regulation and protection of foreign trade and investments, revision of laws of war. Legal research and moot court practice. Open to students who have taken 330 or two units in international relations, or by permission of the instructor.

Ms. Delessert

332 (1) The Supreme Court in American Politics

Analysis of major developments in constitutional interpretation, the conflict over judicial activism, and current problems facing the Supreme Court. Emphasis will be placed on judicial review, the powers of the President and of Congress, federal-state relations, and individual rights and liberties. Each student will take part in a moot court argument of a major constitutional issue. Prerequisite: two Grade II units in political science, including one in American politics, or 330, or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Schechter

334 (2) The Criminal Justice System

An examination of how the criminal justice system works, considering the functions of police, prosecutor, defense counsel, and court in the processing of criminal cases; uses of discretionary power in regard to international and national rendition of fugitive offenders, arrest, bail, plea bargaining, and sentencing; changing perceptions of the rights of offenders and victims; current problems in criminal law. Legal research and moot court practice.

Prerequisite: 330, or 332, or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Leymaster

335 (2) Seminar. Law and Social Change

Analysis of the emerging constitutional and statutory rights of women and racial minorities. What rights have been sought? What rights have been achieved? To what extent have new legal rights been translated into actual social and governmental practices? Focus on the equal protection and due process clauses of the Fourteenth Amendment, statutes such as Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, and Supreme Court decisions during the past decade. The seminar will compare litigation with more traditional strategies for changing public policies towards employment discrimination, abortion, affirmative action, school segregation, housing and welfare.

Prerequisite: one unit in American legal studies and permission of the instructor.

Mr. Schechter

Political Theory and Methods

240 (1) Classical and Medieval Political Theory

Study of selected classical, medieval, and early modern writers such as Plato, Aristotle, Cicero, St. Augustine, St. Thomas Aquinas, Machiavelli, Luther, Calvin, and Hooker. Views on such questions as nature of political man; interpretations of the concepts of freedom, justice, and equality; legitimate powers of government; best political institutions. Some attention to historical context and to importance for modern political analysis.

Prerequisite: one unit in political science, philosophy, or European history.

Mr. Stettner

Study of political theory from the 17th to 19th centuries. Among the theorists studied are Hobbes, Locke, Hume, Rousseau, Burke, Mill, Hegel, Marx, and Nietzsche. Views on such questions as the nature of political man; interpretations of the concepts of freedom, justice, and equality; legitimate powers of government; best political institutions. Some attention to historical context and to importance for modern political analysis.

Prerequisite: one unit in political science, philosophy, or European history.

Mr. Stettner

242 (1) Contemporary Political Theory

Study of selected 20th century political theories, including Marxism-Leninism, Social Democracy, Fascism, Neo-conservatism. Attention will be paid to theories leading to contemporary approaches to political science, including elite theory, group theory, functionalism, and theories of bureaucracy. Prerequisite: one unit in political theory; 241 is strongly recommended.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Krieger

249 (2) Political Science Laboratory

The role of empirical data and the use of the computer in the study of comparative politics, public opinion, and political behavior. Frequent exercises introduce students to topics in descriptive statistics, probability and sampling, questionnaire design, cross tabulation; tests of significance, regression, correlation and modeling. Emphasis is on concepts in data analysis. No previous knowledge of mathematics, statistics, or computing is required.

Prerequisite: one Grade II unit in political science or permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Just

340 (1)* American Political Thought

Examination of American political writing, with emphasis given to the Constitutional period, Progressive Era, and to contemporary sources. Questions raised include: origins of American institutions, including rationale for federalism and separation of powers, role of President and Congress, judicial review, etc.; American interpretations of democracy, equality, freedom and justice; legitimate powers of central and local governments. Attention paid to historical context and to importance for modern political analysis. Prerequisite: Grade II work in political theory, American politics, or American history, or permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Stettner

341 (1) Issues and Concepts in Political Theory

Study of such political concepts as freedom, justice, equality, democracy, power, revolution, civil disobedience, and political obligation. Discussion of related issues, including implications for political systems of adopting these concepts and problems which result when these values conflict with one another. Emphasis on contemporary political problems and sources.

Prerequisite: two Grade II units in political science, philosophy, or intellectual history, or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Krieger

342 (2) Marxist Political Theory

Study of the fundamental concepts of Marxism as developed by Marx and Engels and explored by later classical Marxist theorists including: Lenin, Stalin, Trotsky, Gramsci, Kautsky, and Luxemburg. Attention will also be paid to the contemporary theoretical controversy surrounding both East European communism and the "Euro-communism" of France, Italy, and Spain. Concepts to be critically examined include: alienation, the materialist view of history, the bourgeois state, the transition to socialism, the dictatorship of the proletariat, and permanent revolution vs. statism.

Prerequisite: one Grade II unit in political theory or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Krieger

349 (2) Seminar. Political Thought of the American Founding Fathers

An intensive examination of the political writings of the leading figures in the Revolutionary War and Constitutional periods, particularly Madison, Jefferson, Hamilton, Adams, Wilson and Marshall. The emphasis of the seminar will be on the inter-play of abstract conceptions of politics with the need to develop specific political institutions in the new nation.

Open to juniors and seniors by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Stettner

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Individual or group research of an exploratory or specialized nature. Students interested in independent research should request the assistance of a faculty sponsor and plan the project, readings, conferences, and method of examination with the faculty sponsor. Open to juniors and seniors by permission.

370 (1-2) Thesis 2 to 4

Open only to honors candidates.

Directions for Election

A major in political science may be broad in scope, or it may have a special focus, e.g., metropolitan regional problems, environmental politics, area studies, international politics, legal problems of minorities, political ethics. Political Science 101, which provides an introduction to the discipline of political science, is strongly recommended for students planning to major. The department offers courses, seminars, and research or independent study in five fields: American politics, comparative politics, international relations, legal studies, political theory and methods. All majors are encouraged to take a seminar. Of the eight units comprising a minimum major, two units must be taken in each of three of these five fields. At least three of these six distribution units must be taken in the Department of Political Science at Wellesley. Units taken at another institution in order to fulfill the field requirement must be approved by the department.

Graduate work in political science leading to the Ph.D. usually requires a reading knowledge of two foreign languages and, for many specialties, a knowledge of statistical techniques or an introduction to the calculus.

Students participating in the Wellesley Washington Summer Internship Program or the Wellesley Urban Politics Summer Internship Program may arrange with the respective directors to earn credit for independent study.

Not offered in 1981-82.

218 (2) Sensation and Perception

Survey of theoretical and experimental approaches to selected topics in sensation and perception. Topics will include: sensory receptor processes; auditory and visual perceptual phenomena; perceptual learning and adaptation in children and adults; influence of social and personal variables upon perception; perceptual anomalies such as visual illusions, feelings of deja vue, and hallucinations. Course will include laboratory demonstrations.

Prerequisite: 101.

Ms. Mansfield

219 (1) Learning

Conditioning, verbal learning, and memory will be discussed. There will be an emphasis on in-class exercises demonstrating principles of learning and a consideration of their relevance to everyday learning situations. Prerequisite: 101.

Ms. Furumoto

220R (1) Research Methods in Experimental Psychology

An introduction to research methods employed in experimental psychology, including the fields of learning, information processing, animal behavior, and cognition. Group and individual projects. Opportunity for student selection of an appropriate independent project. Laboratory.

Prerequisite: 101 and 205 or [201] (205 may be taken concurrently); and 213 or 215 or 216 or 217 or 218 or 219 or [245].

Not offered in 1981-82.

300 (2) Seminar. The Psychology of Education

Topic for 1981-82: The psychology of college education. Exploration of different types of liberal arts colleges from the psychological point of view. Topics will include changes in student attitudes, values, and behavior during the college years; salient features of the college environment as perceived by students and faculty (e.g., competition, achievement); student decision-making (e.g., the major, the career); relationships among students and between students and faculty; the social psychology of the classroom and the residence hall; innovative and traditional teaching techniques; methods of evaluating student learning; single sex vs. coeducational colleges; the ideal college education for women.

Open by permission of the instructor to students who have taken 101.

Not offered in 1981-82.

301 (2) Seminar. Child Development and Social Policy

Topic for 1981-82: An examination of the relevance of psychological theories and research in forming social policy, with particular emphasis on policies affecting children. Consideration of the applicability of developmental research to policy issues such as the content of federal regulations and the construction of social programs serving children and adolescents. Topics include the effects of televised advertising and violence, educational television, day care, juvenile delinquency, and physical and sexual abuse of children. The adequacy of existing strategies for synthesizing psychological research in order to increase its policy relevance will be considered.

Open by permission of the instructor to juniors and seniors who have taken two Grade II units, including 207, and to other qualified students.

Mr. Pillemer

303 (2) The Psychological Implications of Being Female

Consideration of some of the changing patterns in the behavior of women, including literature in the area of sex differences.

Some of the following topics will be examined: theoretical formulations of the psychology of women; female sexuality; men's liberation; results of research on sex differences in humans and animals; social determinants of sex-stereotyped behavior. Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two Grade II units and by permission of the instructor to other qualified students.

306 (1) States of Consciousness

An examination of various conceptual and empirical issues in consciousness study. Topics considered will include sleep and dreams, hypnosis and the induction of dissociated states, biofeedback, childhood states of consciousness, the unconscious, psychotic and hallucinogenic states, drug-induced states, and cross-cultural and psychotherapeutic concerns.

Prerequisite: same as 303.

Mr. Schwartz

309 (1) (2) Abnormal Psychology

Consideration of major theories of neurosis and psychosis. Illustrative case materials. Selected issues in prevention and treatment of emotional problems.

Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two Grade II units, including 212.

Mr. Schwartz, Ms. Rierdan

310 (2) Seminar

The acquisition of schizophrenic behavior. A definition of "schizophrenia" will be attempted through consideration of theoretical models, case studies, and autobiographical reports. Different approaches to explaining the acquisition of schizophrenia, as well as strategies for the change of schizophrenic behavior, will be considered.

Open by permission of the instructor to juniors and seniors who have taken two Grade II units, including 212.

Not offered in 1981-82.

311 (2) Seminar. Social Psychology

Psychological study of family interaction. Application of social psychological variables and small group theories to the study of the internal processes of family interaction. Topics will include power, decision-making, coalition formation, conflict resolution, and privacy. The approach will consider both marital interaction and processes involving the family as a unit. Some consideration given to the research methods used to study family interaction.

Open by permission of the instructor to juniors and seniors who have taken two Grade II units, including either 210 or 211.

Not offered in 1981-82.

312 (1) Seminar

Topic for 1981-82: Psychology of death. An examination of the psychological meaning of death to the individual. Topics to be covered will include acquisition of the concept of death, antecedents and correlates of individual differences in concern about death, psychological processes in dying persons and their relatives, and the psychology of grief and mourning.

Open by permission of the instructor to juniors and seniors who have taken two Grade II units.

Mr. Dickstein

317 (1) Seminar. Psychological Development in Adults

Exploration of age-related crises and dilemmas in the context of contemporary psychological theory and research. Primary focus will be on early adulthood, but selected topics in mid-life and aging will also be examined. Among the topics to be covered will be intellectual development in adulthood; changing conceptions of truth and moral value; commitments to intimacy and work; marriage and divorce; parenthood; conflicts between family and career; the role of play in adult life; sex differences in development; role reversals as parents age; retirement and maintaining productivity in old age.

Open by permission of the instructor to juniors and seniors who have taken two Grade II units and to other qualified students.

Ms. Mansfield

318 (1) Seminar. Brain and Behavior

Selected topics in brain-behavior relationships. Emphasis will be on the neural basis of the higher-order behaviors. Topics will include language, perception, learning, memory, hemispheric specialization, and sex differences in lateralization.

Open by permission of the instructor to juniors and seniors who have taken two Grade II units, including one of 213, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, or [245].

Mrs. Koff

325 (1) Seminar. History of Psychology

Topic for 1981-82: Women in the Early Period of American Psychology. Women in early American psychology (1890-1930). Study of life histories, educational experiences, and professional contributions of about 30 women who completed advance work in the emerging discipline of psychology.

Open by permission of the instructor to juniors and seniors who have taken 101.

Ms. Furumoto

327 (2) Selected Topics in Personality

Topic for 1981-82: Behavioral medicine. This course focuses on behavioral-psychological factors in health care. It provides an overview of the concepts, theoretical applications, and research relevant to behavioral interventions in some "medical" disorders. Included will be discussions of migraine and other forms of chronic pain, behavioral pediatrics, biofeedback interventions, seizure disorders, cardiovascular disorders, and holistic medicine.

Prerequisite: same as for 303.

Not offered in 1981-82.

328 (1) Seminar

Topic for 1981-82: Freud and psychoanalysis. Study of works of Sigmund Freud selected to show the development of Freud's concepts and concerns. Special consideration of Freud's place in modern psychoanalytic thinking and in other Western intellectual traditions.

Prerequisite: same as for 312.

Mr. Schwartz

330 (1) Seminar

Topic for 1981-82: Environmental psychology. This seminar will examine the influence that setting has on behavior. Important concepts in environmental psychology such as crowding, privacy, territoriality, and personal space will be examined in detail. Sections of the course will focus on specific settings (e.g., hospitals, offices, classrooms), and attention will be paid to investigating the urban environment. The application of psychological variables in architectural planning and design will also be considered.

Prerequisite: same as 317.

Not offered in 1981-82.

331 (2) Advanced Topics in Psychology

Topic for 1981-82: The Psychology of the Self. An examination of psychological approaches to understanding the nature of the self from William James (1890) to contemporary theories. Topics will include self-awareness, self-esteem, self-consistency, self-presentation, and self-actualization. The processes of self-concept formation during childhood will also be considered.

Prerequisite: same as 303.

Mr. Cheek

335 (2) Seminar. Experimental Psychology

Topic for 1981-82: The ape language controversy. Is language unique to humans, or does the potential for language exist at least in some closely related species? This seminar will consider evidence from ape language research projects and recent criticisms which question the validity of this research.

Open by permission of the instructor to juniors and seniors who have taken one of the following: 213, 215, 216, 217, 218, or 219, and to others by permission of the instructor.

Ms. Furumoto

340 (2) Seminar. Applied Psychology

Topic for 1981-82: Organizational Psychology. To be effective in any organization it is crucial to have a working knowledge of how organizations and people within them function. This course will examine applications of psychological and managerial principle of problems encountered in work settings. Topics will include the impact of organizational systems on behavior, the use of power and influence, strategies for increasing productivity, motivation and morale, employee selection, training and development techniques, and the implementation of organizational change. Special attention will be paid to the role of women as managers and leaders. Prerequisite: same as for 317.

Ms. Harlan

345 (1) Seminar

The psychological interview. Consideration of the psychological interview as a conceptual and methodological approach to small-scale, intensive research. Focusing on the interview situation as a context in which to observe and analyze dyadic processes, verbal and nonverbal communication processes, and individual psychodynamic processes, the seminar will examine and test principles of psychological interviewing. Will include group laboratory work with videotape and individual student projects on selected developmental topics.

Open to juniors and seniors who have taken 101 and two Grade II units in psychology.

Not offered in 1981-82.

349 (2) Seminar. Selected Topics in Psychology

Topic for 1981-82: Nonverbal Communication. This course will examine the use of nonverbal communication in social interaction.

Emphasis will be on the systematic observation of nonverbal behavior, especially facial expression, tone of voice, personal space, gestures, and body movement.

Readings will include both scientific studies and descriptive accounts. Among the issues to be considered: the communication of emotion, cultural and gender differences in nonverbal communication in specific settings (e.g., counseling, educational situations, and interpersonal relationships).

Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two Grade II units in psychology.

Ms. Akert

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Open by permission to juniors and seniors.

370 (1-2) Thesis 2 to 4

Open only to honors candidates.

Prerequisite: 207R, 210R, 212R, or 214R [220R].

Directions for Election

A major in psychology must include 101; one of the following: 207, 208, 210, 211, 212; one of the following: 213, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, [245]; and 205.

The department offers four research courses: 207R, 210R, 212R, 214R, [220R]. A major in psychology must include at least one of these.

The department recommends that students plan a program in which 205, the research course, and preferably all Grade II requirements are completed as early in the program as possible and no later than the end of the junior year.

Students interested in an interdepartmental major in psychobiology are referred to the section of the Catalog where the program is described. They should consult with the directors of the psychobiology program.

Directions for Election

In a liberal arts college, the study of religion constitutes an integral part of the humanities and social sciences. Recognizing religion as an elemental expression of human life and culture, past and present, the department offers courses in the major religious traditions of the East and the West. These courses examine both the individual and the collective dimensions of religion and approach their subject from a variety of perspectives including historical and textual, theological and social scientific.

The total program of the major is designed around the principles of breadth and depth. To promote breadth, majors shall complete one course in each of three groups: Biblical, Western, and Asian. To insure depth, majors shall concentrate in a special field of interest. The structure of this concentration shall be determined in consultation with the advisor.

In individual cases, studies in the original language of religious traditions may be especially valuable. Hebrew and New Testament Greek are available in this department; Latin and Chinese are available elsewhere in the College. Majors interested in pursuing language study should consult the advisor to determine the appropriateness of such work for their program.

Directions for Election

Course 100 is counted toward the degree but not toward the major. Courses 201 and 202 are counted toward the distribution requirements in Group A and are strongly recommended to students who intend to major in Russian. However, only one of them may count toward the major. A major in Russian is expected to elect 249 or 205 in conjunction with 200, as well as three Grade III courses beyond Russian 300.

Students majoring in Russian should consult the chairman of the department early in the college career, as should students interested in an individual major which includes Russian.

History 246 and 247 are recommended as related work.

The study of at least one other modern and/or classical language is strongly recommended for those wishing to do graduate work in Slavic languages and literatures.

Attention is called to Religion 235 (1), 335 (1), 236 (2) and 336 (2).

Sociology

Professor:
Berger (Chairman)

Assistant Professor:
Anderson-Khleif, Imber, Silbey³

Instructor:
Cuba

102 (1) (2) Sociological Perspective

Introduction to the sociological perspective; its principal concepts, theories; its methodologies of examining human social behavior in relation to social institutions. The interconnection between the "micro" world of the individual and the "macro" world of social institutions.

Open to all students.

The Staff

103 (2) American Society

How the experience of being "American" has changed during the past century, from our agrarian roots to the foundations of the corporate state. Readings in local community studies and in social reports from de Tocqueville to the present which analyze American society in terms of an ideology of equal opportunity. Attention to populism, racial and class conflict, and social reform within the context of American Pragmatism.

Open to all students.

Mrs. Silbey, Mr. Cuba

111 (1) Family Sociology

The study of transition or change in the family system. Emphasis on the contemporary U.S. family but includes comparative material. Scandinavian family, Israeli kibbutz family, Middle East extended family, and Dutch family discussed as cross-cultural models for change. Topics include dating, family and work roles, marital relationships, contacts with kin, divorce, and single-parent families, singlehood, and alternative family forms.

Open to all students.

Mrs. Anderson-Khleif

120 (1) Urban Sociology

An examination and critique of various explanations for the causes and consequences of urban phenomena. The historical and sociological importance of the city; as an explanation of individual values and interactions; individual reactions to the urban environment.

Open to all students.

Mr. Cuba

The Staff

138 (2) Deviant Behavior

Deviance as an interactive process. Specific attention to the process of becoming deviant, societal reactions (both formal and informal) to deviant behavior, and the management and transformation of deviant identities.

Open to all students.

Mr. Cuba

200 (1) Sociological Theory

Sociology has been a very successful discipline. It has fundamentally influenced other fields of study as well as thinking about social life in all parts of the world. There is, therefore, an urgent need to understand what sociology is and how it goes about looking at the world as well as interpreting individual and social life. This course seeks to follow through the development of major sociological themes and theoretical positions from the Enlightenment to the present.

Prerequisite: 102 and one Grade I unit.

Mrs. Berger

201 (1) Social Statistics

An introduction to issues and techniques of statistical analysis. Descriptive, inductive, and multivariate statistics as ways of presenting and organizing data necessary for the development and testing of hypotheses, and for understanding current sociological research. Provides the necessary background for 302.

Prerequisite: one Grade I unit or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Cuba

207 (1) Criminology

How does crime differ from other forms of disapproved behavior and how do societies respond to this? Systematic examination of the meaning of crime and reactions to crime. Topics will include: theories regarding the cause of crime; nature and origins of criminal laws; extent and distribution of criminal behavior; societal reaction to crime through the criminal justice system, penology and corrections. Attention to the relationship between crime, punishment, and justice. Prerequisite: 102 or by permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Silbey

208 (1)* Demography

The analysis of population composition and change. Differential fertility, mortality, and migration of sociocultural groups are examined with reference to population theory and national policies. Attention is also given to urbanization, over-population, and environmental limits. Prerequisite: one Grade I unit or by permission of the instructor.

The Staff

209 (2) Social Stratification

The concept of social stratification is the core concept of sociology. This course will compare and contrast alternative theories of stratification in terms of: the impact of stratification on social behavior, values, and personality; changes in stratification systems over time, particularly in terms of industrialization; indicators of stratification; causes and consequences of mobility. These dimensions of stratification will be analyzed at the community, national, and international levels. Prerequisite: Sociology 102 or by permission of the instructor.

212 (2)* Sociology of Religion

Examination of the social dimensions of religion and the institutional interrelationship between religion and society. Sociological theories of religion, religious organization and behavior, religion and social change, and the processes of institutionalization and secularization. Special attention will be given to religion in America with wide use of comparative materials. Prerequisite: 102 or one Grade I unit.

The Staff

213 (2) Law and Society

What distinguishes law from other forms of social control? Do people obey laws because it is right or because they are compelled to? Is there a distinction between law and justice? What is the relationship between law and other social institutions, polity, family, and economy? Examination of features of legal systems and legal reasoning which makes law an available device for problem solving. Empirical study of the legal profession, jury system, relationship of law to social class and patterns of social change; the meaning of having one's day in court. Prerequisite: same as for 201.

Mrs. Silbey

215 (2) Sociology of Culture

Systematic analysis of the constitutive elements of contemporary culture; their impact on individual and society alike. The role of science, technology, bureaucracy, government and the mass media; questions of autonomy, rationality and irrationality, the theme of abstraction and the spirit of protest. Prerequisite: same as for 201.

Mr. Imber

224 (1)* Political Sociology and Social Movements

Analysis of the social basis of power and political action in modern societies. How does one's socially structured position influence political behavior, and is political action rooted in ideological structures or material conditions? Special attention given to the relationship between the "ways of being political" and structures of power and authority. Analysis of revolutions, political movements, as well as ordinary citizen activities. Prerequisite: 102 or by permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Silbey

225 (2) Sociology of Science

An examination of the social conditions of scientific development and controversy. The scientist as an individual who lives in political, social, intellectual, professional, and moral worlds. Other topics include: the interrelations of science, government and industry; sociobiology and IQ debates; the politics of science education and the ethics of science research. Prerequisite: 102 or by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Imber

229 (1) Organizations and Organizational Behavior

How do organizations operate? Why do people act the way they do inside organizational settings? Analysis of organizational structure, processes, and behavior. Topics include organizational roles, managerial ideologies, the individual in the organization, power, communication, effectiveness, decision making, conflict, recruitment, mobility, fast-tracking, risk taking, initiative, flexibility and rigidity in organizational structure, and organizational change.

Prerequisite: 102 or by permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Anderson-Khleif

231 (2) Society and Self

How can the individual be at once cause and consequence of society? Not only is the person a social product, but s/he is also clearly unique, and in turn helps shape and modify society. This course is concerned with the relationship between the individual and society, and the behavior of persons in groups. Ways in which groups and institutions aid or inhibit individual experience will be discussed.

Prerequisite: 102 or by permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Berger

300 (2)* Seminar. Sociological Theory and the Sociology of Knowledge

Analysis of topics in contemporary sociological theory. The relationships between thought and society; fundamental approaches to the critical analytical modes in the sociology of knowledge. The course will consider contributions from European and American sources. Focus varies with the instructor.

Prerequisite: 200 and one other Grade II course or by permission of the instructor.

The Staff

302 (2) Research Methods

An examination of the logic of survey analysis, from the development of hypotheses and construction of a survey instrument to the analysis and reporting of results. Emphasis is on field research experience; class participants work individually or collectively on the design and implementation of a research project of their choice.

Prerequisite: 201 or by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Cuba

311 (2) Seminar. Family Studies

Analysis of problems facing the contemporary U.S. family and potential policy directions. Discussion of the social meaning of income and the quality of family life. Emphasis on welfare, housing, the impact of work on family relations, day care, the elderly, the working poor, and delivery of services to families with special needs. Sweden studied as a comparative model for family policy. Prerequisite: one Grade II course, or permission of the instructor.

Spanish

Professor:
Lovett

Associate Professor:
Gascón-Vera (Chairman), Ben-Ur

Assistant Professor:
Villanueva

Instructor:
Levy³, Agosin³

Lecturer:
Renjilian-Burgy

Courses of the department are normally conducted in Spanish; oral expression is stressed.

The department reserves the right to place new students in the courses for which they seem best prepared regardless of the number of units they have offered for admission.

Qualified students may be recommended to spend the junior year in a Spanish-speaking country, either with the PRESHCO Consortium Program of Hispanic Studies in Córdoba, Spain, or a non-Wellesley program. See p. 37.

100 (1-2) Elementary Spanish 2

Introduction to spoken Spanish through directed conversation; stress on audio-lingual approach. Extensive situational-type drills. Language laboratory exercises. Three periods.

Open to students who do not present Spanish for admission.

The Staff

102 (1-2) Intermediate Spanish 2

Intensive review of grammar and language skills through practice in the classroom and with language laboratory exercises. Readings by contemporary Spanish and Spanish American writers. Emphasis on vocabulary building and oral and written expression. Three periods.

Prerequisite: two admission units in Spanish or 100.

The Staff

103 (1-2) Intensive Spanish 3

First semester: Concentrated introduction to spoken Spanish. Constant oral-aural practice, in class and in the language laboratory, builds an active facility with linguistic structures. Intensive vocabulary building through visual presentations, dramatizations, and short readings. Second semester: Increased emphasis on writing and on the reading of literary texts. Continued use of the audio-lingual method develops accuracy and fluency with the spoken language. Five periods per week.

Open by permission of the instructor to students who do not present Spanish for admission.

Not offered in 1981-82.

201 (1) (2) Oral and Written Communication

Practice in conversation and writing to increase fluency and accuracy in the use of idiomatic Spanish. Through frequent oral presentations and the use of audio- and videotapes, students develop their ability to use Spanish comfortably in various situations. Prerequisite: 102, 103, [199] or [200] or four admission units or permission of the instructor.

The Staff

202 (2) Linguistic and Literary Skills

A course to serve as a transition between language study and literary analysis; speaking and writing organized around interpretations of works by contemporary Hispanic authors; a review, at the advanced level of selected problems in Spanish grammar. Three periods. Open to students presenting three admission units, 102, 103, or 201.

Ms. Renjilian-Burgy

203 (2)* Modern Spanish Literature

From La Generación del '98 to the Spanish Civil War. Dominant themes and innovations in such authors as Unamuno, Valle Inclán, Baroja, A. Machado, García Lorca, Guillén, and Salinas. Offered in alternation with 204. Prerequisite: [199], [200], 201, or permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Gascón-Vera

204 (1)* Post-Civil War Spanish Literature

From 1936 to the present day. The struggle for self-expression in Franco's Spain and the transition from dictatorship to democracy. A study of the literary styles and accomplishments of contemporary authors: Miguel Hernández, Cela, Goytisolo, Gabriel Celaya, Martín Santos, and Blas de Otero. Offered in alternation with 203. Prerequisite: same as for 203.

Ms. Gascón-Vera

205 (1)* Freedom and Repression in Spanish American Literature

An introduction to the literature of the Spanish American countries with special focus on the tension between literary expression and the limiting forces of authoritarianism. The constant struggle between the writer and society and the outcome of that struggle will be examined and discussed. Close reading of poetry, chronicles, essay and drama. El Inca Garcilaso, Sor Juana de la Cruz, Rubén Darío, Gabriela Mistral, Pablo Neruda, Octavio Paz. Offered in alternation with 209. Prerequisite: same as for 203.

Study of representative authors such as Desnoes, Guillén, Fernández Retamar, Benítez. Films discussed may include "Memorias del subdesarrollo," "Lucía," "El super," and "Muerte de un burócrata." Prerequisite: same as for 301.

Ms. Renjilian-Burgy

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Open by permission, or to seniors who have taken two Grade III units in the department.

370 (1-2) Thesis 2 to 4

Open only to honors candidates.

Directions for Election

Course 100 is counted toward the degree but not toward the major.

Students who begin with 100 in college and who wish to major should consult the chairman in the second semester of their freshman year.

Students may choose to major either in Peninsular or Latin American literature. The Peninsular major should ordinarily include 201, 203 or 204, 206, 207 or 208, 301, 302, either 205 or 307, and at least one additional unit of Grade III literature in Spanish. The Latin American major should ordinarily include 201, 205, 209, 210 or 211, 306, 307, 206 or 302, and at least one additional unit of Grade III literature in Spanish. History 260 is recommended for the Latin American major; History 261 is recommended for the Peninsular major.

Individually planned majors in Latin American studies, which combine language and literature courses with a program of history, anthropology, political science, and economics courses, are encouraged.

Theatre Studies

Professor:
Barstow (Chairman)

Lecturer:
Levenson³

203 (2) Plays, Production, and Performance

The produced play considered as originally the creation of the dramatist but brought to completion in performance through the creative collaboration of producers, directors, designers, and actors.

Open to all students.

Mr. Barstow

205 (1)* Scene Study

Study of the performed scene as the basic building-block of playwright, director, and actor. Scenes from significant plays and scenes written for the course regularly rehearsed and performed for class criticism. Prerequisite: 203 or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Barstow

206 (1)* Design for the Theatre

Study of the designer's function in the production process through development of scale models of theatrical environments for specific plays. The models are evaluated in a series of juried critiques focusing on performance as a realization of the analytical interpretation of each play. Offered in alternation with 209.

Prerequisite: same as for 205. Majors are encouraged to take Art 100 and one or more of the following before taking 206: Art 105, 108, 209, 210.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Levenson

Offered in 1982-83.

208 (1)* Contemporary Theatre

Late 20th-century dramatists and production styles; plays, producers, designers, and actors significant in the development of contemporary theatre.

Prerequisite: 203 or permission of the instructor. Open to juniors and seniors without prerequisite.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Barstow

Offered in 1982-83.

209 (2)* Seminar. The Design of Lighting for Theatrical Production

Theory and technique of the lighting of performance as a major artistic component of theatrical production. Emphasis is on developing the analytical, organizational and technical skills necessary to the lighting designer. Offered in alternation with 206.

Prerequisite: same as for 205.

Mr. Levenson

210 (1-2)* History of the Theatre 1 or 2

Study of theatre structures, crafts, and practices with emphasis on acting and production styles as these relate to major developments in dramatic literature. One unit of credit may be given for either semester by permission of the instructor.

Prerequisite: same as for 205.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Barstow

Offered in 1982-83.

215 (1)* Shakespeare in the Theatre

Study of production of Shakespeare's plays in the theatre; particular attention to Elizabethan stagecraft and to contemporary production styles; emphasis on acting and directing. Reports, and scenes performed for class criticism.

Prerequisite: 203, and English 112, [215], or [305], [306], or 323, or 324.

Mr. Barstow

235 (1) Looking at Ballet

A history of ballet from the Romantic ballet of the 1830s to the present. Analysis of ballets by such choreographers as Petipa, Balanchine, and Ashton. There will be filmed and taped materials each week, along with lecture and discussion. When possible, lectures will be supplemented by field trips to dance performances in the Boston area. Open to all students.

Mrs. Temin

236 (2) Looking at Modern Dance

An analysis of modern dance focusing on what makes it "modern" and how it differs from ballet. Modern dance choreographers from Isadora Duncan and Ruth St. Denis to Martha Graham, Doris Humphrey, Paul Taylor, Merce Cunningham, and Twyla Tharp will be discussed. Frequent films and videotapes of modern dance will be supplemented when possible by field trips to dance performances in the Boston area. Open to all students.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mrs. Temin

Offered in 1982-83.

350 (1) (2) Research or Individual Study 1 or 2

Open by permission to qualified students.

Directions for Election

A student who wishes to pursue an interest in theatre should consult the chairman of theatre studies about course selection which will emphasize dramatic literature in English and foreign languages together with the history and philosophy of art and music.

A student who is interested in an individual major in theatre studies should see Interdepartmental Majors.

Extra-departmental

The following section includes several separate courses of interest to students in various disciplines.

Course may be elected to fulfill in part the distribution requirement in Group A

Course may be elected to fulfill in part the distribution requirement in Group B¹ or B² as designated.

Course may be elected to fulfill in part the distribution requirement in Group C

Extradepartmental Courses

100 (2) Tutorial In Expository Writing

An individual tutorial in writing, taught by juniors and seniors from a variety of academic departments. Requirements for the course include completion of weekly assignments in writing and revising; occasional reading assignments; weekly conferences with a student tutor; occasional conferences with faculty advisor. Mandatory credit/noncredit.

Open by permission of the class dean.

Mrs. Stubbs

106 (1) Introduction to Chinese Culture

An inquiry into the patterns and themes of China's culture by examining its history, philosophy, religion, literature, art and science. Particular themes will be explored through a series of historical topics. The patterns we will look for should help us answer questions such as: why did the Chinese Empire continue to exist for four millenia? why did Chinese philosophy develop in the direction of Maoist ideology? Classes in English.

Open to all students without prerequisite.

Mr. W. Liu

110 (1) (2) Introduction to Computer Programming and Computation

Introduction to the science of computation and problem-solving techniques in the BASIC programming language. Focus on the development of good programming style and experience with modern programming methodology in a range of application areas. The use of Wellesley's DECsystem-20 computer, and of editor programs and other system facilities; the FORTRAN language and the impact of computers on society.

Open to all students. No prior background with computers or mathematics is expected.

The Staff

112 (2)* Evolution: Change Through Time

Study of the concepts of evolution in the physical and biological world and their impact on man's view of himself, his place in nature, and his expectations for future change. Evidence for origins and change in the universe, the earth, and life forms. Consideration of the historical development of evolutionary concepts will provide the opportunity to examine the manner in which scientific concepts are formulated, revised, and restated; what it means to be "objective" in science; and the degree to which preconceived ideas affect what we observe, record, and accept in science. Two periods for lecture and a 3-period demonstration section. Meets the Group C distribution requirement as a nonlaboratory unit but does not count toward the minimum major in any Group C department.

Open to freshmen and sophomores; to juniors and seniors by permission.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Miss Webster, Miss Widmayer

114 (1)*2 Introduction to Linguistics

Designed to familiarize the student with some of the essential concepts of language description. Suitable problem sets in English and in other languages will provide opportunities to study the basic systems of language organization. Changes in linguistic methodology over the last century will also be discussed.

Open to all students.

Ms. Levitt

119 (2)* History of Science: Scientific Ideas and World Views

A course designed for students whose technical knowledge of science is limited, but who wish nevertheless to examine some of the scientific ideas which have shaped man's ideas of himself and his universe. Films from Jacob Bronowski's Ascent of Man series will provide a perspective for examining the contributions of such scientists as Newton, Darwin, and Einstein to the science of their time as well as to our own. Critical evaluation of the portrayal of scientific ideas and their impact in historical accounts, biography and film. (There will be film showings outside of class hours.)

Open to all students.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Miss Webster

120 (1) Introduction to Women's Studies

Examination of key works of literature and scholarship on women and the intellectual background of modern women's movements. Themes to be emphasized include (1) different definitions of male and female roles (2) recommendations for changes in established practice and attitudes and (3) women's cultural history.

Open to all students.

130 (2) Comparative Literature

Topic for 1980-81: Transformation of myths in ancient and modern literature. Study of several classical myths which form the basis of significant works of widely separated periods. Analysis of essential plots of myths. Comparative study of their adaptations by ancient as well as modern authors.

"Universal" appeal of the myths, and the effects of using traditional material in 20th-century literature. Readings available in translation, but students with reading knowledge of classical or modern languages will be encouraged to prepare in the original.

Open to all students.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mrs. Boedeker

141 (2) China on Film

West looks East through the camera's eye. Charlie Chan in Shanghai, Shirley MacLaine at the Great Wall, Pearl Buck on the Good Earth: a cinematic exploration of Western conception of 20th-century China. A broad selection of films, primarily documentary, will be analyzed in their historical context, supplemented by readings on both background material and film criticism. Focus on major shift of dominant Western opinion toward China. Films by Felix Greene, Antonioni, Rene Burri, Shirley MacLaine, Edgar Snow to be included among others. Course conducted in English. Discussion following each film showing. Short paper assignments through the course.

Open to freshmen and sophomores only; upperclass students by permission of the instructor.

Mr. W. Liu

211 (1-2)* Dante (in English) 2

An introduction to Dante and his culture. This course presumes no special background and attempts to create a context in which Dante's poetry can be carefully explored. It concentrates on the Divine Comedy and Dante's use of his literary and philosophical sources. The centrality and encyclopedic nature of the comedy make it a paradigmatic work for students of the Middle Ages. Since Dante has profoundly influenced some key figures of the 19th and 20th centuries, students will find that he illuminates modern literature as well. First semester may be elected independently, second semester may be elected independently by permission of the instructor.

Open to all students.

Ms. Jacoff

216 (2) Mathematics for the Physical Sciences

Mathematical preparation for intermediate and advanced physical science courses. Topics include: vector analysis; field theory, with the divergence and Stoke's theorems; ordinary and partial differential equations; Fourier series. Topics such as diagonalizing matrices and using statistical distribution functions included as time permits. No laboratory.

Prerequisite: Physics 104 or 105 or 110 or permission of the instructor and Mathematics 205 or [201] or [215].

Ms. Marshall

220 (2) Proust and the Modern French Novel

Psychology and aesthetics in works by Flaubert, Gide, Sartre, Beckett, and Robbe-Grillet, with emphasis on Proust's Remembrance of Things Past. Lectures, papers, and class discussion in English. Students may read the texts in French or in English translation.

Open to all students except those who have taken two or more Grade II courses in French literature.

Mr. Stambolian

222 (2) *2 Women in Contemporary Society

The legal, political, economic, and psychological issues affecting women. Special emphasis on women's work at home and in the paid labor force, their role in the family and in social change.

Prerequisite: Extrdepartmental 120, or a social science course, or by permission of the instructor.

226 (1) History of Science: Historical Foundations of Modern Science

A course designed for students who have completed their introduction to science and who wish to put some aspects of that knowledge into historical perspective, emphasizing the historical development rather than the textbook version of scientific ideas, and the context — historical, political, economic, and philosophical — of pivotal episodes. The latter will be selected as much as possible to reflect the interests of the students electing the course. With this introduction to history of science as a discipline and with several case histories from different sciences as models. Students will design research projects in the history of science reflecting their particular areas of interest and expertise. Students will present their projects orally and in final papers. Prerequisite: three units in Group C, at least one of which is with laboratory. Open to juniors and seniors, and to sophomores by permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Miss Webster

227 (2) Feminism, Anti-Feminism and Philosophy

Study of the range of feminist and anti-feminist theories developed in the course of Western history from Plato to the present. Emphasis will be placed especially on discovering what values and concepts underlie anti-feminist theories and attitudes. Some recent discussions of the possibility of changing traditional values and concepts so as to reflect women's equality will also be examined.

Open to all students without prerequisite.

Mrs. Janik

228 (2)*  Latin American Literature: Fantasy and Revolution

Aesthetic and sociopolitical problems in the works of contemporary Latin American writers, as seen by García Márquez, Cortázar, Paz, Donoso, and Neruda. Special attention will be given to the imaginative vision of Jorge Luis Borges.

Open to all students except those who have taken Spanish 306 and 307.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Ben-Ur

230 (1) (2) Information Structures and Algorithmic Techniques

An introduction to the PASCAL programming language and the theory and application of data structuring techniques. Topics include: internal data representations, abstract data types, stacks, recursion, pointers, list structures, trees and file storage. Prerequisite: Extrdepartmental 110 or permission of the instructor based on equivalent preparation elsewhere.

The Staff

231 (2) Interpretation and Judgment of Films

Close analysis of masterpieces of film art, drawn from the work of such directors as Eisenstein, Chaplin, Keaton, Dreyer, Ophuls, Welles, Bergman, Fellini, Godard, and Antonioni. Many short written assignments. Frequent screenings in the early part of the week of the film under discussion; students are required to see each film at least twice. Open to all students.

Not offered in 1981-82.

235 (1) An Introduction to Religion under Communism

A comparative study of the place of religion in the communist countries. This course ranges broadly over countries of widely different history, religious tradition and present state policies. Particular attention will be given to the USSR, Poland, Romania and Czechoslovakia, but there will be comparisons made with China, Albania and Bulgaria. The emphasis will be on the positive, even developing, role which religion continues to play in these societies. Open to all students.

Mr. Bourdeaux

236 (2) The Making of Eastern Europe, A.D. 500-1000

A study of the emergence, out of the travails of the barbarian invasions of the sixth and seventh centuries, of a community of states and nations owing much of their culture, and the ecclesiastical allegiance, to Byzantium. The character, and the growth, of this community in the ninth and tenth centuries. Emphasis will be placed on imperial diplomacy and on the missionary work of the Byzantine Church. Open to all students.

Mr. Obolensky

237 (2)* History and Structure of the Romance Languages

Open to students of French, Italian, Spanish, and Latin, this course deals with the development of the modern Romance languages from Vulgar Latin. Primary emphasis will be placed on examining this development from a linguistic point of view, stressing general principles of historical change. Some reading and comparison of early texts in each of the languages will also be included. Offered in alternation with 238. Prerequisite: Extrdepartmental 114 or by permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Ms. Levitt

238 (2)* Linguistic Analysis of Social and Literary Expression

An interdisciplinary course designed for students in the humanities and social sciences based on the application of linguistics to the analysis of language in its written and spoken forms. Emphasis on the ways literary styles are created, and levels of social expression are conveyed, by variations in the structural and semantic organization of language. Includes extensive study of women's language. Offered in alternation with 237.

Prerequisite: Extrdepartmental 114 or by permission of the instructor.

Ms. Levitt

240 (1) Organization of Computer Systems

An investigation of the issues that arise in the design of large and complex programming systems using Wellesley's DECsystem-20 computer as a model. Topics include: machine language programming, operating system principles and the programming methodology required to manage systems. Prerequisite: Extrdepartmental 230.

Mr. Roberts

241 (2)*  Chinese Poetry and Drama in Translation

A survey of Chinese literature of classical antiquity, with emphasis on works of lyrical nature. Readings include selections from Book of Songs, elegiac poetry of Ch'u Yuan and works by the great poets of the T'ang and Sung periods. The course concludes with the introduction to poetic drama of the Yuan Dynasty. Comparative analysis with other literature will be encouraged. Classes in English.

Open to all students without prerequisite.

Mr. Van Zoeren

242 (2)*  Chinese Fiction in Translation

A survey of Chinese narrative literature from the medieval period to the present. Readings include short stories from the T'ang Dynasty to the end of the Ming, selections from the great classic novels of the Ming and Ching Dynasties, and prose fiction by 20th-century authors. Discussions will focus on the different stylistic developments of high- and low-culture literature, the social significance of this literature, and the writer's perceptions of the customs, institutions, and conflict of his/her historical environment. Classes in English.

Open to all students without prerequisite.

Not offered in 1981-82.

245 (2)* Films and the Novel in Italy

An introduction to historical, political, and social aspects of post-war Italy; exploration of the interrelationship between Italian cinema and fiction in the development of both social realism and experimental modes of poetic expression. Emphasis on novels by authors such as Pavese, Calvino, Moravia, and Levi and analysis of films directed by Visconti, Rossellini, De Sica, Fellini, and Pasolini. Given in English. Students doing the reading and paper writing in Italian may count this course toward the major in Italian.

Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mrs. Ellerman

246 (2)*1 Ancient Medicine

A survey of medical practice in the Near East, Greece, and Rome focusing on the development of rational medicine under Hippocrates and the medical achievements of the Hellenistic era. Also, theories of physical and mental diseases and their consequences for later Western medical practice, doctor-patient relations, malpractice suits, the cult of the healing god Asklepios, and miracle cures.

Open to all students.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Engels

247 (2) Arthurian Legends

A survey of legends connected with King Arthur from the 6th century through the 15th with some attention to the new interpretations in the Renaissance, the 19th, and the 20th centuries. Special lectures by members of the medieval/renaissance studies program.

Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors.

Mr. Stehling

249 (2)* History of Italian Culture (in English)

This course is designed to supply a historical context in which certain major cultural movements and works of individual authors may be best studied. It follows a chronological order going from the 13th century up to the modern period, with particular attention to the historical periods of greatest cultural importance, such as the age of the city-state, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment, the Unification of Italy, Fascism and the Resistance. The readings will include analysis both of historical and literary texts. The course serves to integrate the curriculum of study offered by the Italian department but should also be useful to students in other fields.

Open to all students.

Mrs. Mattii

251 (1)*1 Ancient Science

A study of our Western scientific heritage from its origins to about 200 A.D. Egyptian and Babylonian mathematics and astronomy and their later transformation into deductive sciences by the Greeks. The boundary between non-science and science, the cultural values necessary for scientific development in the ancient world, early theories of biological and cultural evolution, conflicts among science, religion, and philosophy. Medical practices not included in this course.

Open to all students.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Engels

261 (2)* Theory of Programming Languages

A survey of the techniques used in the design of a modern programming language and in the implementation of programming language translators. Emphasizes the relationship of research in computer science to the problems of programming language translation and considers such questions as the theory of parsing, formal languages and their grammars, table-driven lexical analysis, code generation and optimization.
Prerequisite: Extrdepartmental 230.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Roberts

272 (2) Moral Theory and Moral Change

A study of the philosophical and practical conflict in the 18th and 19th centuries between those who make happiness the goal of morality and those who declare that happiness is irrelevant to morality. Diderot, Kant, George Eliot, Sidgwick and Kierkegaard will be the protagonists chiefly studied. Offered under the auspices of the Henry R. Luce Professorship in the academic year 1981-82.

Mr. MacIntyre

308 (1-2) Seminar for Materials Research in Archaeology and Ethnology 2

Explore the role of materials and technologies in the development of ancient societies and of the way in which scientific analysis of archaeological artifacts and monuments contributes to our understanding of the cultures that produced them. Focus on lithics and their identification and production. The history of lithic items after their manufacture by studying use wear patterns and weathering phenomena. The first semester seminar and laboratory work each week and the second semester will be devoted to laboratory projects by students under CMRAE faculty supervision.

Ms. Luedtke (MIT), Mr. Kohl

310 (2)* Mathematical Foundations of Computer Science

A survey of topics in the mathematical theory of computation. Includes material in the following areas: abstract automata theory, computability and decidability, computational complexity, recursive function theory and combinatorial algorithms on trees and graphs.
Prerequisite: Extrdepartmental 230 and Mathematics 206.

Mr. Roberts

331 (2) Seminar. The Theatre since 1945

Comparative study of the major innovative forms of contemporary drama from the works of Beckett, Brecht, and Artaud to the most recent theatrical experiments in Europe and America. New critical approaches and playwriting encouraged.

Open by permission of the instructor to juniors and seniors.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Mr. Stambolian

333 (2) Comparative Literature

Topic for 1980-81: Ideas of typology in the Bible and literature. Examination of certain basic typological structures established in the Old Testament and how the New Testament adopts and transforms them. Typology both as a historical phenomenon (why was it so important and ubiquitous?) and a theoretical one (what are its implications for theology, historiography, and hermeneutics?). Questions posed and answered in different terms by both texts and iconography in art and architecture. Readings from Vergil's Aeneid, Augustine's Confessions, Dante's Inferno and Purgatorio, and Milton's Paradise Lost. Readings available in translation, but students with reading knowledge of Latin or Italian encouraged to prepare in original languages.

Open to all students who have taken at least one unit of foreign language beyond the college requirement and one Grade II course in literature.

Not offered in 1981-82.

Miss Jacoff

334 (2) Seminar. The Autobiographical Impulse in Photography, Writing, and Speaking

An interdisciplinary study of the human desire to reveal, explore, and record the individual's self, body, and world. Attention will be given to the sources of this desire, the cultural factors that resist or shape it, the various languages and forms it adopts, and the personal and political uses to which it is put. Among the artists and thinkers studied are: Barthes, Beckett, Ingmar Bergman, Foucault, Freud, Violette Leduc, Rousseau, Lucas Samaras, Susan Sontag, Picasso, Proust, and selected photographers. Students will be required to complete a short autobiographical project.

Open to juniors and seniors by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Stambolian

335 (1) Church-State Relations in Communist Countries

This course seminar will concentrate mainly, but not exclusively, on the Soviet Union, paying attention to Catholic and Protestant traditions, as well as the Orthodox, demonstrating how each is affected by the political and legal system under which it lives. Prerequisite: Religion 235.

Mr. Bourdeaux

336 (2) Seminar. The Mission of Cyril and Methodius to the Slavs

A study of the origins, the course and the results of this ninth-century Byzantine Mission from original documents in English translation.

Open by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Obolensky

341 (1) Epistemological Crises

When an intellectual crisis disrupts some established mode of thought and practice, how are standards of knowledge and rational justification reestablished? Problems in the theory of knowledge will show the importance of this question for morality, science and philosophy.

Offered under the auspices of the Henry R. Luce Professorship in the academic year 1981-82.

Mr. MacIntyre

342 (2) Seminar. Moral and Political Philosophy and the Emergence of Modernity

A study of how moral and political philosophies, particularly those of Adam Smith and Hegel, contribute to the emergence of specifically modern social forms and conceptions of the individual, the state, liberty, justice and productive work.

Offered under the auspices of the Henry R. Luce Professorship in the academic year 1981-82.

Mr. MacIntyre

349 (2) Studies in Culture and Criticism

Topic for 1981-82: French literature and opera. Classic French stories, plays, and novels and their adaptation by French, Italian, and German librettists and composers.

Reading and discussion of a specific literary text precedes consideration of its transformation into an opera. The central issue is the manner in which narrative construction, dramatic characterization, mood, and style differ in prose fiction, dramatic literature, and opera. Texts by Perrault, Corneille, Beaumarchais, Prévost, Hugo, Dumas, Mérimée, Meyerlinck, Apollinaire. Operas by Rossini, Massenet, Mozart, Verdi, Bizet, Debussy, Puccini, and Poulenc.

Prerequisite: French 201, 202, 205 or 206, or by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Turk (Taught at MIT)

Experimental Courses

According to College legislation, the student-faculty Committee on Educational Research and Development has the authority to recommend experimental courses and programs to the Dean of the College. Faculty members and students are invited to submit their ideas to the Committee. There are three criteria for an experimental course or program: a) it should address a defined problem in education at Wellesley; b) it should test a set of conscious assumptions about learning (and the results of the test should be communicated openly); c) it should not fit easily into conventional departmental contexts. The following is the experimental course:

301 (2) Symbolism

In 1873, the English essayist and critic Walter Pater wrote: "All art constantly aspires towards the condition of music." On a number of occasions, both in essays and in interviews, the French poet Stéphane Mallarmé implied strong agreement with this statement of his English contemporary. This idea as part of an aesthetics that attempts to bridge the various arts, is an important part of the movement called Symbolism.

This course will attempt to elucidate the Symbolist concept of music as the model art, and to investigate ways of describing the relationships between the different arts through the study of some of the poetry, painting and criticism commonly designated as Symbolist, and through the study of some of the composers of the same period: above all Debussy, but also Mahler, Richard Strauss, Scriabin, and, as background, Wagner.

Open to juniors and seniors with some reading knowledge of French and music, (or any Grade I course in music), and to others only with permission of the instructor.

Cambridge Humanities Seminar

The Cambridge Humanities Seminar is a collaborative effort by universities in the Boston—Cambridge area to enrich and diversify their interdisciplinary offerings in the humanities at an advanced level. The program is centered at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and offers subjects to students in the humanities at participating institutions during the last two years of undergraduate and the first two years of graduate work, in an area of scholarship periodically determined by its membership. The program currently involves faculty in literature, history, philosophy, and fine arts. Its current subject is the idea of the past as it plays a role in the study of various cultural activities. All subjects have limited enrollment.

Semester I 1981-82

Issues in Literary Interpretation

Examination of the ways in which issues arising in the interpretation of dreams, folk tales, sacred texts, works of visual art, and primitive cultures have influenced the practice of interpreting literary and narrative texts. Readings include Freud, T.S. Eliot, Empson, Lévi-Strauss, Derrida, Barthes, Gombrich, Panofsky, Walter Benjamin.

Mr. Kibel (MIT)

American Television: A Cultural History

Television's evolution as a system of story-telling and myth-making, studied from anthropological, literary, and cinematic perspectives. The course centers on prime-time commercial broadcasting but also examines theoretical perspectives as well as the medium's technological and economic history.

Open by permission of the instructor.

Mr. Thorburn (MIT)

Semester II 1981-82

Problems in Twentieth-Century Art and Philosophy

Twelve major painters of the last 100 years, from Manet to Olitski, studied. Equal emphasis given to their stylistic development through a close study of individual paintings and to the critical issues raised by their work, especially as these issues relate to the history of Modernist thought. Readings include writings of the artists themselves, as well as relevant critical and philosophical texts. Same course as Philosophy 328.

Mrs. Stadler, Mr. Ablow (Boston University)

On Quality in Art

An exploration of recent and older attempts at formalizing critical and comparative judgments of works of visual art, tracing the subject back to its roots in the isolation during the 16th century of a distinct aesthetic realm, in order to investigate the extent to which objectivity of such judgment can be arrived at. Readings will be coordinated with analysis of art works to which they refer.

Authors include selections from Vasari, Winckelmann, Baudelaire, Burckhardt, Hildebrand, Meier-Graefe, Berenson, Roger Fry, Apollinaire, Breton, Focillon, Panofsky, Gombrich, Jacob Rosenberg, Rhys Carpenter, James Ackerman.

Mrs. Martin (Boston University)

Ideas of Progress and Perfection

The aim is to discover what exactly is at issue in discussions of the debts which the arts, sciences, and philosophies of the 20th century owe to their respective historical antecedents. The seminar will examine texts in the history of art, science, and philosophy with a view to clarifying the measure of agreement between different answers to the questions of what progress is and how it is to be assessed. Readings will include Gombrich, Lakatos, and Collingwood. Same course as Philosophy 327. Offered jointly with MIT 21.367.

Mrs. Stadler, Mr. Kibel (MIT)

The Theory and Practice of Metaphor

A "discovery course" tracing the function of metaphor in literature, the sciences, and human creativity in general. Theoretical analysis of metaphorical thinking as well as studies of the role of some specific metaphors in past and present will be included. Same course as Philosophy 304 or 201. Prerequisite: one Grade II course, preferably 200 or 201, or by permission of the instructor.

Mrs. Janik

Inter-departmental Majors

The College offers a number of established interdepartmental major programs. In addition, a student may design an individual major. All interdepartmental and individual majors must include at least four units of work in one department above the Grade I level, and at least two Grade III units. Some representative individual majors and courses available for them are included in this section.

American Studies

Director: Marini

American studies is a highly flexible, interdisciplinary program designed to illuminate varieties of the American experience. A wide selection of courses in different departments within the College may be taken for credit in the major. This flexibility enables students to develop individual programs of study. Students are encouraged to integrate diverse elements of American experience by working closely with their advisors and by taking courses which focus on what is enduring and characteristic in American culture.

Four courses in one department above the Grade I level and two Grade III units are required.

The following is a partial list of other courses available that may be included in an American studies major:

Classical Civilization

Director: Lefkowitz

Students who wish a classical civilization major can plan with the Departments of Greek and Latin an appropriate sequence of courses, which should include work in art, history, philosophy, and literature. Such a program should always contain at least four units in the original language. Basic knowledge of French or German is recommended.

The selections listed below are available for majors in classical civilization during 1981-82.

Classical and Near Eastern Archaeology

Director: Marvin

The purpose of a major in classical and Near Eastern archaeology is to acquaint the student with the complex societies of the Old World in antiquity.

The program for each student will be planned individually from courses in the Departments of Anthropology, Art, Greek, History, Latin, Philosophy, and Religion as well as from the architecture and anthropology programs at MIT. Certain courses in statistical methods, geology, and chemistry are also useful. The introductory course in archaeology (Anthropology 106) or its equivalent is required for all archaeology majors.

Students who concentrate in classical archaeology must normally have at least an elementary knowledge of both Greek and Latin. Students who concentrate on the ancient Near East must have knowledge of one ancient Near Eastern language and have taken Anthropology 344 which details the emergence of early urban societies, and Religion 203 which traces their later history.

Students should plan for at least one summer of excavation and travel. Scholarship aid for this travel is available from the Stecher Fund for qualified students. See p. 37.

French Studies

The major in French Studies offers students the opportunity to achieve oral and written linguistic competence, a good knowledge of France through study of its history, literature, arts and thought, and an understanding of contemporary French society.

Students will have further advantage of working closely with two advisors, one from French and one from another area of study, to devise and focus their programs. Programs are subject to the approval of the director.

Requirements: For the major, at least four units in French above the Grade I level are required. Of these, at least one shall be at the Grade III level, and at least one chosen from among the following: French 222, 308, or 309. All courses above French 102 may be counted toward the major in French Studies, except that both French 121-122 and 141-142 or both French 206 and 226 may not be counted.

For the major in French studies, two or more courses shall be elected from the following:

Italian Culture

Director: Jacoff

The major in Italian culture offers students the opportunity of becoming proficient in the language and of acquiring knowledge and understanding of Italy through the study of its art, history, literature, music, and thought.

The program for each student will be planned on an individual basis and is subject to the approval of the director. At least four units in Italian above the Grade I level, one of which shall be of Grade III level, must be included in the program.

Medieval/Renaissance Studies

Director: Cox, Fergusson

The major in medieval/renaissance studies enables students to explore the infinite richness and variety of Western civilization from later Greco-Roman times to the Age of the Renaissance and Reformation, as reflected in art, history, music, literature, and language.

Numerous opportunities for study abroad exist for those who wish to broaden their experience and supplement research skills through direct contact with European and Mediterranean culture. Majors who are contemplating postgraduate academic or professional careers should consult faculty advisors, who will assist them in planning a sequence of courses that will provide them with a sound background in the linguistic and critical techniques essential to further work in their chosen fields. Individual interests and needs can be accommodated through independent study projects carried out under the supervision of one or more faculty members and designed to supplement, or substitute for, advanced seminar-level work. Art 330 is the seminar recommended for majors in medieval/renaissance studies in 1981-82. Among the courses available for majors and prospective majors are:

Molecular Biology

Director: Levy

The Departments of Biological Sciences and Chemistry offer an interdepartmental major in molecular biology which gives opportunity for advanced study of the chemistry of biological systems.

In addition to two units of biochemistry (323 and 324 or [221] and [326]), the area of concentration consists of four units of chemistry which must include 211 and 231; five units of biology (110 or [101], 111 or [100], 200, 205, and one Grade III unit with a scheduled laboratory taken at Wellesley excluding 350 or 370); Physics 104, 105, or 110; and Mathematics 116 [111] or the equivalent. Students should be sure to satisfy the prerequisites for the Grade III biology course.

Psychobiology

Directors: Koff, Eichenbaum

The Departments of Psychology and Biological Sciences offer an interdepartmental major in psychobiology which provides opportunity for interdisciplinary study of the biological bases of behavior.

A major in psychobiology must include Psychology 101 and 205, Biology 110 and 111, and Psychobiology 213, and either Psychology 214R or Biology 214. In addition, majors must elect at least one Grade II course from each department, and two relevant Grade III courses from either department, or their equivalents, subject to approval by the directors of the program.

It is recommended that students plan a program in which the core sequence (first six courses) be completed as early in the program as possible, and no later than the end of the junior year.

Individual Majors

Students who are interested in interdisciplinary work may design an individual major, in consultation with two faculty advisors. The program for the individual major is subject to the approval of the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction. In setting up guidelines for the individual major, committee hopes to extend the possibility for a major which crosses traditional departmental lines to those students who could most benefit from such a major and to assure suitable guidance to the student in selecting appropriate courses for the major. The program for the individual major should include four units in one department above the Grade I level, and two Grade III units.

The majors and suggested courses listed below are representative of the more established programs.

East Asian Studies

Directors: Cohen, Lin

A student who is interested in an East Asian Studies major may take a minimum of Chinese language work or none; and may check Chinese Studies Interdepartmental major for suggested course list and add courses as follows:

Language Studies

Director: Levitt

The major in language studies offers students who are interested in the field of linguistics the opportunity for interdisciplinary study of questions relating to the structure, history, philosophy, sociology and psychology of language.

The program for each student will be individually planned and subject to the approval of both advisors and director. Four courses in one department above the Grade I level and two Grade III units are required.

Students are urged to consult the MIT catalogue for additional offerings for the major. Courses given by the visiting Luce Professor may also be relevant.

Theatre Studies

Director: Barstow

The major in theatre studies offers opportunity for study of the theatre through its history, literature, criticism, and related arts and through the disciplines of its practitioners; playwrights, directors, designers, actors, and producers.

The student's program in the major may be adapted to individual interests. Focus may be on the theatre and a national dramatic literature, on the theatre and related arts, or, within the general demands of the curriculum, a variety of emphases may be evolved, including work in such areas as philosophy, history, psychology, sociology, and religion.

Theatre Studies 203 and both semesters of Theatre Studies 210 are required for the major. At least four units above Grade I normally should be elected in a literature department (English, French, German, Greek and Latin, Italian, Russian, or Spanish), with emphasis on dramatic literature. At least two units above Grade I normally should be elected in art or music. Two of the six units thus specified (or their equivalents) must be Grade III.

Students electing to design a major in theatre studies normally will take at least one resident semester of concentrated work in the discipline either with the National Theater Institute at the Eugene O'Neill Theater Center in Waterford, Connecticut, or at another institution in the Twelve College Exchange Program, to supplement and enrich their work at Wellesley.

Since developments in the theatre arts are the results of stage experiments, and because the theatre performance is an expression of theatre scholarship, it is expected that theatre studies majors will elect to complement formal study of theatre history and theory with practical experience in the extracurricular production program of the Wellesley College Theatre.

In addition to the offerings of the Theatre Studies Department, the following courses are specifically relevant to the individual major in theatre studies:

Urban Studies

Director: Case

A major in urban studies may be designed by students in consultation with two faculty advisors, representing different departments. Each program is subject to the approval of the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction.

The program should include a minimum of four units in one department above the Grade I level. Moreover, at least two of those units must be at the advanced (Grade III) level. This concentration is to provide majors with a sound disciplinary background and to equip them for further academic or professional work. Such concentration usually occurs within the Departments of Anthropology, Art, Black Studies, Economics, History, Political Science, Psychology, or Sociology.

Students should note carefully the course prerequisites set by each department. It is also strongly recommended that majors elect basic methodology courses in their field of concentration (e.g., Economics 211; Political Science 249; Sociology 201, 202 sequence, etc.). This focus will provide techniques and tools of analysis pertinent to a discipline perspective on urban processes and/or policy.

The interdisciplinary approach, based on particular student interests, may emphasize urban problem-solving and public administration, urban design, urban education, or the urban environment. An understanding of the processes which create and sustain urban systems should be at the core of an urban studies major.

Students are also encouraged to apply for experientially based programs such as the Urban Politics Summer Internship, programs sponsored by the Office for Careers, and to elect Political Science 318 (Field Research Seminar in Public Policy) and Sociology 329 (Internship Seminar in Organizations). Additional opportunities for courses and field work are available through MIT cross-registration.

Women's Studies

Directors: Gouda, Janik, Ward

Faculty Advisors: Amott (Economics), Anderson-Khleif (Sociology), Ben-Ur (Spanish), Berger (Sociology), Brown (Physics), Campbell (Mathematics), Clinchy (Psychology), Darling (Black Studies), Friedman (Art), Gouda (History), Hules (French), Janik (Philosophy), Jones (History), Koff (Psychology), Lefkowitz (Greek and Latin), Magraw (Physical Education), Merry (Anthropology), Roberts (Computer Science), Robinson (History), Schechter (Political Science), Schiavo (Psychology), Silbey (Sociology), Solomon (Psychology), Van Dyke (English), Ward (German).

A major in women's studies offers the opportunity for the interdisciplinary study of women's experience as it is reflected in history, the humanities and social sciences. An understanding of the new intellectual frameworks contributing to a reevaluation of the models and theories which have conditioned thought about women and men should be at the core of the women's studies major.

Beginning with the Class of 1983, a major in Women's Studies must include Extradepartmental 120, Introduction to Women's Studies, and at least one of the following: Extradepartmental 222, Women in Contemporary Society, Philosophy 227, Feminism, Anti-Feminism and Philosophy, or Black Studies 230, Black and Third World Women. In addition the program should include a concentration in one department: four units above the Grade I level and two units of the major at the advanced level (Grade III). These may include individual study in 350 or 370 courses. It is strongly recommended that majors elect basic method and theory courses in their field of concentration.

Students design their programs in consultation with two faculty advisors, one of whom should be from the department of concentration. The directors are available for preliminary consultation and referral to the other faculty advisors.

The following courses are available in women's studies. Other courses are available each semester through cross-registration with MIT.

National Development Fund Committee

The National Development Fund Committee sets policy and provides leadership for all efforts to seek voluntary financial support of the College. Wellesley welcomes all gifts in support of its educational and charitable missions. The generous contributions of alumnae, friends, and parents provide the means by which the College is able to maintain the standards of excellence which are the hallmark of a Wellesley education.

For 1981-82 the members of the National Development Fund Committee are as follows.

Travel Instructions

If you arrive by plane:

MBTA (subway)

Take the shuttle bus (50¢) at the terminal to the Airport MBTA stop, then take an inbound car to Government Center (MBTA Blue Line) (75¢). Go upstairs and change to a car marked "RIVERSIDE-D" on the Green Line. Get off at Woodland (the second-to-last stop).

From there you have two options;

- (1) Take the bus marked "Framingham via Wellesley" (it leaves Woodland at 15 minutes past the hour) and ask the driver to let you off at Wellesley College (50¢). The bus will stop in front of Cazenove Hall, a short walk from Green Hall.

- (2) Take a taxi ($7.00). If necessary, call Wellesley Community Taxi at 235-1600.

Allow about two hours for the trip to the College from the Airport by public transportation. Be sure to have plenty of change! Exact fare is required on bus and subway systems.

Taxi

The taxi cost from Logan Airport is $22.10 if you call the following number when you arrive to arrange a pick-up. (There is a small additional charge when more than three people share a cab) Wellesley Community Taxi Service/7:00 a.m.-11:00 p.m./235-1600. (Other taxi arrangements will cost substantially more.)

If you arrive by train:

Get off at SOUTH STATION. Take the Red Line to Park Street (75¢). Change to a car marked "RIVERSIDE-D" on the Green Line and get off at Woodland. Follow the above directions from Woodland to the College.

If you arrive by bus:

Grayhound

Get off the bus at the RIVERSIDE terminal (a stop prior to Boston). From there, take a taxi to Wellesley College ($7.00). If necessary, call Wellesley Community Taxi at 235-1600.

Trailways & Peter Pan

Get off at the FRAMINGHAM/NATICK terminal—Speen Street (a stop prior to Boston). From there, take a taxi to Wellesley College ($7.00). If necessary, call Wellesley Community Taxi at 235-1600.

If you drive:

From the West

Take the Massachusetts Turnpike to the Weston Exit. Then go south on Route 128 for one-half mile to the Route 16 Exit. Follow Route 16 West to the entrance to the College, opposite the golf course (you will drive through the Town of Wellesley).

From the East

Take the Massachusetts Turnpike to the West Newton Exit. Follow Route 16 West to the entrance to the College, opposite the golf course (you will drive through the Town of Wellesley).

From the North

Take Route 128 South to Route 16 West Exit. Follow Route 16 West to the entrance to the College, opposite the golf course (you will drive through the Town of Wellesley).

From the South

Take Route 128 North to the Route 16 West Exit. Follow Route 16 West to the entrance to the College, opposite the golf course (you will drive through the Town of Wellesley).
